The Cottage Grove creamery is unable to supply the demand for butter in this city and merchants have been sending away for butter. Mr. Stillier informs us that the demand for butter has never been so great as it is now, and all the creameries in the state are unable to supply the demand and cold storage butter is being used. Cream is as plentiful as usual, but the demand for butter is greater. Cottage Grove creamery pays one and a half cents more for butter fat than any other creamery in the state, or 34 cents, the market price being 32 1/2 cents.

Joint Social.

The ladies of the Woodmen Circle and the Woodmen, gave a joint chicken pie social at their hall last Tuesday eve, at which a goodly number of Woodmen and their ladies were present, and all had a most delightful time. Much credit is due the ladies committee, Mrs. Kimes, Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. C. Ross King, for the success of the affair. A short program of songs and recitations was rendered, followed by the initiation of a candidate into the mysteries of the Circle's third degree, in which Neighbor Coffman acted as tonsorial artist, Neighbor Rosenberg, examiner and Neighbors Jenkins and Vandenberg, as "Royal Butters." After the program sociability reigned supreme for an hour, when all repaired to the banquet hall where the tables were loaded with chicken pie, and other good things to which all did ample justice. Dr. Van Winkle carrying off the honors.

This was the first of a series of socials to be given by the Woodmen and Circle during the coming winter, and those intending joining should send their applications in early so as to not miss them.

The Flag Came Down

At six o'clock Thursday morning the Sophomore class at the public school raised their class flag on the flag pole forty feet high at the high school building, saying it would remain there until five o'clock, but the Freshies said "no," and at 12 o'clock sharp it came down, and came down quick and was buried in the classic waters of the North Fork. It was a mighty battle; a boy fell here and a girl fell there. Melvin Jordan climbed the pole like a man. Although he was stoned, and three streams of water turned on him, he kept right on until he secured the "yellow rag" and after much hardship succeeded in passing it to Clay Mosby who was ready with his faithful charger to make the famous ride which he did, and wrapping the flag about a big rock sank it in disgrace to the bottom of the river.

The affair created quite a bit of excitement about the school and the Freshies are doing some great boasting.

COUNTY WINS CASE

Lucky Boy Mining Company Fails to Prosecute and Case Dismissed.

The case of the Lucky Boy Mining Company vs. Lane County, in which the company claims $7,000 damages for the establishment of a county road over what the company claimed as its property between Blue River City and the mines, was dismissed Monday morning in the circuit court at Roseburg, on account of the failure of the company to appear and prosecute.

About a year ago the county established a public road from Blue River City to the mines, and five miles of the road established was along the road claimed to be owned by the mining company. The county viewers in laying out the road allowed the company no damages and the latter appealed the case to the circuit court, claiming the sum of $7,000. A change of venue was taken to Douglass county and the case continued for two terms at the request of the mining company, but when it came up this term it was dismissed because the company's attorneys failed to appear.

The county's right to the road is now fully established, and there will be no future trouble with blockades, such as occurred at different times when the road was owned by the Lucky Boy company.
