Council Meeting.

On Monday evening the city council met in regular session the mayor and councilmen all being present.

The minutes of previous, regular and special meetings were read and approved. A petition was read from J. T. DeSpain asking permission to remove the wooden stand now occupying a position on the corner of Main and Third street to a location east of the depot. The petition was denied.

A remonstrance from property owners on Fifth street regarding the laying of a sewer along the east side of said street was read. This caused a lengthy discussion and was declared out of order from the fact that a former petition for said sewer had been allowed and bid-advertised for and that those signing the remonstrance had slept on their rights in the case and had not filled the requirements of the law and ordinance. The remonstrance was therefore laid on the table indefinitely.

A bid for the construction of a sewer on Fifth street from Mr. Hart was opened and the contract awarded to him for the sum of $863.04.

Report of the city clerk showed that collections had been made for the quarter amounting to $674.26.

Report from the street committee regarding the improvement of River street led to a long discussion which brought out the fact that the order for improvement of said street was defective inasmuch as it referred to River street as being a part of the old Territorial road, which it is claimed by those objecting to the improvement was not correct. City Engineer Mr. Lincoln Taylor was asked for his opinion, who stated that for forty years the street in question had been used as a public highway and known as River street, but he did not think that it was the old Territorial road. A motion was therefore made to reconsider the order for improvement and erase the words "Territorial road" which carried.

Looking for Oregon Fruits.

The agent of a big fruit-importing house of London is touring Oregon, inspecting orchards to ascertain the character of the coming crop. He spent much time in McCallum valley and Hood River. He continues his trip through Washington till Vancouver, British Columbia, is reached, when he will return to England.

The incident is significant of the importance of Oregon and other coast states as a factor in the fruit production of the world. Fourteen thousand miles of journey to ascertain the condition and prospect of the crop means that the state's fruit product are in the world's eye. It means that Oregon apples and other fruits weigh heavily in the balance when computations for the season's crops are to be made. It means that the wedge has entered, and that it will be easy for Oregon growers, by skill in production and care in marketing, to drive it home and keep it there. It is universal testimony that, in quality, no other apple is the equal of that grown in Oregon. Others may be as large, but nowhere do they have the superb coloring, or the delicate fiber and flavor characteristic of the Oregon product.—Portland Journal.
