

THE RUNT EVIL.

How One Breeder Keeps His Herd of an Even Weight.

Every man who takes some pride in his herd dislikes to see it composed of pigs of various sizes, some growthy and thrifty, others stunted and weak. After this difference in size and thrift is once established, it is not seen to, instead of evening up the difference will be apt to widen, for the strong will crowd back the weak and take the best places to eat and sleep.

Another prolific cause of runts is lack of trough room and roomy sleeping apartments and keeping too many bunched together. One of the greatest nuisances in the hog business is that old fashioned trough with one end protruding through the fence. Here we can conveniently pour in the slop on one side of the fence, and it will be eaten up by the very strongest just on the other side. It is not possible to raise an even bunch of hogs on slop fed in this way.

The best trough I have ever found, the one I have used for many years, is the V shaped, with a swinging door, provided with a drop latch. This can be pushed toward the pigs and the latch dropped, so that every ill mannered porker must stand back until the feed is put in. Then the door is drawn forward, and the trough is on their side. Every fellow can now come up and get his share, and not much more.

Extra Care and Feed.

But the one thing above all others that will almost obviate the runt evil is the separate lot, with its own house and trough for giving them extra good care and the best of the feed. As soon as a pig drops behind his fellows in growth and thrift he should go at once to this hospital. The inmates of this pig hospital should first be supplied with any milk there may be to spare. They should have the first chance at the choice bits and scraps that every farm affords. Soon some of these will be thrifty enough to go to the regular herd, and their places can be taken by new patients. By this constant sorting and extra care and feed the runt can almost be eliminated from the herd.—J. Al Dobie in National Stockman and Farmer.

Remedy For Lump Jaw.

The Ohio Farmer gives the following remedy for either lump jaw or glandular swelling in a cow: Apply one part red iodide of mercury and four parts lard to bunches twice a week. Give one dram of iodide of potash in feed night and morning.

THE SHEPHERD

Cornstalks are valuable fodder for sheep, and if cut green and properly cured and then put through the shredder there should be but little waste, says the Farm Journal.

When considerable cornstalks are fed some grain and roots should be added to the ration.

Don't feed the sheep on the ground. Have good troughs.

It never pays to let sheep begin the winter thin. When the pasture gets short, begin on the grain ration and keep it up till the sheep are in good order. They will winter better and have better lambs by and by.

The forage ration should preferably be bright clear hay.

If the sheep are not in good flesh give them about two gills each of grain.

It is well to keep sheep in lots of fifty each.

One ram to fifty ewes.

When the climate is mild open sheds are preferable to closed ones.

Where closed sheds are used they should be aired during the day by leaving the doors open when the sheep are in the yards.

Protect heavy woolled sheep from cold rains. The weight of the water will sometimes prevent the sheep from rising. It chills the ewes, and lambs are lost by it.

Give some oil meal with the grain ration. It is good for the digestion.

Keep a sharp outlook for anything wrong. Find the cause and right it at once. Delays are dangerous with a flock.

Make the sheep tame by kindness. They will do the better for it. Make it a point to count the sheep every day. As soon as the wool is clipped from the sheep the ticks go for the lambs. If the sheep are dipped each should be bunched, as some of the young ticks may adhere to the old sheep; then, in about two weeks, dip both sheep and lambs. That will finish the tick business.

Dressing and Keeping Mutton.

In dressing mutton always bear in mind that you should not feed your wether for twenty-four hours prior to slaughtering. It is not generally known, but undigested food is apt to flavor the flesh. Keep this point constantly in mind, writes L. B. Harris in Orange Judd Farmer. Do not try fancy methods in dressing your mutton. Have your carcass perfectly plied. Do not hire a butcher to kill your sheep. Do it yourself. After slaughtering hang the carcass in your cellar. If the latter will keep bread without its molding you may rest assured that your mutton will not spoil. Hang the mutton; do not lay it down. If hung properly, with no two carcasses touching and with the loose pieces drawn back so that the air can thoroughly permeate the surface, these carcasses should keep till April. At any rate, do not take it down for cutting up until one month after putting it in the cellar. I prefer six weeks. There is a chemical change in the flesh of the sheep within six weeks from the time of killing. You will find after that time the mutton will not stick to the knife in handling the carcass.

Diary of a Bright 92-Year-Old.

Mrs. Roffey, a widow, of Newdingate, near Dorking, England, who on her 92d birthday was entertained to dinner and sang "A-hunting We Will Go" and "My Old Gray Mare," has kept a diary which is full of interesting figures. She gives the cost of her maintenance in the world to the date of her last birthday as 1013 pounds 12s—an average expenditure of 8s per week. She has walked 221,480 miles. She walked to London and back—54 miles—when she was 17 to get married. The songs mentioned she has sung 1106 times. She has in her long life consumed, among other things, 134,320 cups of tea, 67,160 glasses of milk, 11,960 loaves, 50,730 potatoes and has worn 165 bonnets and hats, 80 shoes and boots, 41 dresses, 53 aprons and 35 shawls and wraps.

Ada Wallace Unruh

Ada Wallace Unruh, National Organizer and Lecturer of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will lecture under the auspices of the local W. C. T. U. at the Methodist church next Monday evening. This will give an opportunity to hear a world wide popular lecturer on a subject of world wide interests.

Columbus Enquirer: Mrs. Ada Wallace Unruh, the national organizer for the W. C. T. U. spoke last night at the Baptist church. She is a graceful, eloquent, convincing speaker. Her logic is electric, her rhetoric picturesque and vivid, her style nervous, fervid, forceful. There are flashes of wit, delicate bits of humor, sharp thrusts of sarcasm, catchy figures and illustrations that illustrate. She is posted and knows how to use what she knows—a rare gift. It is no dry stereotyped lecture on temperance, but a discussion with live personality behind it, when one hears her.

Augusta (Georgia) Chronicle: Rarely is it the pleasure of Augustans to entertain one who is so thoroughly magnetic in person and so enthusiastic and earnest in her chosen calling as Mrs. Ada Wallace Unruh. Mrs. Unruh's earnest efforts, brilliant, forcible lectures do not go unappreciated by the organization, and she is regarded as one of its most valuable speakers.

Nothing will relieve indigestion that is not a thorough digestant. Kodol digests what you eat and allows the stomach to rest—rejuvenate—grow strong again. Kodol is a solution of digestive acids and as nearly as possible approximates the digestive juices that are found in the stomach. Kodol takes the work of digestion off the digestive organs and while performing this work itself does greatly assist the stomach to a thorough rest. In addition the ingredients of Kodol are such as to make it a corrective of the highest efficiency and by its action the stomach is restored to its normal activity and power. Kodol is manufactured in strict conformity with the National Pure and Drug Law. Sold by Benson's Pharmacy.

ASTIGMATISM.

Astigmatism is a condition which is greatly misunderstood by most people. It is thought to be many things, from something growing over the eye to the eyes turning in or out. But these ideas are all far from right.

Instead of being a disease of the eyes it is an error of refraction, that is, the rays of light coming from an object looked at, do not focus evenly on the retina and so cause the object to look slightly distorted.

In astigmatism the seat of the trouble lies either in the cornea or the Crystalline lens. Both of these have a great degree of curvature and in order that the rays of light may pass through them equally in all meridians, they must be curved just alike all over. But this is not so in many eyes. Either the cornea or the lens curving more in one direction than in the other. This causes the most violent symptoms such as headaches, nausea, dizziness and all the other symptoms caused by a severe eye-strain. Many a poor stomach has been dosed with medicines for indigestion etc, when it wasn't to blame for the trouble at all, and when a pair of properly fitted glasses would have relieved all the symptoms immediately. Of course we are not saying that all deranged stomachs come from astigmatism, but a larger percentage of them than is generally known are so caused.

Astigmatism requires the most careful attention of the eye-specialist because unless the glasses are just right the troubles will be aggravated instead of relieved as the case should be. Glasses should always set on the face straight but especially so in astigmatism for the astigmatic lens is not alike in all directions, but specially ground to fit the curvature of the eye. And so if they are tilted it will through them out of adjustment and the rays of light will not enter the eye in the correct manner.

A former printer of Seattle is now foreman of the government printing office at Ancon, on the Panama canal zone, and recently he wrote an interesting letter to a friend in Washington county excerpts of which are as follows: "Since I have been here I have not lost a day through sickness. This speaks well for the healthfulness of the city. When I came here it was a mud hole and all offal was thrown in the streets, but now the streets are well paved and sewers and water have been put in. Everything has put on American airs but most of the 'Panamanians' have little use for Americans. Prices have gone up 100 per cent. I pay $60 silver for one room, but it is in the best quarters and handsomely furnished for this country, and $100 silver for board. All prices are silver, worth 50 cents American gold to the dollar. We work nights, Sundays, holidays and all the time. The employees are paid in silver by the hour, from 40 to 60 cents for printers. I have two of the most skilled workmen I ever saw, one from Lima, Peru, and the other from Panama."
