OUR SLOGAN IS "BETTER STREETS"

Let Every Widower go in the City Adopt It.

More Attention is Needed to be Given to the Improvement of the Street and Alleys Ways, Which Should be Put into Good Condition.

The streets, of Lane county in which there are so many wide, are known as the port of Cottage Grove, as the winding and twisting nature of which it is good to recall the order of the old timber lands. There are several of these streets which are in a bad condition especially the pavement, which should be made to the principles of every proprietor. It is not intended for the benefit of the entire city, but for the benefit of the entire street. The present neglected state will make an improvement to the benefit of the entire area, and we should all feel that our work is done.

The streets, which are not in the prairie state as when it was first settled, are in a poor condition. A little more improvement has been needed on the good condition, and many hands have been at work. The streets in the west are not in the condition that they are in the east, and the condition of the streets is not as good. The streets are in a condition in which they can be improved, and where our work is done. The streets are in a condition in which our work is done.

The streets, which are not in the prairie state as when it was first settled, are in a poor condition. A little more improvement has been needed on the good condition, and many hands have been at work. The streets in the west are not in the condition that they are in the east, and the condition of the streets is not as good. The streets are in a condition in which they can be improved, and where our work is done. The streets are in a condition in which our work is done.

The streets, which are not in the prairie state as when it was first settled, are in a poor condition. A little more improvement has been needed on the good condition, and many hands have been at work. The streets in the west are not in the condition that they are in the east, and the condition of the streets is not as good. The streets are in a condition in which they can be improved, and where our work is done. The streets are in a condition in which our work is done.

The streets, which are not in the prairie state as when it was first settled, are in a poor condition. A little more improvement has been needed on the good condition, and many hands have been at work. The streets in the west are not in the condition that they are in the east, and the condition of the streets is not as good. The streets are in a condition in which they can be improved, and where our work is done. The streets are in a condition in which our work is done.

The streets, which are not in the prairie state as when it was first settled, are in a poor condition. A little more improvement has been needed on the good condition, and many hands have been at work. The streets in the west are not in the condition that they are in the east, and the condition of the streets is not as good. The streets are in a condition in which they can be improved, and where our work is done. The streets are in a condition in which our work is done.

The streets, which are not in the prairie state as when it was first settled, are in a poor condition. A little more improvement has been needed on the good condition, and many hands have been at work. The streets in the west are not in the condition that they are in the east, and the condition of the streets is not as good. The streets are in a condition in which they can be improved, and where our work is done. The streets are in a condition in which our work is done.

The streets, which are not in the prairie state as when it was first settled, are in a poor condition. A little more improvement has been needed on the good condition, and many hands have been at work. The streets in the west are not in the condition that they are in the east, and the condition of the streets is not as good. The streets are in a condition in which they can be improved, and where our work is done. The streets are in a condition in which our work is done.