The carpenters are very busy finishing up the work, and will have to work nights to get the work done by Saturday night. The new room on the south, as well as the room on the east of the main room are connected by a number of hinged doors, which fold together. The south room will be the auditorium room, the east room the Christian Endeavor, and the addition to the west the Aid room. This has been connected to the main body of the church by cutting out the partition by the pulpit and putting a post in the corner. This will aid still further in enlarging the seating capacity. The total cost of the improvements will be close to $2,000, and the church has made a great move in building all the additions, which were necessitated through the growth of the church. Rev. Olson has had a strong hand in this, and has worked up a great enthusiasm in the entire church.

Any one who desires such seeds may call at this office and they will be given a package.
