HEART TO HEART TALK WITH BIG LAND HOLDERS

The little town of Harrisburg is setting up, rubbing its eyes and taking notice, as a result of which its citizens have just raised a fund of $1,000 to be used in advertising the town and community. Now the farmers thereabouts, instead of boosting are indirectly knocking the whole movement by immediately raising the price of their lands from $3 to $5 per acre. This is a poor way to settle up a community. The Leader has observed all along that men who have been crazy for the last 20 years to sell a few acres of their surplus lands, invariably are among the first to advance their prices just as soon as enterprising local real estate men, by their energy and output of hard earned dollars, bring a few land buyers into a community. This is what is the matter with Oregon and is retarding its growth. We know of tracts of hill land with six inches of soil overlying clay or shale-rock on which the price has been advanced from $25 to $75 per acre. The result will be that this land will remain unimproved and undeveloped for the next decade, as these land buyers are not all "suckers", but are generally experienced, hard fisted farmers or fruit growers, who are familiar with land values. If you have more land than you can pay taxes on, put a reasonable price on it and let some industrious fellow develop it. Otherwise your children's children will be the only ones to derive any benefit from the sale of such holdings and the town and country tributary will plod along in about the same old familiar way. Land holders and farmers, why not do a little sacrificing boosting along with your city brother to promote the growth and upbuilding of your community?

Has anybody ever noticed that the pictures of Secretary Elihu Root of Washington and Judge Alfred S. Bennett of The Dalles look exactly alike? Both of them are noted for never having combed their hair.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts. He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery
prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

FIVE BLIND PIGGERS ASK MERCY OF COURT

There seemed to be a general inclination Monday on the part of parties under indictment for violating the local option law by selling liquor illegally to trust to the mercy of the court, rather than to take chances of a trial before the jury. Five different parties pleaded guilty and one pleaded not guilty. They are as follows:

Joe Jacobs pleaded guilty on another indictment filed against him, and will receive his sentence on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Pony Witter of Springfield pleaded guilty and will receive his sentence on Wednesday at 9 o'clock. Ray Littlefield plead guilty to the indictment filed against him, and the court gave him some fatherly advice, but gave him a jail sentence of 30 days.

Shell Coffman plead guilty on one indictment and was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and to go to jail for 30 days.

John Williams plead guilty to one of the indictments filed against him, and was fined $500 which he paid at once. There are several other indictments hanging over him, however.

Cyrus Woolbridge, who was brought here from Jackson county by Sheriff Bown, plead not guilty to the indictment and Fred DeNeffe was appointed to defend him.

Jack Parsons of Springfield was arrested on an indictment returned against him Monday on the same charge of selling liquor and was arraigned Monday evening.

The second demurrer to the indictment against Burt Kelsay was argued before Judge Harris Monday.

The trial jury will be on hand today to take up the cases that are for trial.

W. L. Ford Pays up His Fine.

W. L. Ford, who was brought from Klamath Falls by the sheriff some 30 days ago and pleaded guilty to selling booze at Springfield, and received a sentence of 30 days in jail and a fine of $300, finished serving his jail sentence and one day over, Saturday. He paid $298 cash and was given his liberty.

Sheriff Bown Goes After Booze Seller.

An indictment was brought against Cyrus Woolbridge charging him with selling liquor unlawfully near Junction. Woolbridge had left the county and was located at Jacksonville, where he was arrested Friday. Sheriff Bown left to bring him to Eugene for trial.

A Suit in Circuit Court.

The Diston Lumber company has commenced suit against the Cottage Grove Manufacturing company for goods sold and delivered amounting to $1310.57 and interest. Pipes & Pipes are plaintiff's attorneys.

COUNTY SEAT ITEMS OF INTEREST

T. C. Wheeler was down from Cottage Grove Friday on legal business.

Died, at 8.45 Friday morning, December 5, 1908, Floyd, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Callison, aged one year.

Mrs. Ella Mitchell and little daughter of Pleasant Hill were in Eugene Friday and went to Cottage Grove on the afternoon train to visit friends.

Prevalence of cigarette smoking among boys of the Eugene high school has caused the school board to take preliminary steps toward stopping the practice. There is a very stringent law in this state making it a misdemeanor punishable by fine to sell cigarettes to minors under 18 years of age, also a fineable offence for any minor under 18 years to smoke either a cigar or cigarette or tobacco in any form in any public place whatsoever.

So much dissatisfaction has arisen over the determination of a majority of the council to run things with a high hand on the water question that the citizens, who feel that the general public have some rights that the council ought to respect, have inaugurated a referendum petition giving the people a right to say at the April election whether they approve of the mayor and council's action over the manner in which a water commission is to be foisted upon the city. The petitions were started Friday and were freely signed.

KIPLING'S TRIBUTE TO DOCTORS

(By request of Dr. W. W. Oglesby.)

It is the custom in the London medical schools to open the year's work with a ceremony in which oratory is the principal feature. Rudyard Kipling was the layman selected to address the students at the Middlesex Hospital, and he made a delightful address which was worthy of a wider and non-professional audience. He said:

"It may not have escaped your professional observation that there are only two classes of mankind in the world—doctors and patients. I have had some delicacy in confessing that I have belonged to the patient class ever since a doctor told me that all the patients were phenomenal liars where their own symptoms were concerned.

If I dared to take advantage of this magnificent opportunity which now is before me I should like to talk to you all about my own symptoms. However, I have been ordered—on medical advice—not to talk about patient, but doctors. Speaking, then, as a patient, I should say that the average patient looks upon the average doctor very much as the non-combatant looks upon the troops fighting on his behalf. The more trained men there are between his body and the enemy, he thinks, the better.

"I have had the good fortune this afternoon of meeting a number of trained men who in due time will be drafted in your permanently mobilized army which is always in action, always under fire against death. Of course, it is a little unfortunate that Death, as the senior practitioner, is bound to win in the long run, but we non-combatants, we patients, console ourselves with the idea that it will be your business to make the best terms you can with Death on our behalf: to see how his attacks can be longest delayed or diverted, and, when he insist on driving the attack home, to see that he does it according to the rules of civilized warfare.

"Every sane human being is agreed that this long-drawn fight for time that we call life is one of the most important things in the world. It follows, therefore, that you, who control and oversee this fight, and who will re-enforce it, must be among the most important people in the world.

"Certainly the world will treat you on that basis. It has long ago decided that you have no working hours that anybody is bound to respect, and nothing except your extreme bodily illness will excuse you in its eyes from refusing to help a man who thinks he may need your help at any hour of the day or night.

"Nobody will care whether you are in your bed, or in your bath, or on your holiday or at the theater—if any one of the children of men has a pain or a hurt in him you will be summoned. And, as you know, what little vitality you may have accumulated in your leisure will be dragged out of you again.

"In all times of flood, fire, famine, plague, pestilence, battle, murder and sudden death, it will be required of you that you report for duty at once and that you go on duty at once and that you stay on duty until your strength fails you, or your conscience relieves you, whichever may be the longer period. This is your position. These are some of your obligations, and I do not think that they will grow any lighter.

"Have you heard of any legislation to limit your output? Have you heard of any bill for an eight-hour day for doctors? Do you know of any change in public opinion which will allow you not to attend a patient when you know that the man never means to pay you?"

"I am sorry you have met my demonstration with a certain amount of levity. May I remind you of some of your privileges? You and kings are about the only people whose explanation the police will accept if you exceed the legal limit in your car. On presentation of your visiting card you can pass through the most turbulent crowd unmolested and even with applause.

"To do your poor patients justice, we do not often dispute doctors' order unless we are frightened or upset by a long continuance of epidemic diseases. In this case, if we are uncivilized, we say that you have poisoned the drinking water for your own purposes, and we turn out and throw stones at you in the street. If we are civilized we do something else, but a civilized people can throw stones, too.

"You have been and always will be exposed to the contempt of the gifted amateur—the gentleman who knows by intuition everything that it has taken you years to learn. You always will be exposed to the attacks of those persons who consider their own undisciplined emotions more important than the world's most bitter agonies—the people who would limit and cripple and hamper research because they fear research may be accompanied by a little pain and suffering. (Cheers.)

"But you have heard this afternoon a little of the history of your profession. You will find that such people have been with you—or, rather, against you—from the very beginning, ever since, I should say, the earliest Egyptians erected images in honor of cats—and dogs—on the banks of the Nile. Yet your work goes on, and will go on.

"You remain now, perhaps, the only class that dares to tell the world that we can get no more out of a machine than we put into it; that if the fathers have eaten forbidden fruit, the children's teeth are very liable to be afflicted. Your training shows you that things are what they are, and will be what they will be, and that we deceive no one except ourselves when we pretend otherwise.

"Better still, you can prove what you have learned. If a patient choose to disregard your warning, you have not to wait a generation to convince him. You know you will be called in a few days or weeks, and you will find your careless friend with a pain in his inside or a sore place on his body, precisely as you warned him would be the case.

"Realizing these things, I do not think I need stretch your patience by talking to you about the high ideals and the lofty ethics of a profession which exacts from its followers the largest responsibility and the highest death rate—for its practitioners—of any profession in the world. If you will let me, I will wish you in your future what all men desire—enough work to do and strength enough to do the work."

MAKING LIFE BURDEN TO BOOZE SELLERS

Deputy Sheriffs Major C. C. Hammond and George Croner went to Springfield on Thursday evening and arrested "Pony" Winters and James Karnahan on bench warrants issued out of the circuit court. Both men were indicted by the grand jury for selling liquor unlawfully. Karnahan gave bail and Winters is in jail. Both will be tried at the present term of court.

For more and better cows. That is the slogan in Oregon. It is one of the grandest prosperity slogans for this state.
