Vol. IX. COTTAGE GROVE, LANE COUNTY, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1907.

NO. 4

The Editor.

Cottage Grove grows right ahead.

Oregon town and cities that are growing rapidly. At the rate at which these towns are growing, a year from now many streets in these towns will be nearly covered with new buildings. The Oregon State Capitol in Salem, which has been under construction for several years, is now nearing completion. The building will be ready for occupation in a few months. The completion of this gigantic project will add greatly to the attractiveness of Salem as a city.

In Cottage Grove, the commercial development is progressing rapidly. Many new businesses have opened their doors in recent months, and the town is becoming more and more a center of trade and commerce.

The city fathers of Cottage Grove have given much attention to the improvement of the streets and public buildings. The streets have been widened and paved, and new streets have been opened. The city hall, which is being built, is expected to be completed in a few months.

In Cottage Grove, the demand for real estate is increasing rapidly. Many new homes have been built, and new ones are being constructed.

The Cottage Grove Reporter, which serves this community, has been growing in circulation and influence. The newspaper is well respected throughout the county.

The Cottage Grove Reporter is published every Wednesday by M. K. Campbell.
