

Cock-A-Doodle-Do.

We're justified in crowing over our competitors. Our cocks, stop-cocks, etc., are cock of the pipe. Our joints don't leak. Sewer gas we lead out. We don't find it in the house except when we fix some other fellow's plumbing. Ever have your house tested for sewer gas and leaks? That's one thing we do. Then we fix things. It's worth the cost.

ONE WOMAN'S EXTRAVAGANCE.

Mrs. Howard Gould spent $224,000 for "pin money" in one year.

This fact was revealed in the divorce suit brought by her husband. She spent this tremendous sum for dresses, knickknacks, entertaining, etc.

Moreover—

Mrs. Gould, while making no denial of the fact that she had expended the vast sum on her personal wants, contended through her counsel that Mr. Gould had tried to starve her out of Gould castle.

Two hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars!

Note a few figures:

The starvation allowance made by Mr. Gould would feed 100,000 starving poor for several whole days.

If this sum of $224,000 were in silver dollars it would require 140 husky men to carry it if each man carried 100 pounds.

That many silver dollars would weigh seven tons, a fair load for six horses to pull.

According to the census, the average expense of an American family is about $400 a year. Put $224,000 at interest at 6 per cent, and you could permanently pension thirteen such families.

The census reports put the average price of a farm in this country at $4,000. Mrs. Gould's yearly allowance would buy fifty-six such farms.

Put it in the shape of dresses. The average woman would consider $30 the maximum price for a dress. Mrs. Gould's annual expenditure would purchase dresses for 7,467 women.

"Well," you say, "the money belonged to Mrs. Gould. Did she not have the right to scatter it according to her personal fancy?"

Legally, no. Morally, yes.

Every dollar of that money, in the last analysis, represents somebody's toll and sweat, somebody's short days and pinching economies. It is part of the capital of society, the aggregated savings of millions.

Now, for instance—

Has this woman the right morally to spend $224,000 on her petty caprices while 15,000 school children in Chicago go supperless to bed?

The spectacle of such wanton extravagance in the face of so much want and woe breeds not only envy but hatred of the very rich.

MAKE HASTE SLOWLY.

Young man!
Ever note a slow moving freight train puffing on an uphill grade? If you are some distance away the train may appear to be making no progress. But it is inching along. After awhile you look. The train has disappeared over the hill.

Be like that freight train.
Be a stayer.

"Make haste slowly" is an excellent old adage that is workable. It may seem to you getting on in the world all too slowly. But, if you are really getting on, hold tight! In the end you will win.

Watch that sailing vessel loaded to the guards with lumber. It looks like "a painted ship on a painted ocean."

Well, that schooner was loaded up Green Bay way. Here it is in mid-lake. Go down to the harbor in a day or two. A little tug will be grappling that slow going vessel to convey it up the river to the big lumber yards. It will have arrived.

Be like that sailing vessel.
Keep going.

It is quite certain that during the voyage the schooner will have to be tacked this way and that in order to get across the big waters. But it will never stand still. And it will keep moving in the general direction of Chicago.

So you in your sailing course may be obliged sometimes to tack. That sort of sailing will be slow. Nevertheless bend your sails to the freshening breeze. Keep your vessel headed in the general direction of your destiny—and keep going.

Learn to labor and to WAIT.
Do not grow impatient. Move forward. However little, move forward. Move slowly, carefully, SURELY. If the get-rich-quick sprinters try to pass you, let them. In the long run—in the long run, mind you—if you hold out faithfully, you will get there. And some of the sprinters may not get there.

If at the end of the week you have saved a dollar, HANG ON TO IT. He who saves only a little—regularly saves over what he earns is on the direct road to success.

If at the end of the week you have learned some important thing about your business, HANG ON TO IT. You are making progress. Keep on.

And—
Some day when you have succeeded you will look back over the road and see how straight was the road and how narrow the way by which you came.

These are the trying days when a woman looks horrid in one of her old gowns and perfectly scandalous in a new one.

Forestalled.
"You remind me so of a dear, good friend I used to know—same features, same manner and a similar voice."
"Well, I am not like him in one particular."
"What's that?"
"I have no money to lend."

Already Strained.
"Looks like a strong case against him."
"Still we must presume him innocent until he is proved guilty."
"I know that is the right thing to do, and I would like to, but I can't."
"Why not?"
"I broke my promiser on some burglars that sneaked into my house."

Genuine Article.
"Oh, we live on the fat of the land." "I can't understand it at the price."
"Well, you see the bulk of the thing we get consists of oleomargarine."

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

SURE THERE IS.

Is there a Santa Claus?
What?
A question!
Hush, doubter!
It was settled.
Long before you were born.
Hold your scorn.
What's the answer, pray?
In the Affirmative.
With a big A.
Didst never see
The father of the family,
Lord of creation,
The household noise,
Ringmaster of the show,
Wading the snow
Loaded
To the guards
With trinkets,
Toys, books,
Yards
Of bright ribbon,
Sewing machines,
Grand pianos,
Slida skates
And crates
Of candy
That come in handy
To fill the crannies?
Answer me.
Did you never see
That patient old beast of burden,
Dad,
Put almost to the bad
Physically and financially
Under the strain,
Making a freight train
Of himself?
If not,
Go find a spot
Where you can watch
Him pass a given point,
Puffing and groaning,
All them
You will never again
Have your doubts.

Now is the Time to visit California

When summer has passed in these northern states, the sun is only mild under the bright blue skies of Southern California. This is one of nature's happy provisions—eternal summer for those who cannot endure a more rigid or severe climate. California has been called the "Mecca of the winter tourists." Its hotels and stopping places are as varied as those of all well regulated cities. Visitors can always find suitable accommodations, congenial companions, and varied, pleasing recreations.

Southern Pacific Company

Will be glad to supply some very attractive literature describing in detail the many delights of winter in California. Very low round trip excursion tickets are on sale to California. The rate from Cottage Grove to Los Angeles is $55, limit six months, allowing top-overs in either direction. Similar excursion rates are in effect to all California points.

For all information, sleeping car reservations and tickets call on, telegraph or write J. M. ISHAM, Agent S. P. Co. or
WM. McMURRAY, General Passenger Agent,
Portland, Oregon.
