ROOSEVELT'S UNPOPULARITY.

A gentleman who has been traveling in the South writes to the Eastern papers that he has visited every Southern state sampling political sentiment, and says that it is pretty much all for Taft—provided Roosevelt cannot be induced to run again. Practically all with whom he talked favored the president's re-nomination.

"And this is the universal sentiment," says the Pendleton Tribune. "No president for a hundred years has been so popular in every section and in every state, as is Roosevelt at the present time. The confidence in him by the people is unbounded, as his struggles for the curbing of inroads of the trusts and big corporations appeals to their sense of justice. Roosevelt stands for the rights of the people, has been aggressive along the lines of discretion, and without question is sincere in his undertakings. He has undoubtedly made mistakes and is guilty of some inconsistencies, but his critics cannot very well themselves claim immunity from the frailties of mankind."

"The labor organizations now are raising the wages and shortening the hours and as a consequence the contractors are raising their prices to such an extent that it is only a matter of time when work will cease, as no one can pay for improving his property. Followed to its logical conclusion it is found that the farmer, or the real producer, pays it all. He is at the mercy of the cutthroat organizations of all kinds and but a fractional part of him is organized.—Forest Grove Times.

While it must be admitted that the above is true to a greater or less degree, we would remind the writer that the price of everything the farmer raises has kept pace pretty well with the advance in the price of labor in most lines. He is getting a better price for all of his products that he has to ship, and all the necessities, such as garden vegetables, eggs, butter and so forth, that finds its market direct to the consumer—the laboring class to which the above excerpt alludes—are largely increased through the result of these union organizations. In fact very few trades are paying their labor anything like the percent of raise that has been made in most of the necessities of life, and the farmers, even though unorganized—if we might except the Grange organization—are vastly the more benefitted by the agitation for higher pay and less hours carried on by the trade unions.

Haywood has been declared not guilty, and the verdict was celebrated in Portland, by his anarchist admirers holding a ratification meeting at which occasion a picture of President Roosevelt was displayed and made a butt for ridicule and insult, while beside it hung a portrait of Haywood decorated with red ribbons, the anarchist color. It was torn down, however, by an American citizen. If these foreign scabs are to be allowed to hold their meetings they should be compelled to do so under the folds of the Stars and Stripes and should be forced to respect it.

Jimmy Britt, the pugilist "Native Son" of California, is now on the way to be the champion light weight fighter of the world, by winning the twenty-round contest with Battling Nelson at San Francisco, last week. He will now be matched with Gans, and if he defeats him can wear the laurels of the champion.

The commissioner of the general land office has decided that in the State of Oregon women may make application to file on government lands any time after reaching the age of 18 years.

Henry Schaefer, of Portland, was given fifteen strokes of the lash for wife beating, and he fainted away. The strokes should have been continued until he revived.

The towns that win out and become cities are the ones that hustle for the establishment of new enterprises that furnish employment to labor.

The State of Washington appropriated $1,000,000 for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

What it Would Mean to us to Have a Library.

A public library in our community would be an influence for good every day in the week.

It would make the town more attractive to the class of people we want as residents and neighbors.

It would mould the characters of the children in our homes.

A good library would get gifts from wealthy citizens. No other public institution offers so fitting an opportunity for a public-spirited citizen to help his neighbors and win their approval and affection.

A library would be the center of our intellectual life and would stimulate the growth of all kinds of clubs for study and debating.

It is a great part of our education to know how to find facts. No man knows everything, but the man who knows how to find an indispensable fact quickly has the best substitute for such knowledge. We need a library to carry forward in a better manner the education of the children who leave school; to give them a better chance for self-education. We need it to give thoughts and inspiration to the teachers of the people, those who in the schoolroom or pulpit, on the rostrum, or with the pen attempt to instruct or lead their fellow citizens. We need it to help our mechanics in their employments, to give them the best thoughts of the best workers in their lines, whether these thoughts come in books, or papers, or magazines.

STATE FAIR AT SALEM

Oregon State Board of Agriculture Publishes all Information for Guidance of Exhibitors.

This office is in receipt of catalogues from the Oregon State Board of Agriculture for the forty-sixth annual fair to be held at Salem September 16 to 21, inclusive. The booklet is neatly gotten up and contains all the necessary information for the guidance of every class of prospective exhibitor.

Cash prizes are listed in the sum of $10,000, which will be awarded in the livestock, agricultural and manufactured products and in addition there are special premiums and trophies valued at $7,000 for award in these departments.

In the foreword occurs the following announcement:

"Those who have not visited the state fair grounds recently will find many changes. A complete and substantial livestock section has been erected, which will safely and comfortably house the many herds and flocks that are annually exhibited here.

"The improvement was brought about by a request from the livestock breeders of the northwest at a meeting held on the state fair grounds during the 1903 exhibition. The result was an appropriation of $20,000 by the legislature. Twelve commodious and substantial buildings from 36 to 64 feet wide by 200 feet long which are far in advance of the buildings found in many older and wealthier states were erected.

The officers of the association are:

W. H. Downing, president; W. F. Matlock, vice-president; F. A. Welch, secretary; A. Bus's, treasurer.
