HOLIDAYS ARE OVER

Banks and Bankers Happy—A Solidity in Money Matters Proves the Solidity of the State and Every County in the State.

The doors of the banks were thrown wide open Monday morning, holiday signs were taken down and not a bank in the state but that was fixed with the coin in its vaults to meet demands.

From reports throughout the state it is shown that there was and had been no alarm, so few were the withdrawals that they could be counted by the fingers on one hand, and in one case we know of a man who asked for his three thousand dollars. The money was quickly counted out and a check given him to sign. On seeing his wealth piled up in front of him he quickly decided he didn't want it and shoved it back to the steel vaults of the banker saying it was safer with the banker than in his pocket.

Another asked for his five hundred which was counted out, and hesitatingly deposited in his pocket with the remark I don't know as I want it, and what shall I do with it, the ast we knew about it he was still guessing which sock to put it in.

With Cottage Grove as well as other Lane county banks the deposits for the day exceeded the withdrawals and likewise until time of going to press business has gone on with the accustomed ease and assurance of the solidity of both banks and merchants.

All the National banks throughout the state have published sworn statements as to their conditions by order of the Comptroller of Currency and many of the private banks are doing the same, and all make a creditable showing that could be envied by our eastern states who are claiming to be the financial center of the world.

Fine Window Display.

The Window Display from the Bohemia mines, operated by F. J. Hard, was a great surprise to the Eugene Commercial Club gentlemen who visited the Grove yesterday. Mr. Hard deserves credit for the artistic window he arranged of ores from the mines. In keeping with his continued effort in behalf of Cottage Grove and the Bohemia mining district, he improved this opportunity of showing county seat boomers that this end of Lane county has the real stuff, the stuff above all other stuff that attracts the greatest immigration. Mr. Hard says that chickens are all right, particularly when well-stuffed and served, but without the miners and lumber men, the chicken fanciers would contribute their present remarkable effort as a work of love for the fowl instead of bringing their favorite industry into the profitable financial success that it is.

Advertise the mines, encourage the industry, join to blot out the ten thousand discouragements the State of Oregon has for the mining man. See Lane county fill up with well-to-do people of all classes. The mines will do it more rapidly than any other condition you can talk about. The mines are here; when will the people go at it as they ought to?—Cottage Grove Leader.

He briefly outlined their work and showed how the Commercial Club of Cottage Grove had influenced matters of state importance and how through its earnest efforts certain results have been and are being accomplished.

An Enjoyable Evening

On Tuesday the 17th inst. Mr. D. J. DuBrulle, the editor of the "Leader," passed the fortieth milestone on his way towards old age. He doubtless was in hopes that his good wife would overlook the fact; but such was not to be, as she had invited several friends in for a surprise. As he bounced into the house in the evening he found Messrs. F. D. Wheeler, N. D. Compton, Geo. Hall and F. H. Rosenberg seated in the parlor as though they owned the place.

After congratulations the party adjourned to the dining room where was spread an elegant repast in commemoration of the occasion. After the supper was over cigars were in order, when Mr. DuBrulle was presented on behalf of the gentlemen present, with an elegant K. of P. locket.

Joe, here's hoping we may all be at the forty-first repast.
