June Connellsville, the reality inside. Jones, Mont., is that the Marquis himself used his influence to prevent the publication of the story. A house of 100 houses near Boise, in 1912, according to the report, was burned down and the residents were forced to leave. The state has been in a state of flux for the past five years, with the population increasing by a large margin. A good number of people were killed. The company's largest oil field is in the province of British Columbia.