A Letter From Senator Gearin, United States Senate, Washington D. C.

Editor Leader
Dear Sir: Knowing your interest in the subject of good roads and civic improvement in all its phases, I am taking the liberty of mailing to you, under separate cover, pamphlets issued by the Department of Agriculture, which I trust you will read and then hand to some of your neighbors who, like you, are disposed to assist in creating a sentiment in favor of improvement of the highways and the development of a system of rural transportation adequate to the needs of the period; I hope that you will enter into this campaign for good roads and civic improvement with that degree of enthusiasm which will make your neighborhood a center of active work for the ends aimed at by all good road advocates.
At the suggestion of the Honorable Secretary of Agriculture and his director of the office of Public Roads, Mr. Logan W. Page, I am also calling your attention to the plan of the government to demonstrate modern road-building methods at Salem and Pendleton, Oregon, later during the present month. The exact date has not yet been determined on, but the newspapers will advertise the details as soon as the plans are perfected. You will do the department and me a favor by endeavoring to secure a large attendance at these road-building meetings. Through the efforts of Mr. Samuel Hill of Washington, D. C., many courtesies have been granted to the leaders in the good roads movement and plans for the Oregon demonstrations very much assisted.

Sincerely Yours,
JOHN M. GEARIN.

Galloway Made Many Friends.
Hon. Charles V. Galloway, democratic candidate for congress, spoke to a good audience at the Opera House on Tuesday evening.
Mr. Galloway is an earnest and pleasing speaker and held his audience in wrapt attention every minute of his address. He stated that many candidates were rather avoiding the political questions of the day, but that he desired to be plainly understood, and declared his stand on a number of the most important ones. On the rate question there is no party division, Democrats and Republicans alike favoring the regulation of freight rates, and which hopes to have an opportunity to aid in such regulation. He is strictly opposed to a ship subsidy, and will fight against any repeal of the timber and stone act. He is opposed to Chinese immigration. He is neither a free trader nor a stand pater, but as it may be termed a tariff revisionist, he would favor revision of the tariff to such an extent only as would take away from the trusts and monopolies the power to charge higher prices for their products in this country than in foreign lands. Examples were cited of farm machinery selling lower abroad than at home, the same being true of rail-iron and other products of the steel mills.

He made a number of pleasing illustrations of his position, and stated his own record in the legislature as a proof of his stand. He was well received, and nearly everyone was glad to show their appreciation of his clear, and forcible speech at the close. He makes a good impression wherever he appears, and will stand way up.

An Able Officer.
In a public office a man is of necessity subjected to more criticism than anywhere else, and when we find a man who has served one or more terms without any complaints being made against him we generally concede that he is a mighty good man for the place. In Sheriff Fred Fisk we have a man well fitted for his position, who has held an office of great responsibility and trust, having not alone the ordinary duties of a sheriff to perform, but as well the duties of tax collector, and who has satisfied all by his work and his careful performance of his duty. He asks for another term, and has a good record to go on. His friends will certainly support him, and with such a record he can have few who would not vote for him, however he must look to every man for a vote for he wants his election to be decisive.

State Medical Association Meets.
Dr. T. C. Hockett returned Thursday morning from Portland where he has been attending the meeting of the State Medical Association. He stated that the meeting was a very fine one and that he got much good from it. In one of the discussions the Eugene doctors were accused of not having reported their fever cases as promptly as they should have done, but their side was taken up by others very ably, and the fact proved that they did report them.

The main feature of the meeting was the resolution favoring the establishment of a state fund to create and maintain a home for the relief of incurable tuberculosis patients.

The doctor was in the group of doctors appearing in the picture of the association in The Telegram, but no one would know it from the picture.

Civic Improvement Idea Wins Many.
The plan of improving the appearance of the town by the beautifying first of all lawns and homes and the improvement of the streets, and finally by the improvement of empty ground is winning favor daily. Of course such work costs money, but in more than repays for itself by the increase of value through the general attractiveness of the town. All over the United States this movement is spreading, in some places not a plot of unimproved ground can be found, and such places become bywords on account of their beauty. The Woman's Club is doing what it can to help the good work along by offering prizes for the best growth of sweet peas and the best display of cut flowers, to be shown at the flower show in the summer. The council is doing a part in arranging for street improvements. They could do more by ordering the cleaning up of all trash throughout the city, by bringing about a regular cleaning of Main street and the alleys. Each person can do his part with little expense and the total result will be great.

Log Breaks Three Ribs.

Jim Dunst a young man of about 23, at Thomas logging camp on Row river, suffered a severe accident Tuesday that came close to taking his life. A large log was being drawn to the loading dock, when it struck a smaller tree, and swerved and hit the fellow on the left side, breaking three ribs, badly bruising the entire side, and probably injured him internally. Dr. Job was called at once and when he got to the camp the young man was in a very bad state. His entire back and left side was bloodshot, and he was and still is in a very serious condition. It was found impossible to move him and he will have to be cared for at the camp sometime before he can be moved. His parents formerly lived here but are now in Montana somewhere.

Dr. Job says that the slightest stroke more of the log and the young fellow would have been killed.

W. W. Montgomery, Jr., L. J. Morris, G. L. Mayer and S. D. Sinkler of Philadelphia, all interested in the Willamette Valley Company have been making a tour of the valley inspecting the various towns where they have plants, and among them visited Cottage Grove Wednesday, and were driven around town by Manager Russel Welch.

Portland-Salem Electric Railway.
Portland, May 15.—The Oregon Electric Railway Co. a $2,500,000 corporation and the interurban Land Co., an auxiliary corporation, filed articles of incorporation today. It is to be the holding company for the Willamette Valley Traction Co. This company, with the Moffatt and White syndicate as its backers, will construct and operate a road from Portland to Salem.

Independent Candidate.
I hereby announce myself as an independent candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace of Cottage Grove Justice's district at the election June 4th, 1906.
If elected, I will give every man what belongs to him and no more.
J. W. VAUGHN.

Big Timber Wolf.
Monday night a big timber wolf came down off Laurens hill and across the northeast part of town, and was headed for John Cochran's place, down the road, when Chas. Teters riding by, saw him and headed him off. The wolf getting to within 30 or 40 feet of him before he noticed it, and then he stopped and looked for a minute, and bounded over the fence into Sullivan's yard, and from there on to the hills. He was an unusually big fellow and seemed to be absolutely fearless. He seems to have been bound across the valley and was looking for a place to get through the fence across the road when headed off.
