THE EYE AND ITS CARE

By Dr. Frank Lloyd Hart. Houston 13 CHRISTIAN BUDDING. EUGENE.

In this last article upon the subject there are a few important items which we especially desire to remember.

The importance of having your eyes examined by a competent Doctor. When you have symptoms of eye troubles, especially as they affect your ability, you should have your eyes examined by a competent doctor. And if your eyes are red and painful, do not attempt to diagnose your own condition.

The necessity of remaining always in the same line of treatment. The natural tendency of the eyes is to give the same treatment that has been given them in the past. And it is in the interest of the patient to follow the same course of treatment that has been prescribed.

Our suggestions that the patient continues in his treatment, as long as possible, to prevent further complications.
