Will a merchant who is wise ever cease to advertise? Yes—when the trees grow upside down; when the beggars wear a crown; when the ice forms on the sun; when the sparrow weighs a ton; when gold dollars get too cheap; when women secrets keep; when fish forget to swim; when Satan sings a hymn; when girls go back on gum; when the small boy hates a drum; when no politicians schemes; when mince pie makes pleasant dreams; when all lawyers tell the truth; when cold water makes you drunk; when you love to smell a skunk; when the drummer has no brass—when these things come to pass, then a man that's wise will neglect to advertise.

"Commendation is due the city council in their effort to have the weeds cut from the streets. Let this good work be prosecuted, it is a step in the right direction."—Albany Herald.

The city fathers of Cottage Grove should do likewise and cause the weeds and thistles growing in the streets to be cut at once. In some places we notice they are four or five feet high and now is the time to cut them before they ripen and scatter their seeds.

Visit of Honolulu Ladies.

Mrs. Edythe Tozier Weathered was in the city Tuesday, and made the Leader office a pleasant call. Wednesday morning, she in company with some friends took a trip to Disston, the end of the O. & S. E. road. While there she had the misfortune to wrench her left knee in such a manner to make walking painful for a few days. Mrs. Weathered is on her way to Honolulu, where she goes to chaperone a party of Honolulu ladies on a trip to the Pacific coast. They will visit all the principal cities in Oregon and while in Cottage Grove will take a trip over the O. & S. E. where they will see some of the prettiest scenery in the west. Returning in the evening, they will be the guests of the city at a reception given in their honor. This visit of the Honolulu belles is a return call of the Oregon girls made them last year.

Eugene Girls Suicides

Thursday's Oregonian.—Because her lover, Edward Small, an iron moulder, refused to take her to Salem with him, Rachel Hathaway, a 19 year-old girl whose home is at Eugene, swallowed carbolic acid, in a room at 461 East Morrison street, about 10:40 o'clock last night, and died in agony one hour later.

Miss Hathaway came to Portland about two weeks ago, after having quarreled with her mother, and joined Small, who formerly lived at Eugene. Last night Small informed the girl that he intended to go to Salem and take a position at that place, and the girl objected to his leaving her. He tried to convince her that circumstances would not permit him to take care of her and also of his two children, and advised her to keep her position in Portland and wait for better times. She apparently acquiesced, but while he was getting her a drink of water, swallowed the contents of a phial of acid. Dr. Bruce was called by Mrs. Wert, the landlady of the rooming-house, but was unable to save the girl's life.

Coroner Fieley was summoned and took charge of the remains and has not yet decided whether an inquest will be held.

Edward Small, the lover of the dead girl, was later arrested by Deputy Sheriff Andrew and Patrolman Phillips, at Front and Morrison streets, while acting in a strange manner. According to Andrew, Small threatened to end his own life shortly after the girl died, and was followed across the bridge. He later denied any intention of self-destruction, but was locked up, as he may be wanted in case an inquest is held. He is a widower and his children are in the care of his mother at Eugene.
