Bostonian Minstrel Maids.

The Bostonian Minstrel Maids in their performance Saturday evening won a fair measure of success, it being out of the usual order of girl entertainment. The grand first part exhibited an enticing circle of radiant young buds in the place of the old-time burnt cork artists. However, the lilliputians were possessed of good voices and their localized gags and conundrums at the expense of the city officials and private citizens were timely and cleverly "dubbed." The olio had just the suggestion of a plot to string the incidents upon it and many of the specialties and song hits bore the real label on them as clean, dainty and absolutely new.

Had a Successful Hunt.

Elzie Holderman, Al Veatch, G. T. Berry, Louis Groves and J. D. Cochran, went up to "Grassy Ranch" far beyond Bohemia two weeks ago for a big hunt. The boys returned home Saturday evening and have hunting tales in stock sufficient to entertain their friends all winter. However they proved successful hunters, having slain 16 deer and one fine black bear. They report this wild in the cascades an ideal hunting ground. A fine time was reported.

COUNCIL WILL REPAIR MAIN STREET BRIDGE

The regular monthly session of the city council was held Monday evening. A petition for a street light on Taylor street and also three lights east of the railroad was referred to the light committee. The recorder was instructed to notify the city treasurer that all moneys paid in on street assessments should be used in the payment of warrants issued for the improvement of these respective streets.

Mr. Shepardson was granted permission to connect with the water pipes over in east Cottage Grove to expedite his building operations, he having commenced work on a new residence on his lots in Georgetown addition.

The bridge committee reported that material had been ordered for the repair of the Main street bridge including two main stringers and repair work will commence at once.

Ladies Evening at Commercial Club.

There was a brilliant social function in the Commercial club parlors last evening, the occasion being "ladies evening," a social event which the members of the club hope to celebrate oftener than usual during the coming winter season. There was a large attendance of club members with their wives and a few friends and the following entertaining program was carried out, P. H. Rosenberg officiating very gracefully as master of ceremonies.

PROGRAM.

Piano solo.....Miss Gail Hare
Reading.....Dr. Kime
Vocal solo.....Miss Maude Blair
Dialect reading.....Mrs. Compton
Piano duet Misses Rosenberg and Brown
Reading.....Mrs. F. D. Wheeler
Quartet.....Mesdames Van Winkle, Conner, Thompson and Brund.
Pantomime reading.....Mrs. H. H. Veatch
"Moving pictures".....
Mrs. F. C. Wheeler, F. H. Rosenberg, D. J. DaBrulle, M. H. Anderson.

All of the numbers received hearty applause and several responses were given to encores.

A guessing game followed in which answers to printed questions on cards were suggested by some musical numbers played by Miss Gail Hare on the piano. In this contest Mrs. Van Winkle was awarded the prize, a pretty framed picture.

A social session followed and splendid refreshments, cake and punch, was served and the evening was voted a most delightful one by all in attendance.

Died.

LINBKE—At the home of his father on Silk creek, October 5, 1908, Augustus Linbke, aged 20 years and 6 months, of consumption.

Deceased came to this place to reside only about four months ago and was in ill health at that time. Funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Dr. Nave officiating. Interment in the I. O. O. F. cemetery under the directions of the M. W. A. order of which deceased was a member in Washington and carried a $2000 policy.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

The frost will paint the sassafras a deep and glowing red, and the farm hand will resume his howl for blankets on his bed. The plant exuded phosphorus will gossamer the air, the stiff rheumatic will put on his wind-proof underwear, the southward moving ducks will quack upon the reeded lakes, and man will line himself inside with buttered flannel cakes.

Mary had a shapely limb, her skirts were white as snow, and everywhere that Mary went the wind was sure to blow.

Mrs. C. A. Harlow spent a few days up on the farm on Row river last week. Her little son went out and caught 23 nice fish and upon coming to the house remarked, "Mamma the fish were glad to see me back."

They do say E. J. Lewis is a cracker-jack on socialism. At the armory Wednesday night.

H. H. Veatch, the hardwareman, returned home from Corvallis Saturday after enjoying a three days pheasant hunt with friends of that city. Henry says he got the limit every day and his well trained bird dog was the admiration of all the sportsmen. He has refused a $100 proffer for this dog two or three times. Henry brought home as a souvenir of the hunt a full grown live male pheasant which became rattled in a fence corner by a surprise from the dog and was caught alive. S. R. Piper was presented with this trophy.

Come on boys, lets go to the armory Wednesday night and see if that man Lewis has the goods.*
Mr. and Mrs. G. O. McGilvray returned Monday from Walla Walla where they spent two weeks visiting with their son and wife. They report a very pleasant trip and say that all the towns they visited are busy and prosperous. There is more rush and business going on in Portland than in any other city they passed through on their 1100 mile journey, but Walla Walla presented the nicest appearance with beautiful farms to back it. While a great deal of building is going on everywhere, Cottage Grove shows more permanent and substantial buildings going up than any other town of its size. For health and scenery, however, Canyonville leads them all.—Canyonville Echo.

L. F. Wooley, the contractor, surprised his many friends Sunday by dressing up in his very best—boiled shirt, white vest and other happy toggery and then taking a plunge in the cool waters of the Coast Fork. Some say he went fishing and fell in, but the only thing found in his possession was a garden rake, so this exploded the fishing theory. The facts are Frank's young son dropped his sire's best new handsaw in a deep pool in the river a few days ago while attempting to saw a limb from a tree on the bank. So the elder Wooley equipped with a garden rake was fishing for the saw when the limb broke to which he was holding and he was precipitated head first into the cool, placid waters of the river, receiving a thorough ducking. The next time he goes fishing for a handsaw in the mill pond he will procure a divers suit.

Contractor Hart has his big sewer contract well under way—about one-half completed.

Sam Lockwood is critically ill at his home on Wall street being a sufferer from cancer in his ear.

Mrs. C. A. Wooley went to Cottage Grove Friday to visit her son L. F. Wooley and family for a few days.—Register.

County Judge G. R. Chrisman is back again from a short vacation which he spent with his wife and son in Southern California.

Bob Lackey will return to Silver Lake in a few days after a business visit at this place. He says Cottage Grove is making wonderful strides ahead.

Mrs. F. D. Wheeler and Mrs. N. E. Compton went to Portland today as delegates to the state convention of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Wheeler is Lane county president of the blue ribboners.

W. H. Abrams and wife have been at Salem a few days attending Mr. Abrams daughter, Mrs. O. O. McClellan who has been quite ill, but who is improving. Mrs. Abrams has returned home.

The newly organized Cottage Grove band is making rapid progress in its weekly rehearsals with Chas. Cochran as director. The boys will render some good music during the forthcoming harvest fair.

This week Frank Crabtree commenced putting stone and other material on his lots on Wall street adjoining Mr. Rees' property for a $1500 modern cottage on which work will be commenced at once. Mr. Crabtree will occupy this cottage himself.

Oysters in any style at the Wave.

S. V. Snodgrass, of Minnesota, father of City Marshal Frank Snodgrass, arrived in this city Saturday, his wife prolonging her visit with their daughters in Portland. Mr. Snodgrass is favorably impressed with Oregon and will remain here indefinitely.

For oyster cocktails go to the Wave.

The "forced to unload" plan has struck Eugene where a prominent dry good store will have a "gigantic sale" and "rain or shine the battle goes on" and the entire stock is "thrown to the winds," and it will be "a sale without a parallel." And all of this in a city that has been making such great pretensions.—Statesman. It's an old song here.

Twenty pounds of flour for a bushel of oats at Spray & Co's.

"The Montana Limited" is not a wild and woolly melodrama, but a play in all that term implies. It is a poem pulsating with the life of the West of the present day; its situations are natural, strong and effective; its atmosphere is that of the mountain pines, wholesome and exhilarating. Its sentiment is lofty, its lessons uplifting and its realism of the kind that stimulates nobility of purpose and action. At the armory hall Oct. 14th.

Spray & Co., the new brick near the depot, will pay cash for your produce.

L. F. Orpud and wife, accompanied Mrs. Purvance and daughter, Miss Myrtle, to Lorane, Saturday, where the latter moved their household goods and will occupy the parsonage during the time Miss Myrtle is employed to teach the Lorane public schools, which have an eight months term. Mr. and Mrs. Orpud returned home Sunday and report splendid country roads between Cottage Grove and Lorane valley, a distance of 12 miles.
