

THE HOUSEWIFE

Adhesive Plaster.

Though adhesive plaster is common to almost every household, comparatively few women know how to use it to the best advantage. Many make the mistake of putting it directly over the entire surface of a wound or cut, which is bad, for unless a certain amount of air circulates about the sore it will not heal readily. The correct way of applying adhesive plaster is to cut it into narrow strips from a sixteenth to an eighth of an inch in width, though the dimensions, both in length and crossways, must be determined by the size of the cut. These are put smoothly across wounds at intervals of an eighth of an inch or less to bring the surfaces together. Before using adhesive plaster the flesh surrounding the wound and the raw part itself must be thoroughly cleaned with an antiseptic soap and carefully dried with surgically clean gauze.

Dishwashing Made Easy.

The chief things required to make dishwashing a pleasure are care, order, plenty of good hot water and a stack of dry tea towels, two dishcloths and a large enamel dishpan. The dishes, when removed from the table, must have each of its kind put together. Put all the cooking utensils on the range and fill them with water until the time comes to clean them.

Have a receptacle in which to place all the scraps that come from the dishes, plates, etc. The most important thing is to have plenty of hot water—not merely warm, but hot—and use some good soap in the water to make your suds. It cleans the greasy meat dishes and plates twice as quickly. Have your mops with handles for deep mouthed jugs and have nice dishcloths made of cheesecloth.

Chair and Crib Combined.

The crib and the high chair are two of the needfuls of every household in which are young children. To combine the two in one piece of furniture is a recent invention of two California cabinetmakers. Besides serving the two purposes equally well, the appearance has not been slighted in the least, the combination being attractive rather than cumbersome. In the illustration it is shown in the position of a high chair, rollers being attached to the end frame. To convert the high chair into a crib it is only necessary to change the position, the rockers at the back of the high chair serving the same purpose as rockers on an ordinary crib. The seat in the high chair is readily removed and the necessary pillows and coverings inserted.

To Cook Vegetables.

Underground vegetables, roots and tubers and also vegetables whose stalk is eatable should be cooked in unsalted water, as salt tends to toughen their woody fiber. Soft water, even, is to be preferred to hard for cooking vegetables of that nature. Demonstrate this fact to your own satisfaction by cooking white turnips both ways. In the one case they will come out mealy and delectable; in the other—that is, cooked in salted water—they become hard, coarse and highly indigestible.

Treatment For Sprains.

A sprained wrist or ankle should be bathed in hot water or vinegar and water and a damp, cold rag afterward wrapped loosely around the injured part and the whole covered with a piece of rubber or oiled silk. A very hot bran or bread poultice applied at once will often prevent swelling and pain. The patient should be kept perfectly quiet, as sprains require as much rest as a broken limb. Cold salt and water douches also do good.

To Remove Rust Stains.

In removing rust stains by a solution of oxalic acid, or chlorinated soda, or javelle water, or any one of half a dozen detergents. Whatever you use, do not fail to rinse the article treated in pure water within ten minutes after application of the detergent. Then lay it in the hot sunshine and keep it wet with lemon juice for seven or eight days. Soak all night and wash in the usual way.

Steaming Brown Bread.

Instead of steaming brown bread on the stove put the bread in a pan, place that in a larger pan half full of water, cover tightly, steam in the oven over four or five hours. Have a moderate fire. This saves steam from boiling all over the house; also from pulling the bottle every few minutes, as you never have to look at it at all.

A Good Silver Polish.

A cheap and simple way of brightening dull silver is to let it lie all night in loppered milk. A brisk wash next day in hot water is all that is needed after the milk bath.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."
We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.
It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.
