The registration of voters for the November election closes on October 20.

Our Congressman Hawley is making good, in his speaking tour in Indiana and Ohio.

About the only real, live enterprising promotion organization in Cottage Grove is the Ladies Club.

County Clerk Lee is getting the November election supplies ready to send out to the fifty precincts in the county.

By a unanimous decision of the supreme court of Washington, the direct primary law is upheld in every particular.

One thing can be said for the Cottage Grove Commercial Club, anyway. It is developing some pretty good bowlers and billiard players.

The stores are getting in new goods and preparing for the fall and winter trade, which promises to be a big improvement over that of last season.

Clean up Main street. The Leader knows no reason why Main street should be obstructed with brick and rubbish for two weeks after building operations along the street are completed. Clean it up!

In some of the Salem, and many of the Portland churches, ladies remove their hats during the regular services. This custom has become general at theaters and other places of entertainment and why not in the churches?

Justice R. S. Bryson of Eugene, must be a very bad man, or else he has grounds for criminal libel against the Eugene Guard, which on Tuesday preferred the following serious charge against him: "Died, at the office of Justice of the Peace, R. S. Bryson, Eugene, October 12, 1908, Harvey H. March and Miss Ada May Pyburn, the justice officiating." In the next column we found the following startling notice: "Married, at his home in Eugene, October 12, 1908, Chas. R. Mason, aged 59 years, from paralysis." In meditating over the matter we have about concluded that in the mixup incident to moving into its fine new brick office the Guard only got its headings transferred, the marriage head over the death notice and vice versa.

A Wide-Awake Woman

looks after the sanitation of her home for the sake of her husband, her children, herself. Careful and scientific plumbing counts for much, and costs not much more than the old, indifferent, slapdash style of work. Only one word more: We are modern, sanitary plumbers.

Phillips Bros.

Our Standard of Education Pitched Too Low.

By ELMER E. BROWN, United States Commissioner of Education.

NOT only our own national development, but, more particularly, our closer touch with the rest of the world, has shown us that OUR STANDARDS HAVE BEEN PITCHED TOO LOW. This is true both on the side of knowledge and on the side of skill in teaching. In our new position in the world it is not enough that we win patronizing approval of our science and of our school instruction from the older culture nations.

THAT NEW POSITION REQUIRES OF US THAT WE DO OUR FULL PART IN DETERMINING WHAT THE WORLD STANDARD SHALL BE, BOTH IN PURE SCIENCE AND IN PEDAGOGIC PRACTICE.

This is particularly difficult when half our teaching force is a rope of sand and when the profitable pursuits of applied science are luring our scientists away from their laboratories.

The city council has evidently never heard of that old, but nevertheless true adage, "procrastination is the thief of time," or else it takes little heed of the old admonition, otherwise it would not have waited until the fall rains set in before the improvement of the bridge across the river on Main street was undertaken. On Wednesday the bridge was closed to travel, at the same time the river having been swollen by the late rains until it was dangerous fording, which besides being a great inconvenience to travel and traffic, is dangerous to life of both man and beast. Verily, "men are only boys grown tall, heads don't change much after all."

Finnegan had appendicitis, and he was operated on. The next day, the doctor came back and told Finnegan that he would have to open him again as he had left his scissors in him. That was all right, but the next day the doctor came back again and told Finnegan he was sorry but he had to open the wound again as he had left his spool of thread in him. Finnegan said, "all right doctor, but if it is just the same to you, would you mind putting buttons and button holes on that wound, it would be easier."

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTOR WILL SPEAK HERE

Hon. R. R. Butler, one of the republican presidential electors, will speak at Cottage Grove on Saturday evening October 17th, at the armory hall. Mr. Butler is a lawyer and is an orator of more than average ability. His home is at Condon where he is associated with Mr. Jay Bowerman, attorney at law. Mr. Butler is a Southerner and a graduate of a Tennessee college. He is a grandson of Hon. R. R. Butler who represented one of the Tennessee districts in Congress for more than twenty years. The state republican secretary says: "I have received demands from all parts of the state for Mr. Butler's services, and you can assure your people that they are very fortunate in having an opportunity to hear him."

LADIES CLUB WILL PURCHASE A PARK

a strange country, is apt to get lonesome.

But in Eugene, a visiting committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary calls upon her and invites the family to the fortnightly meetings, which take place every other Wednesday at the Club rooms. The newcomer meets a bevy of charming, hospitable women and from then on, she is no longer a stranger.

It is this unselfish work of Eugene's women that is giving the city a reputation for hospitality.

After a short business session, the evening is devoted to music, recitations, etc., furnished by local amateur talent.

On special occasions, when excursions visit Eugene, the Commercial Club has only to call upon the auxiliary and the latter does the honors.

The State Grange, the Portland excursionists and other bodies of visitors were thus regaled by the Auxiliary, who not only got up but served the luncheon, dinner or supper as the occasion might require.

The whole city owes these women a debt of gratitude, for the work is done with a vim, although entirely gratuitous.

As a prominent community-promoter remarked: "Get the women interested in your work and the battle is half won."
