More Substantial Improvements.

H. K. Metcalf, the grocer, has converted his single story cottage on Wall street into a two story modern cottage of a very pretty design and now has one of the prettiest homes on Wall street.

John Veatch has had the carpenters at work building a large addition to his cozy cottage in the McEarland's addition.

G. L. Rees of the firm of Rees, Wallace Co., will soon move into his elegant home on Wall street, known as the McGilvray residence property, which Mr. and Mrs. Rees has had completely overhauled and modernized. The brick masons completed the fire place and chimney Friday and the paper hangers and painters will soon have put on the finishing touches.

Contractor Thomas with a force of men are making rapid progress on the beautiful and commodious modern cottage home of Mr. Shepardson in the Long addition one block east of the depot. He has a sited location and will soon have one of the finest homes in Cottage Grove.

Killed a Big Bear.

Bob Teague shot the largest bear of this season yesterday morning near the Dimnick sawmill, two miles north of town. His dogs treed Mr. Bruin Wednesday night, and they, together with several bonfires, encouraged the big brute to stay in the tree until Bob went home and got his rifle. As soon as daylight came he sent the big fellow to bear heaven by means of five or six Winchester bullets. It measured eight feet from tip to tip and weighed 500 pounds.—Drain Nonpareil.

Magnificent Red Apples.

A box of as fine Spitzenberg apples as ever grew in the Hood River or Rogue River valley, may be seen in the show window at the Modern Pharmacy. For coloring, size and quality these apples are unexcelled and are the product of the orchards of Dr. L. D. Scarborough, at Creswell, 10 miles north of this city. This box was packed by C. R. Boyd, an expert packer of Cottage Grove, who with his father and brothers recently came to this city from Medford, Jackson county, and invested in some fine fruit lands south of this city, which they are planting to orchards. The box is first lined with white paper, the apples are graded and packed four tiers wide, four tiers deep and eight apples in length, and will command the highest price in any market.

Mr. Boyd has been engaged in packing the Scarborough apple crop, which was purchased by C. E. Stewart of Cottage Grove for a New York house, and says that he has never seen finer apples grown in any country or any other section of Oregon. This shows conclusively what can be done in the way of producing fine winter apples in this section of the country when intelligent and up-to-date methods of handling an orchard is adopted.

We need many more orchardists like Dr. Scarborough in South Lane county and will soon have them, judging from the way energetic and practical fruit growers like Mr. Boyd, Messrs. Stewart, J. F. Spray and others are going into it. Choice winter pears, cherries, prunes and several other varieties of fruits thrive equally as well here.

It is said Yonealla is contributing to our "fire sale" and didn't have a fire either. It reminds one of the parable of the loaves and the fishes.

The well established Millinery business of Ida Frances Barrett is for sale. For further particulars inquire at The Ideal Millinery store. 31-8f

M. V. DeWald and wife returned to Cottage Grove Monday after having appeared as witness in the circuit court against the thugs, Murphy and Harvey.

Regular Thursday evening prayer service at the Presbyterian church, subject "Men of Fire," illustrations from the old and new testaments. All are invited.

J. M. Deeds and B. Hamble, of the circulation department of the Eugene Register are hustling for subscribers in this city today. The Leader was favored with a call.

Have Dr. Lowe relieve your head and eye ache with a pair of his superior glasses they cost no more than others and you have the benefit of his skill and over 19 years experience.

Marriage licenses were issued Saturday to the following: Thos. C. Pope, of Lake Creek, and Miss Olga Swanson, of Alpha; Geo. W. Catching, of Wendling, and Mrs. Meda Smith, of Coburg.

The best theatrical troupe to have visited this city this season was that of Hearde's theatrical company. They will play a one night return engagement Wednesday evening Nov. 18th. Mr. Hearde is well known here and his friends will boost for a full house for him.

Mrs. Doc Leroy and children arrived in this city Sunday from Lake county to spend the winter with her mother, Mrs. Purvance and brother, Ernest Purvance of Disston. She was met at this place and accompanied to Disston Monday by her mother and brother the former having lately returned to this city from Lovane.

The new Main street bridge will be open to travel in a few days. Contractor Hubble and his men obstructed travel to footmen very little. Congratulations gentlemen.

I have some of the best White Leghorn cockrels and pullets in the state which I am obliged to dispose of at once. If you want some choice birds cheap call this week. F. B. PHILLIPS. 29f

The scientific examination of the eyes and correct adjustment of glasses if necessary is Dr. Lowe's exclusive business. Don't fail to consult him about your eyes and glasses next Monday and to Tuesday-noon Nov. 16th and 17th. Remember the days.

C. M. Shinn, of Portland, has purchased a part interest in the local light and power plant. He is a "new" comer in this vicinity, very much pleased with his property, and the town. His wife and family are with him and they will make their home here in the future.

Remember the musical recital to be given at the armory hall next Monday evening by the Chorus Club of Royal Academy, of Silk creek. This is a home talent entertainment and should be liberally patronized. Receipts go toward furnishing new dormitory at the school.

A fine line of ladies suits and coats at W. A. Hemenways. 27f

Miss Anna Oglesby arrived at her home in this city late last week from Colfax, Washington, where she holds the position of operator in a local telegraph office. She will prove up on her timber claim in the U. S. land office at Roseburg and visit briefly with her parents in this city before returning to Colfax.

Clean seed oats 50 cents per bushel at the flour mill. 30f

Eckhardt's Ideals played a two nights engagement at this place Friday and Saturday nights to fair sized houses. Both bills consisted of sparkling comedy, the last night witnessing the presentation of that roaring comedy, "Brown's in Town," and it was certainly the funniest show of the season. Eckhardt's Ideals are alright.

Dr. K. A. Leep, for 18 years practicing physician at Myrtle Point, has located in Eugene with his family to give his children the benefit of our school advantages and will open an office for the practice of his profession, says the Eugene Register. A Leader scribe remembers Dr. Leep as an old hunting companion at Myrtle Point, when for three years the writer was at the helm of the Myrtle Point Enterprise. It used to make "Doc" say things when we bagged the most "Jack Snipe" or came in with the largest bag of ducks. Bet we can also skin him shooting China pheasants.

A new line of mens hats, latest shapes and shades at W. A. Hemenways—The Toggery. 27f

S. B. Morss, the local nurseryman, is delivering many very fine looking fruit trees to local fruit growers. This is his new nursery's first year's output, but the trees, which are only yearlings are very vigorous and show a wonderful growth of roots, indicating that the soil on which this local nursery is planted is ideal for the production of sturdy shoots and the development of strong roots, both essential to the rapid development of an orchard. Mr. Morss has all of the common and commercial varieties of fruit trees and is constantly increasing his stock and varieties. His prices are very reasonable.

Contract Let For New Brick.

O. O. Veatch awarded the contract for a new two story brick building to replace the one recently destroyed by fire on the corner of Main and Fourth streets today to George Lea. The new building will be 50x80 feet with two store rooms on the ground floor and a large lodge room on the second floor and will be modern in every particular.

START THE WINTER RIGHT.

"A poor beginning makes a good ending" when a man starts with a cent and ends with a million, but a start with rumpy birds in November often means a smashup by December.

"What's wrong with my cockerels? In September they were a show bird picture, and now their tails are crooked and combs are flop."

"Your birds have lost ambition to hold their tails straight because they have rumpy combs."

A start with colds often knocks a winter's prospects into a cocked hat, and all because some fellows won't learn to keep stock from running in cold fall rains, slopping in frosty mud and exposure to frosty air currents.

Then there's that old ruffler that starts to cough up rump microbes when the first frost comes. She's a case of spore the ax and spoil your success. She's worse at starting a flock to sneeze than the boys who most made you sneeze the top of your head off at school with red pepper.

Now, some old stagers can stand such knocks. They are canvasbacks in cold rains and seem immune to the contaminating influence of that old disease breeder you've been foolish enough to keep. But what of those beautiful pullets whose combs begin to bloom like roses, who are singing their fondelay, who are making their first debut with their telltale red splashed egg? Your winter egg sales at top notch prices depend on those young hens that are seeing their first snow. You can't sell rumpy roasters and keep a reliable reputation. You don't want to be worrying, losing, doctoring or digging graves all winter. Just remember—

The hens that start the year with cold are shy on bringing in the gold. The hen that puts her foot to snow will fall to make the business go.

ALL WHITE FEATHERED FOWLS.

Breeders of market chickens should sit up and take notice that the world's demand is swinging round to white feathered fowls.

The day is near when egg farms will be run entirely by the champion 8 C. White Leghorn "egg machines."

Flesh producers will also discard solid black, particolored and any color but white. If they answer the demand their market poultry will be mostly White Rocks, White Dottes and White Orpingtons. This also means that the coming poultry show will not be "fancy," but "utility," not a foolish judging of "barred to the skin" and "seven feathers to a rooster's tail," but the judging of fine fancy flesh and eggs.

The revolution is in full swing across the pond and already here.

It's going to be all Pekin ducks, Embden geese and White Homers too. And why? Simply a kick against dark pinfeathers. For this, the customer doesn't want dark fowls, the city dealer neither, and the pickers are also kicking, and, reader, if you have to eat pinfeathers, you want them white too.

To test this, just take similar size White and Barred Rocks to market in separate crates and note how quickly the Whites go in preference to the Barred.

Sorry to jar you if you keep dark fowls, but it's up to you to join in or get left.

The Drug Question

especially in time of sickness—is one which puzzles many. But the average doctor in town is never in doubt as to where to send one for a prescription. The medicine is wanted right, pure, prompt and as economical as possible. Consequently he has to send here for it. You are sure of quick and polite service, the purest and freshest of drugs, and a most conscientious charge for same.
