The Dime Novel Did it.

The crime of murder overhanging the two boys who saw the old man Powell Sunday night, is the direct outcome of their lives and of their reading. The boys state that they have for years spent their spare time reading nickle and dime detective novels, and were anxious to follow in their footsteps of some of the characters there portrayed, and started out and now see their end in the penitentiary. The boys look as though they were moral degenerates, not just of one generation, but the result of degenerate and criminal parents, and show in their faces their criminal instincts. Whether or not they are, their career of crime stands at the door of the dime novel reading life. Such books have brought more crime to America than anything else. They are one of the most baneful productions allowed to be scattered broadcast to reap their whirlwind of crime by our government. They should be prohibited from publication, and the writers of such stories put under sentence as well as the boys, who get their motives from such books. The crime would be laid at their doors, just as much if not more than to the boys.

SALEM, OREGON.

Ready to do Business in Making Paint

The Oregon Sienna Paint Company is about ready to grind. In truth it has already been grinding, in a small way, and is preparing to enlarge its operations. They have already a burr grinder and mixer, and they are adding a roller grinder and an improved mixer, besides other new machinery all the latest and best.

The Oregon Sienna Paint Company occupies the building on Trade and High streets, that was formerly the Lehmann sash and door factory.

They have a twenty horse power electric motor to run their machinery. They have a new French burr grinder, which is used for crushing. Then the sienna goes into a double set of rollers 24 inches long and 8 inches in diameter. Thence it is conveyed to the third floor, with a double elevator, to a sifter bolter with twelve drawers—covered with wire silk cloth. The sienna that comes from the crusher goes through the first set of rolls and the first six series of the bolter. All that is not fine enough from the first set comes back from the first six set of sieves to the second set of rolls and back into the second six series of the bolter. Thence it goes into the bins, which are numbered, to take the different colors. The bins hang beneath the third floor, so they can drain off from each bin the different colors. The sienna goes from the bins to the mixer, then to a soap stone grinder, and finally into the paint blenders for the different colors. At last the paint is put into cans, from one pint to five gallons; sealed and labeled with a guarantee of the company each can being numbered true to color.

The sienna in its raw state comes from four miles north of Cottage Grove in Lane county, two miles west of Walker; where the company now owns and controls sixty-two acres, which has sienna averaging forty-five feet deep and in which there are forty-two distinct colors.

There is a carload of raw sienna in the Salem factory now, ready for grinding, as soon as all the new machinery is installed, which will be within a few days, or at the latest a few weeks. Six or seven more cars will follow, this month and next. It is shipped in sacks.

D. H. Weyant, one of the principal stockholders, has charge of the Salem factory. He is working hard as he has all along. He is assisted by U. J. Lehmann, who is also interested in the company, and who will remain with the enterprise.

Mr. Weyant says the orders for the paints are already larger than can be filled immediately, and he expects that they will have all the people know that they have a strictly first class product.

He expects to make the enterprise a great success and to do it right here in Salem, to the everlasting benefit and credit of this city. This factory will employ a few men from the start, and there is no doubt that the number will be gradually increased.—Salem Statesman.

GALVESTON'S SEA WALL.

Makes life now as safe in that city as on the higher uplands. E. W. Goodloe, who resides on Dutton St., in Waco, Tex., has no sea wall for safety. He writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption the past five years, and it keeps me well and safe. Before that time I had a cough which for years had been growing worse. Now it's gone." Cures chronic coughs, laryngitis, croup, whooping cough, and prevents pneumonia. Pleasant to take. Every bottle guaranteed at Benson's Pharmacy. Price 50 cents and $1. Trial bottle free.

Walter L. Tooze will open a hop office in Portland and enter into the hop brokerage business on an extensive scale. Frank Page of Eugene will be associated with him.—Woodburn Independent.

Robert Suitor.

Vancouver, Wash., Aug. 4—

Robert Suitor, one of the most energetic business men that Oregon has ever possessed, died at Vancouver, July 25. He was born September 5, 1844, in County Megantic, Province of Quebec, being of Scotch-Canadian descent, and possessing the indomitable energy, noble character and intelligence characteristic of the race.

Early in life he was connected with the Canadian army, being a sergeant in the Fifty-fifth Battalion. He left the army to enter the lumber business, and was for years foreman and superintendent of a sawmill, flouing mill and woolen mill combined.

He came to the United States in 1875, building and operating a sawmill in New Hampshire, and later entering business in Omaha, Neb. He came to Oregon in 1887, and his first work here was building the pulpit work in the Grace Methodist Church of this city.

For two years he followed contracting and building in Portland, and then moved to Dallas, Polk county, and built a sawmill near Falls City, which he operated during the hard times in the '90s, making a great financial success, when most other mills were either operated at a loss or forced to suspend.

In 1896 his entire plant was destroyed by fire, and although he carried no insurance, with the courage which was characteristic of him he selected a better site in Dallas, and built a larger and better mill. This he sold in 1900 and bought a mill at Westport, Or., which he later sold to advantage, and organizing a stock company, he built the fine mill at Linnton, Or., and conducted that as president and manager, until the company disposed of it to the Clark & Wilson Lumber Company, which took charge of the plant in January, 1905.

Mr. Suitor had just arranged to erect a large flouring mill at Vancouver, Wash., having the machinery all ordered and construction work ready to commence, when, in the presence of his wife and youngest son, he suddenly passed away, heart failure being the cause.

Mr. Suitor was a man of strong convictions of ceaseless energy and persistency. Whatever he commenced he carried to completion. He was as true to his friends as he was to himself; nor did he forget the stranger and the needy. His his generosity was almost boundless. He was a staunch republican in politics. He was an Oddfellow and member of the Dallas Lodge, being taken back to their cemetery for interment.

Mr. Suitor was a prominent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was an earnest friend of her ministers and took great pleasure in entertaining them at his home. On the day of his death, when feeling somewhat indisposed, he almost constantly hummed to himself, as was his habit when his mind was not too full of business, the old songs of salvation, and even to within a few minutes of his death, the family heard him humming his favorite hymn.

Mr. Suitor was twice married. His first wife was Miss Catherine King, whom he married in 1863 in Canada, and she died in 1880, leaving five sons and two daughters. In 1882 he married Miss Susie McAdam, of Grand Forks, N. D., and one son was the result of this marriage.

Besides a large circle of friends who deeply mourn his demise, he left his widow, Mrs. Susie Suitor, one daughter, Mary Suitor, of Barre, Vt., and five sons, Thomas, of North Dakota; R. A. and A. O., of Oregon; Alexander, of California; and H. D., of Vancouver, Wash.—Oregonian.

Flower Carnival.

The ladies of the Commercial Club have decided that now is the time to have their flower show and to award the prizes for the best growing of sweet peas, flowers of all kinds, for model gardens, etc. All week the award committee has been going around inspecting the children's gardens, and their flowers and on Saturday afternoon all the children who wish to have entries for the cut flower contest, should bring in their flowers, arranged in bouquets, with the name of the raiser attached to the bouquet. Everybody is invited to send in flowers to be used for decorations and for display purposes. The show will be held in the Commercial Club rooms, and from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m. the rooms will be open for the public to inspect the display. Come on and all see what the children have done. While the flowers are not as fine this year as in some years, yet the ladies are agreeably surprised, and decided it was only fair to the children that after all their work they have the awards, even if the display was not what it would have been under different weather conditions. A time back the ladies thought it would be best not to have such a show, but have now made the above arrangements, as planned at first. They will award prizes same evening the prizes offered for the different displays.

To Republicans

We are anxious to have every republican in close touch, and working in harmony with the Republican National Congressional Committee in favor of the election of a republican congress.

The congressional campaign must be based on the administrative and legislative record of the party, and, that being so, Theodore Roosevelt's personality must be a central figure and his achievements a central thought in the campaign.

We desire to maintain the work of this campaign with popular subscriptions of one dollar each from republicans. To each subscriber we will send the Republican National Campaign Text Book and all documents issued by the committee.

Help us achieve a great victory. James S. Sherman, Chairman. P. O. Box 2063, New York.

J. I. Jones is having his wheat east of town threshed this week. The mill is greatly pleased over the fact that the wheat crop this year is not only much larger, but of better quality and much cleaner than it has been heretofore.

J. M. IREMAN,

An old man, a socialist speaker, was in town Monday night, and tried to excite some interest in Socialism, by making an address on Main street, but before he got very far along a crowd of men effectually shut him up by their shouts and taunts. He was very earnest in his talk, but did not become very violent in his statements. He finally gave up in disgust.
