Last Friday evening a very small audience greeted that splendid high class comedy "We are King" at the armory theater, but this did not prompt the players to slight their roles. Carroll, as "king" has the ability to make the most of a witty speech, and his easy, off-hand manner is quite captivating. Edmund Deane is a clever actor and his portrayal of the prime minister was highly appreciated. "We are King" is built along the lines of "The Prisoner of Zenda," and is a good, clean, wholesome comedy of more than usual merit. The little "vaudeville sketch" not down on the program, fairly brought down the house, however embarrassing to one of the leading ladies, whose skirts were in some manner caught in the curtain as it went up, but was speedily released by the curtain being lowered. It is evident that the minstrel or melo-drama is about the only sort of theatricals which appeals to Cottage Grove theater goers. Capt. Johnson, manager of the armory, says he does not think he will book any more attractions for this city during the present month.

MODERN WOODMEN OF AMERICA INITIATE

The local camp, Modern Woodmen of America held a "high jinks" at their lodge room in this city last evening, elected officers for the ensuing year, initiated a dozen new members, balloted on and accepted as many more and served a royal supper, consisting of fresh oysters, ham sandwiches, cheese, crackers and coffee.

There was things doing every minute, a large crowd present and a rattling good time was the verdict of all. This is not only the stougest order in Cottage Grove—having nearly 200 members, but the strongest beneficiary order in the United States. The local order is made up of a jolly representative crowd of young men of this city and vicinity, including those prankish youngsters, Joe Baker, Roy Woods and Dr. Kime, and there is many pleasant evenings in store for the membership this winter, since a double male quartet is soon to be organized in this order. This camp is also considering the matter of leasing the upstairs of the new Veatch building when completed to equip as a modern lodge room for a modern order. Officers were elected as follows:

- Consul, Alf Powell.
- Advisor, Bert McDole.
- Banker, T. G. Stillier.
- Clerk, C. W. Wallace.
- Escort, Orvil Knapp.
- Watchman, P. A. Rogers.
- Sentry, Ellis Robinson.
- Manager, Curtis Veatch.
- Physician, Dr. A. W. Kime.

FOURTH REGIMENT DELINQUENCY COURT

The Delinquency court of the Fourth Regiment O. N. G. has been ordered convened at the armory in Cottage Grove Thursday evening December 10th 1908 at 7:30 p. m. for the trial of all members of the company delinquent in their duty.
Privates John F. McFarland, Charles E. Whitlock and Harley E. Queener have been summoned to appear before the court for trial for continued absence from drill.
The court is presided over by J. M. Williams, Lieutenant Colonel of the Fourth Regiment.

Under the law governing the conduct of members of the National Guard, the court may impose a fine for each neglect of duty, and if the fine be not paid within 30 days, confine the person fined to the county jail until such fine be paid.

This is the first time that Capt. Johnson has been compelled to bring any of the members of Co. E before the Delinquency court and the company is now nearly two years old which speaks very well for the discipline of the company.
