INDEPENDENT JUSTICE

Justice J. W. Vaughn is coming before the people for re-election to the office of Justice of the Peace of Cottage Grove precinct has an honorable career back of him, and promises to do the right thing by every man and woman that comes before him. The justice is too well known to have to be more than mentioned to the people of Cottage Grove. Forty years of public service ought to be enough to let the people know how honest a man is and stand as an unflinching record of not only the honesty, but the uprightness and worth of an officeholder. Every voter should vote for the old Justice. He is able to do the work, and it is likely it is some assistance to him in its small way, and will be greatly appreciated. Don't forget the justice when you mark your ballot.

THE OFFICE TO THE MAN FITTED FOR IT.

Not every man is fitted for public office, either naturally or by education, and public offices need able men at their head, as well as in the minor positions, in county and city affairs, as well as in state and national affairs. In Lane county there are many offices of trust, and of the office of sheriff and tax collector. The present occupant has held the office for me term and a portion of another, and aspires to hold it again. He has done his work well, if thoroughly fitted for his work, and is one of the officials that stands high in his record. He has carried out thoroughly and well his duties, and deserves re-election. Fred Fisk is a young man, and has proved himself to be a man to be respected and honored. He is the man to vote for, to fill the office for sheriff for the next term.

Fine Speech Monday Night.

Candidate W. C. Hawley made a fine speech at the Opera House on Monday night. He was introduced by Dr. Woods, and in a clear forcible delivery told his stand on the principal issues of the campaign. He is firmly in favor of rate revision, believing that it is the correct way to handle monopolies, and the only way to prevent evasions of the tariff law, which work out for the democrats a free trade. He favors the legislative control of monopolies, and well defined them as combinations that control so large a portion of a commodity as to be able to raise and lower the price of it, irrespective of the supply and demand, and who then can dictate the price they will pay for crude products and do as they will with the product.

Mr. Hawley in closing paid a beautiful tribute to the veterans of the G. A. R. and to those who died for the nation in the battles of the great war.

He is a thorough student, well versed in constitutional history, and will make, if elected a good and honest representative of the state, and at the meeting he was accorded a royal welcome.

Parents of Late David R. Kennedy Found.

Some time since when David R. Kennedy was drowned in the mill pond at Shelly, near Yoncalla, and buried at Roseburg, Jim Cosgrove, who had known him for ten months came to the Leader office and told us that he knew the boy had relatives in Canada and asked us to find them and stated that he was working near him when he dropped off a log into 14 feet of water and not even a bubble rose from where he sank. Mr. Cosgrove thought he was dead of heart failure before he struck the water. He tried to get in communication with his relatives from Drain, but did not know their home.

By persistent writing and questioning the Leader got word from the young man's uncle J. M. Kennedy in Kent county, New Brunswick, Canada, stating that he had a nephew out here by that name that he had not heard from for three years and gave sufficient identification to make it clear that the young man is his nephew. The boys aged mother is still living and does not yet know of his death. We have sent full information to the family.

Effects of the San Francisco Fire

The First National Bank has just received from San Francisco a number of drafts that went through the fire, and they have been so changed that it is hard to believe they could have been like the other drafts. The drafts originally were white, printed in black ink, the name First National Bank, Cottage Grove, Oregon, in red ink in the lower left hand corner, and in the upper right hand corner the number of the draft in different red ink. They were in a bank vault during the fire in San Francisco, and some have been turned in color by the heat to a very dark brown, others a light brown, the black printing is almost invisible, the name of the bank printed in red was turned to a silvery color, while the number which was in a different ink remains red. The changing to silver is a very peculiar feature and was probably caused by a chemical change. The pen writing on the checks by the First National, on account of the fine ink used is quite legible, but the endorsements have all disappeared. The drafts are engraved on the finest Safety Banker's paper, and even in their charred condition, all the grain and safety designs worked in the paper are as clear as the unharmed checks. The bank will have these checks framed and hanging in the window for inspection in a few days.

Local Option.

The proposed amendment to the Local Option Law was prepared and is pushed by the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association.

It amends the first section of that law, repeals the next ten sections and substitutes new sections therefor, and repeals outright the last seven sections, which sections provide for the enforcement of the law.

The proposed amendment, in a deceptive manner, repeals the present Local Option Law and substitutes a liquor law.

The title of the amendment would give equal privileges to local optionists and anti-local optionists, when in fact the amendment emasculates and virtually repeals the present law.

The Oregon Daily Journal speaks of the amendment as "a porcupine wrapped in a blanket."

Vote 305 X No. Save the present local option law. Vote 305 X No.

Horse Leaves Master Behind to View Circus.

Armond Wynne drove up to the circus Tuesday to deliver some gasoline, and as he was coming back the horse got frightened at the animals, and started to run away. As they went over a crossing the wagon bumped up enough to throw Armond up in the air and when he came down nothing was there to greet him but the ground, which did not hurt him much. The horse ran down Main street, toward the store and several men ran out and tried to get the lines, and one venturesome fellow finally got hold of them and brought the horse to a standstill without any injury to any body or anything.

Saw Catches Hand.

J. R. Tucker had a bad accident Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock, while wedging a piece of timber being cut in the Taylor sawmill at Divide. The saw was sticking, and Tucker was wedging close to the when the saw became stuck, the sawyer reversed the carriage and Tucker's left hand got caught in the upper saw, cutting off the tip of the first finger, cut the bone of the middle finger into, and cut off the first joint of the third finger, also cutting out the ball of the thumb joint. Dr. Job dressed the hand, and hopes to save the middle finger, although it will be stiff; the thumb will be weak and stiff from the loss of the joint but will be of some assistance.

As Mr. Taylor says no one was to blame, it was a bad accident and it will lame him up, but such things will happen. It is a brave way to speak of so severe an injury, and we hope that Mr. Tucker will come out much better than he expects.

Wins High Honors as Ophthalmologist

Franc L. Hard, daughter of F. J. Hard, has just won signal honors from the Boston School of Ophthalmology where she has been studying all winter. She has studied in Portland for several years and took a finishing year in Boston, where she not only took the highest prizes and grade, but won special mention from the directors, and also secured by special examination and work a diploma from the largest school of the kind in America on a grade of 100. Of course Mr. Hard is very proud of his daughter's work, and is justly so.

Against Barlow Road Purchase.

C. W. Kern, a farmer on the Barlow road sent out recently a number of letters asking support for the purchase of the road, now he is asking support of the liquor dealers, offering in return to vote for the local option amendment. It seems as though there was a "nigger in the woodpile" in such a proposition.

Mr. Kern in his letter declares that the Barlow road is being offered to the state at cost price; that the owners of the road hold it under a grant by the federal government 40 years ago, and that the farmers of Clackamas and Wasco counties who live in the country tributary to the road have to pay toll on every head of cattle they drive to Portland.

Opponents of the Barlow road purchase take issue with Mr. Kern on all three points. They contend that the alleged owners have to title to what they offer to sell, that no farmers use the road, and that the proposition is a job by which several schemers expect to make $16,000 by selling for $24,000 something which has already been offered for sale for $9,000. Another argument against the proposition is that the proposed bill gives the state no voice as to the value of the property and fixes the price at $24,000 even though it should prove to be in reality worth only a small fraction of that sum.
