Curbs on Main Street.

A man who has an interest in Cottage Grove asked the other day if a movement to curb Main street could not be started. He stated that if Main street were curbed from end to end even with plank, so that the street line was even it would be a great improvement, and that is indeed true. The City Council should pass an ordinance requiring that any walks relied on Main street should be built of cement, and that when the street line was reached a curb should be laid extending down for a gutter. The sidewalks on Main street are very poor and within a couple of years after the passage of such an ordinance the streets would begin to look like a prosperous town.

Silk Creek.

"Grandpa Babcock", Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Babcock and sons Edmond and Walter, spent Sunday at the Bunch and McCov homes.

Mr. Parmale and family went to Cottage Grove Monday to have some dental work done for the girls.

A young man from Creswell by name of McCord was on the creek two or three days to see about attending school here.

We think our hunters must be making good use of the last days of the open season, from the sounds that resound through the land.

Mr. Frank Peterson arrived Friday from McMinnville and is to be one of the teachers in the private school here.

Achie Wilson arrived here the first of the week to attend school this winter.

Grandma Babcock is visiting her daughter Mrs. W. N. Wheeler.

Mr. Orvil Hollenbeck of Parma, Idaho, was the guest of E. A. Wheeler and family one night this week.

School will begin Monday Nov. 7th with Messrs Paap & Peterson as teachers.

M. F. Babcock and family went to Cottage Grove Tuesday.

Mr. A. D. Owens and sons and Roseoe Foster went to Indian Creek to spend a little time hunting and fishing.

Phillip Casebeer is stopping with his Uncle D. A. Estes and family.

Irving McCord of Creswell is working for Mr. Parmale.

Drain Throws up Lecture Course.

A letter from Marshall Choate Crouch states that Prof. Briggs, as manager of the lecture course at Drain under the Midland Lyceum Circuit, has cancelled the course at that point. Mr. Crouch was on hand ready to lecture, but was notified by the Professor that he had cancelled the course. Mr. Crouch then left for Roseburg where he lectured under the auspices of the High School.

Mr. Crouch is greatly interested in school work as he has been superintendent of city schools and during the summer manages Chautauqua work.

An Evening Well Spent.

The lecture given by Marshall Choate Crouch last Saturday evening was well worth the appreciation and praise it won from the rather small audience which gathered at the Opera House. Those who failed to attend missed much pleasure and profit. Mr. Crouch spoke on the title of his book—"The Simple Life"—the heaters were carried away from the rush and flurry of our modern existence—away from modern inventions and conveniences, many of which bring only discomfort and weariness to the primitive extreme of our ancestors who lived longer and with more ease and comfort than we who consider so many burdensome things as positive necessities. He portrayed in well chosen words an ideal existence, full of peace and happiness, yet busy and useful—many apt quotations were used—some humorous—some sad—all delivered with much feeling.

All who attended caught a glimpse of something higher and better than the ordinary day holds for most of us.

The next number on the list of entertainments arranged for by the club will be the Midland Quintette.

The next attraction is the Midland Opera Quintette. This company has been a great musical success during the past two years, both in the Central States and the West. It is composed of very able artists who are excellent soloists. They give regular quartettes, vocal and instrumental solos—the latter upon violin and piano—splendid readings and most pleasing and artistic cantatas. The quality of their work is high class, the variety is seldom equalled. They are guaranteed to please. Hear them on Tuesday Nov. 30.

Making Real Lace in America.

An article on lace making in The New Idea Woman's Magazine for November contains reference to the starting of the lace industry in this country by four Boston girls.

"These young women," it appears, "had a great longing to make the handsome lace known to Europe. They secured Mrs. Florence Weber, who had studied the art of Italian lace-making from an Italian in this country and from the schools of Italy. They became so interested in this work that they were not satisfied to make the Italian lace alone, but were soon studying the laces native to the different European countries. In was not long before they interested Mr. Cary, a Boston philanthropist, in their work, and he organized them into a co-operative society, a part of the Handicraft Salesroom. They are guaranteed a fixed salary, and whenever their profits fall short their benefactor makes good the loss. They have a bright, airy room to work in, and they have no overseer, for they are put on their honor."

The shop is controlled by a Board of Directors; their only other supervisor is their teacher, who comes to instruct them three times a week. The ambition of these young women is to make lace no less lovely than the Alencon of France and the Brussels of Belgium. Their other aim is to make their enterprise self-supporting. They have not accomplished this up to the present, as it is no easy task to convince buyers of lace that these cultivated women can make laces such as are made by the European peasantry and Italians who have been trained in this handicraft from mother to daughter through the centuries. In spite of these girls are gaining a large patronage, and they expect to have their work running on a paying basis. They not only make the finest Italian, French and English laces, but also repair and clean them with great skill. They make their own designs and usually while one is busy making Alencon, a second is working at Brussels, a third is making Guipure, and the fourth Point d'Angleterre.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Six Nights Beginning Tuesday Nov. 6th.

SOON TO APPEAR.

George Gilbert Bancroft, The Famous Educator and Lecturer, needs no formal introduction to the American public. Hailing from the city by the Golden Gate, for fifteen consecutive seasons he has appeared upon the platform in all of the principal cities on the continent. By education both a lawyer and physician; by natural adaptation and preference an educator, lecturer and entertainer, Dr. Bancroft brings to the platform a wealth of practical and technical knowledge and experience such as few of his chosen profession possess. Studiously inclined from his youth, naturally of an investigative tendency along original lines, his mind at an early age became centered in the fascinating study of Human Nature. To hold the key to man's mind became his dream; "To know thyself" became his motto.

Having made a special study for years of insanity, criminology, sociology and original psychological research, he stands today one of America's greatest authorities in the study of insanity, normal and abnormal mentality, criminology, etc., his ability to see in man's face, form and actions a reflection of the mentality and predisposition within is not a speculative philosophy, but an exact and mathematical science.

Privileged by profession to travel extensively both at home and abroad, and being constantly alert for new material, he has accumulated an exhaustive array of valuable scientific facts, which he presents so pleasingly and startlingly from the public platform that to hear him once only insures that you will make strenuous efforts to hear him again. Not only has he acquired fame as a versatile and logical platform reasoner and instructor, but he brings to his aid a spontaneous, blunt, eccentric humor that is well nigh irresistible. From hilarious laughter to sympathetic tears has become his consummate art.

Dr. Bancroft is an inspirational speaker, steering clear of the set and oily platitudes of the average platform orator he thus avoids tiring his hearers. His reasoning is exact and profound, his logic perfect, his language is terse and blunt, yet fluent and fascinating; his wit and humor startling, original and laugh-producing; his imitations eccentric and true to life, and his instruction is priceless; he leaves you with a practical and new jewel that you may treasure for all time in your eternal storehouse of memory, not made by hands—the human mind.

Dr. Bancroft is ably assisted each evening by the charming Vocalist and Impersonator, D. Lillian Lewis, in a brilliant and versatile repertoire of vocal and literary gems. Miss Lewis is no novice in the art of platform entertainment. Endowed by nature with an artistic temperament, a sweet voice and a pleasing personality, she has under the constant guidance and suggestion of some of the best artists gradually advanced to the enviable position which she holds today—The peer of the best.
