It seems hard to realize that the north street has improved so much in the past week or so. When you look back and see what the street was, and the condition it was in, it is hard to believe that they could make any improvements on it in so a short time.

three weeks for a tour through the Coos Bay country.

The city has been building a new bridge across the mill race on South River street this week. It makes rather inconvenient for the residents of that part of town, as it compels them to become regular travelers in hunting for the bridge across the race back of the mill at night or going back to the mill and going up on the east side of the river and crossing the foot bridge. However it will be a great improvement when completed.

Masons Install Grand Officers.

One of the main features of the closing session of the Masonic grand lodge was the installation of officers. The executives had been elected during the session and they were seated as follows: W. H.
Flanagan, of Grants Pass, grand master; Dr. W. T. Williamson, Portland, deputy grand master; Lot L. Pierce, Salem, senior grand warden; Ed. Kiddle, La Grande, junior grand warden; W. A. Cleland, Portland, grand treasurer; J.
F. Robinson, Eugene, grand secretary.

Members of the board of trustees of the educational fund were re-elected. They are: John B. Cleland, of Portland, J. M. Hodson, of Portland, and M. S. Woodcock, of Coryvallis. After the installation Grand Master Flanagan made public the names of the appointive officers, which are as appended:

grand chaplain; Morris B. Cox,

S. Heilborn, Astoria, junior grand steward; T. M. Baldwin, Prineville, junior grand steward; Simon Caro, swordbearer, and D. G. Tomasina, of Portland, grand tyler.

It was decided to hold the next session of the grand lodge in Portland during June, 1906. The question of purchasing ground on which to elect a Masonic Temple was left to the board of trustees of the educational fund, to report on at the 1906 session. The board was empowered to buy the site if it was deemed necessary, but the building was not to be contracted for until it had been considered by the grand lodge. That the order is strong in Oregon is evident from the tenor of the reports submitted yesterday, which showed there were 109 lodges in the state, with a total membership of 7500, and this has increased more than 50 per cent during the past five years. There have been no deaths in the grand lodge in the year just closed, and few proportionately in the membership.
