The Barefoot Boy.

Cheerily then my little man,
Live and laugh as boyhood can!
Though the fluty hopes be hard,
Stubble speared the new mown sward
Every morn shall lead thee through
Fresh baptisms of dew,
Every evening from thy feet
Shall the cool wind kiss the heat;
All too soon these feet must hide
In the prison cells of pride,
Lose the freedom of the sod,
Like a colt's for work be shod,
Made to trade the mills of toil
Up and down in ceaseless toil,
Happy on their track be found
Never on forbidden ground,
Happy if they sink not in
Quick and treacherous sands of sin,
Ah, that thou couldst know thy joy
Ere it passes, barefoot boy!

—John Greenleaf Whittier

Western Oregon has not been swift in development. It has resources enough for a kingdom. Farmed as Belgium is farmed, the Willamette valley alone could support 4,000,000 people.

But, life has been easy, and the inhabitants were not ambitious for empire. The atmosphere is heavy, and contributes to quietude and contentment. That is perhaps one reason why a transportation toll-taker has been tolerated so long at Oregon City. That is why Willamette cherries go to Puyallup to be packed, and sell at 4 cents when Idaho and California cherries, inferior in quality, bring twice as much. That is why luscious loganberries by tons rotted on the vines near Salem. That is why there are unfarmed big farms, districts half developed and the whole region but a fragment of the towering specimen of aggregated business industry it might have been. There want has never pinched, nor cold distressed. Living came with trifling effort, and the ways of hard sordid industry were never learned. Hence we import what we ought to export, buy elsewhere what we could ourselves better produce.

But there are signs on the horizon of a coming change. There is more study of agricultural problems. There is more seeking of the scientific. There has been in the last decade more attention to methods. Progress is being written over the door of many a farmhouse.

At Scio, for instance, the creamery checks for June totaled $4,300 against $2,363 in June last year, and the statement is that the increase was not so much from more cows, but better cows. That is progress, and it is typical of the hour. It cost no more to feed the good cows than the bad ones, and profits were vastly heightened. It is a new and broader avenue to wealth for the husbandman. It is an episode of that awakening that has begun, a sign of that movement in which grandpa's methods are laid tenderly away, and modern ones applied. It points the way to a greater and transformed Oregon, when we buy little and sell much.—Portland Journal.

Astrologists are predicting that the planets are taking belligerent positions which will cause the people of our earth to engage in a world-wide war that is scheduled to begin next year and last five years, changing the map of the world and causing such universal havoc as has never been known. Why can't the planets attend to their own business and manage their own people, if they have any, and leave our world to take care of its inhabitants, who are now comparatively peaceful, prosperous and happy? But it does seem from past experience that the sun, the planets and even the moon have a great influence on the earth, or the earth is influenced by its proximity to, and its position among these great bodies in space, all members of the same system or family.—Oregon State Journal.

The school population of one district in Tillamook county was doubled in six months through the correspondence of the pupils. Corvallis caused the sale of $600,000 worth of land through advertising in well-known agricultural papers in the older states. The Oregon Development League received over 16,000 inquiries from people wanting to know about Oregon farming lands.

There is nothing purer than honesty; nothing sweeter than charity; nothing warmer than love; nothing brighter than virtue, and nothing more steadfast than faith. These united in one mind form the purest, the sweetest, the richest, the brightest and the most steadfast happiness.—Ex.

It is to be regretted that neighboring ball teams cannot indulge in a friendly game without such occurrences as the one Sunday at Co-burg and the best way to accomplish this end is to prohibit the umpire from betting on the result of the contest.—Harrisburg Bulletin.

Miss Adelaide Hanscom, a Seattle artist, won the $500 prize offered for the official emblem of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. The design is artistic and fully typifies the purpose of the Exposition.

The grounds of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition occupy 250 acres of the campus of the University of Washington, a state institution.

Never mind the heat. Don't allow that lazy feeling to keep you from doing your duty. The new home-maker may buy something you want to sell.

A resolution endorsing Secretary of War Taft for the presidency was adopted by the Republican state central committee of Iowa.

Cottage Grove needs a Push Club—to put some of the nails down in dilapidated sidewalks.

Captured an Eagle.

F. W. Ellis, with the Albaux Dressed Beef company, returned last night from a trip beyond Corvallis, bringing back with him a bird which he says is a bald eagle. John Catlin declares it is a buzzard and that its head will turn red. It is the same family of birds anyway. It is bald-headed for certain, three months old and has a spread of wings of five feet. Mr. Ellis caught it on a farm four miles the other side of Corvallis. Its wings were so long for its body that it was unable to get away from him.

Before captured the bird attacked the 3-year-old child of John Goos, which was playing in the yard, and tried to get it by the head with its claws to carry it off if possible, which it could not have done at its present age, simply showing the instincts of the bird. He was driven off and finally Mr. Ellis succeeded in throwing his coat over the bird and securing possession of it, though it fought its captor the best it knew how.—Democrat.

Investigating Kicks.

President T. K. Campbell, of the Railroad Commission, returned to Salem this morning to resume the work of investigating kicks. The Commissioners have already had over one hundred kicks to investigate, and whether big or small, they have given them all the most careful consideration, doing everything possible for the people. One of the first they had was from Lebanon, and the result was a much improved service there, and this is proving true everywhere. The railroads are making their best efforts to secure better conditions.—Albany Democrat.

Eighteen teams contested for the State Rifle Team which goes East to the National Competition at Port Clinton, Ohio, this month and from these thirty of the best shots were chosen and are now at Roseburg in competition until August 8th, from which eighteen of the best shots will be chosen who will form the team that goes East. Among those now at Roseburg is Sergeant Petrie of Company E, who did some fine shooting at the encampment. He went to Roseburg Thursday afternoon and we hope to see him among the lucky eighteen.

Co. E also has several other excellent shots and will put out a rifle team next year that will make the older shots take notice.

STRAIN TOO GREAT

Hundreds of Cottage Grove Readers Find Daily Toil a Burden.

The hustle and worry of business men,

The hard work and stooping of workmen,

The woman's household cares,

Are too great a strain on the kidneys.

Backache, headache, sideache,

Kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.

H. Oliver of 1915 West St., Pendleton, Oregon, says: "I speak from experience when I say that Doan's Kidney Pills are a remedy that has much merit and can be depended upon for curing backache and kidney trouble. At a time when my back was so sore and lame that it was all I could do to bend over or straighten up again and the kidneys were deranged, Doan's Kidney Pills did more for me than everything else I had tried. Heavy work and colds have brought a twinge of stiffness in my back since then at times, but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have quickly removed the symptoms. This remedy can be relied upon to end sufferings similar to mine." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
