OLD GHARD SLAVE PAY.

Discovery Made by Submarine Workers.

Philadelphia, March 15. — A submarine crew at the Philadelphia Navy Yard have made a discovery which has been termed curious. This was the finding of a human skeleton, which is believed to be a slave, dated to the early 1800s. The remains were discovered during a routine inspection of the submarine's hold, and they are now being examined by experts to determine their age and condition. The discovery has raised questions about the history of slavery in the United States and has sparked interest among historians and researchers.
