SATURDAY..... JUNE 23, 1906

The Southern Pacific Railway Co. show by their acts their willingness to meet the wish of the people and care for the increasing business along their line in the Willamette Valley as rapidly as possible. As is proven by their quick response in extending the Eugene local to Cottage Grove. As soon as the attention of the railway people was called to the situation by the Cottage Grove Commercial Club the Railway Company commenced gathering facts relative to the necessity and as a result it is fairly well assured that the Cottage Grove Local will be an established fact in a very short time.

Milford, O., June 21.—After a simple funeral service, attended by high state officials, party associates and friends from all parts of the country, the body of John M. Pattison, late governor of Ohio, was this afternoon consigned to the grave at Green Lawn cemetery, his family alone being present at the grave. Judge Judson Harmon of Cincinnati, Attorney-General in President Cleveland's cabinet and a life-long friend, spoke on the political life of Governor Pattison.—Telegram.

Blow to Liquor Men.

The liquor people of the state apparently suffered a severe blow without knowing it when the people of the state adopted the constitutional amendment which gives the people of a city the power to enact and amend their charters. The last sentence in the amendment says that the legal voters of every city and town are hereby granted power to enact and amend their municipal charters, "Subject to the constitutional and criminal laws of the State of Oregon."

This last limitation is what particularly affects the liquor interests. For it prevents the adoption of a city charter that will conflict with the local option law, which is a criminal law.

U. O. Graduates Admitted to the Bar.

At the recent examinations in Portland for admission of law students to the bar the following well-known graduates of the University of Oregon were successful: C. N. McArthur of Portland, class of 1901; Ed S. VanDyke, of Grants Pass, class of 1901; and Vernon W. Tomlinson, of Portland, class of 1905.

Out of 31 applicants only 21 were successful. It is said the examination was the hardest ever held in Oregon.

Hops Never Looked Better.

George Dorcas, of Klaber, Wolf & Netter, returned yesterday from a trip through the hop districts of the valley with glowing reports of crop conditions every where.

"I paid particular attention to the yards in Lane County," he said, "but I also inspected the hops on the East and West Side. I never saw a better looking crop in my life. Cultivation is going on all along the line, and the yards look like gardens. In Lane County ton crops are going to be the rule. Washington County will do about as well, and things are looking fine around Independence and Dallas. The growers acknowledge that the crop will be immense and they are not looking for high prices."—Oregonian.

Walter Foley Not Guilty of Manslaughter.

The trial of Walter Foley, the man who killed Cull Keizer on a train between Cottage Grove and the Bohemia mines several months ago, the charge being manslaughter took up most of the time in the circuit court Thursday. A jury was completed this morning and consisted of the following: Horace Fisk, Dexter Sparks, Chas. F. Cox, E. B. Rutan, Clark Stevens, Loren Edwards, B. Hyland D. B. Proctor, Jesse Souern, A. H. Hinkson, Clayton Pope, John Strome.

Medley and Johnson, of Cottage Grove, were attorneys for Foley and J. M. Williams, deputy prosecuting attorney represented the state. Quite a number of witnesses were examined, the evidence tending to indicate that the shooting was accidental. It will be remembered that Foley, while intoxicated, was showing Keizer a new pistol which he had purchased. In some manner it was discharged, the bullet entering Keizer's abdomen, resulting in his death several hours afterwards.

The jury went out about 2:30 o'clock and within 4 minutes returned a verdict of not guilty.

Memorial Sermon.

night storm, or picket duty to guard against surprise, he who went forward to make up the living well that was to receive the onward rush of the fore, he who advanced his gun and hurled missiles of destruction against the enemies stronghold, he who with careful skillful touch cared for the sick and wounded or who amid the gale climbed to the top mast to furl the sail, these were the men that made victory possible so as his part that maintained the conflict. And a grateful country today honors your hoary heads and your rewards will be as great in that day of final victory as any whose names are now written on the pages of history if you are "found in the way of the righteous." Thoma was honored as the "Rock of Chiezamaugua" but the men that stood there with him made it possible for him to stand.

Veterans raise your cap that we may see that saber scar, roll up your sleeve that we may see the lacerated muscles, draw aside your shirt bosom that we look where the minnie ball pierced your lungs. What brought on that incurable cough? It was the battle, the exposure and the long march, shall we your sons forget it no! "The hoary head is a crown of glory," and he who walks in "the way of righteousness" shall wear it.

And there were that unnumbered and unnumbered army of wives, mothers and sweethearts, who remained at home, who toiled, loved and prayed. Did you ever think of the aching hearts that never was comforted while that awful war cloud hung over the land? And with what joy they watched for the home coming. It was a happy home coming. It is true that old home had changed. In some places it had been devastated by the ruthless hand of war. The child had grown up, the baby was now a shy child, the mother older, the father's step no longer buoyant, and the sweetheart was a grizzled and seared veteran, but it was home.

But some looked in vain, for the face and form can only be held in memory's casket. They look but are disappointed, and not until the final roll call and the redeemed shall have stacked arms on the shores of eternal deliverance will they be rewarded.

Year by year your number grows less, your step more faltering and your forms more bent; and some of these days and it is not far off now, the last of the veterans and his brave, noble wife with unsteady step go to the cemetery and place the floral wreath on the breast of grave of the heroes of '60 to '65, then go back to their home, and the grim cavalymen on "the white horse" will come for them, and the long line of "hoary" heads will wear the "crown of glory" if they had been "found in the way of righteousness."

And we who are you get will take up the mantle which they have left to us.

In the ages to come historians will erect pedestals on which will be written the names of the noble and the great, and in the midst of them all will be one greater and higher than the rest and on it will be written the names of the heroes of that fratricidal war of 1861-1865.

The lesson that will be deduced though covered with the best blood of the land will be that we all are a free people, that we are all brethren of one blood and will be one people.

Veterans you followed your flag now follow the banner of Christ in the war of righteousness against the wrong and the God of righteousness of nations and of individuals will give unto you a crown that fades not away.

Crow Reservation Opening in Full Blast.

Billings, Mont. The opening of the Crow Indian Reservation commenced here Thursday, June 14th, registration having been commenced on that day. The registration is being conducted by Chief Clerk Lewis of the General Land office and six assistants. Several thousand persons registered Thursday, Friday and Saturday and great crowds are looked for again next week. Registration will continue until June 28th and probably 20,000 people will come to Billings for that purpose during the last week. After the registration the lands will be disposed of under the drawing system, drawing commencing here July 2nd.

Some of the choicest land in the famous Yellowstone Valley is included in this land being given away by the Government. The land can be irrigated from the Yellowstone and Big Horn Rivers. Companies have been organized to place water upon the land as soon as it is settled upon, while the government is building an irrigation canal and has others in contemplation. The railroads have made a special homeseekers rate from all points for this opening and people are coming here from all parts of the United States and everyone is eager to secure a tract of this valuable land.

Extensive preparations have been made by the city business interests to accommodate the visitors and the crowds are being handled without the slightest difficulty without taxing their capacity. Unlike other reservation opening, no fabulous prices are being exacted for accommodations. First class meals are obtained for 25 cents each and sleeping accommodations can be secured at the rate of 50 cents per night. One large circus tent restaurant is prepared to meal 5000 persons daily. No gambling of any sort is permitted to run by the authorities and owing to the efficiency of the regular and extra police force no crimes of any sort have yet been committed. A notable feature is the absence from the city of fakers and crooks, they being unable to work on account of the vigilance of the officers, and the mayor and authorities are being congratulated for the able manner in which they are fulfilling their duties.

Everything in connection with the opening is being carried on in the best possible manner and visitors from all parts of the United States are daily expressing their satisfaction with the welcome and treatment accorded them in the city. Registration officers can handle 10,000 registrations daily, so persons will not be compelled to stand in line for hours. Everybody seems anxious to secure a tract of the greatest land ever disposed of by the Government of the United States. Several thousand dollars has been offered to the persons drawing No. 1.

County Court.

In the case of the Iowa Gold Mining Company vs. Ziniker, Lundberg et. al. a postponement was given and the case will be heard July 25th at Cottage Grove.

An important witness for the plaintiff pleaded sickness was the cause of the postponement. The case was moved to Cottage Grove to avoid the necessity of the defendants losing so much time and expense as they are all miners in Bohemia. The case was removed from Roseburg to Eugene some time ago to accommodate the plaintiffs who are Eugene people
