TUBERCULOSIS AMONG POULTRY.
A lady's parrot had "warts" and "ulcers" on its toes. She was surprised when we called these tubercles and diagnosed the disease as tuberculosis, commonly called consumption. She was terrified when told that the germs of parrot and human tuberculosis are pronounced identical and parrots have died from the bacilli of human sputum, just as the same awful plague has been introduced into a home by the germ laden dust from a parrot's cage. Fair lady, does your caroling canary kiss your lips? Be warned. Bird kisses are often fatal as human, for most of the captive birds die of this disease. As the late world's tuberculosis convention at Philadelphia differed in re-

TUBERCLES ON THE FACE.
Tubercles on human and cattle tuberculosis, so they have not definitely decided that the plague affecting people and domestic fowls is the same. It is best to be cautious, so we give you these drawings and a list of symptoms from a diseased chicken that you may not buy, eat, sell nor have birds with such a contagious deadly disease. All poultry is affected alike. There is no cough or spitting of blood. Fowl's comb becomes pale; it loses appetite, spirit and weight. There is persistent diarrhea, progressive emaciation, and at last the bird is "skin and bone" and "light as a feather." Some call this disease in chickens and pigeons "going light." Small grayish elevations appear about mouth, eyes, nostrils and on head. These often form patches and range in size from a mere speck to a walnut.

TUBERCLES ON THE FOOT.
They are hard and horny or soft and cheesy and full of bacilli. The fowl often goes lame, and an examination shows tubercle on the feet and legs. These may be found on all the joints, with swellings, deformities and ugly ulcers full of pus and germs. On dissection you discover tubercle in the lungs, spleen, heart, the lining of the lungs and abdominal cavity, and the intestines may be so thickened and fall as to be almost closed. Intestinal ulcers are special germ breeders. The liver is often enlarged, soft, and the ulcerations frequently cause fatal hemorrhages. These tubercles are even inside the bones. Kill diseased birds at once. In their graves throw a shovel of lime on them and bury them deep. Remove well birds to new quarters and observe closely, as disease is treacherous, and it is often necessary to sacrifice the whole flock. Disinfect thoroughly. Conditions favorable to other diseases are conducive to tuberculosis. Therefore practice prevention; keep sanitary; keep down vermin; keep clean, take special care of molting fowls and quarantine all new stock.

Anything will do for Brother Bob. He doesn't know a Christmas present from a horseshoe nail anyhow. Give the children red mittens, and pocket handkerchiefs. They will be certain to remember you in after years if you do. Some babies look like their daddies. They seem to be harmless little things, and one would think they would have better taste.

Royal Intermediate School Items

Remember the date for the recital Feb. 3. Miss Mary Hopper spent New Years in the Grove. The painting at the dormitory has been completed. Come to the next recital and see what the first one did. Mr. Neehan spent a few days in the Grove the past week. Mr. Hull of Corvallis, Oregon, visited the school Thursday. Myrtle DeSpain of Cottage Grove visited the school Thursday.

The ninth grade Algebra class begun work the first of the week. We are sorry to note the absence of Hiram Wheeler on account of sickness.

A roll top desk has been added to the school for which we are all thankful.

Clyde Babcock returned to his school at Manor, Washington, Tuesday.

Several of the young people met at the home of Mr. Gildersleve's Thursday evening and enjoyed a good time.

Hamilton Fox is recovering from an injury which he received by coming in contact with the tumbling rod on the wood saw at the dormitory.

Lynx Valley Items.

Miss Winnie Dresser was a passenger to Cottage Grove Tuesday.

Mr. Lou Lajoie and family ate New Years dinner at the Caldwell home.

Miss Lulu Jackson made the home folks a visit during the holidays.

Mrs. Varien Dresser has gone back to Eugene to take up her high school work.

Mr. Renzie Huff and wife and Mr. Perry Bond spent New Years day with D. W. Caldwell.

There was a ghost party at D. P. Sheridan's Saturday evening. All present report a fine time.

Mrs. Mabel Dresser and daughter Varien visited with friends on Silk creek the last of the week.

Mr. Andrew Sheridan and family of Eugene made an over New Years visit with Uncle "Dan" Sheridan.

Mrs. A. D. Owens and two little sons made an over nights visit with Mrs. I. N. Dresser recently.

Saving Money.
"He has three lovely daughters who are being courted."
"His gas bills ought to be light."
"They are. Some months he gets a relate from the company."

Cause of Failure.
"Why didn't you succeed?"
"Too much money."
"I didn't know you had any."
"Didn't. Other fellow had it."

In Doubt.
Though Santa Claus with everything worth having is supplied, If he discovers I'm on earth I will be satisfied.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.
It is indisputable that not every thorn has its rose.

Lots of men think they have a hard layout unless they are served with a soft snap.

Sometimes the chief reason why you can't be persuaded that a given thing is right.

Get in touch with the good things, but don't get touched for a good thing.

A woman may be well posted in politics and still be able to select a good brand of complexion powder.

There are just two kinds of lies—those you don't believe and those you do.

WHITE WYANDOTTE SUPREME.

The Yankee is a great rooster inventor.

Not content with making his country try the marvel for machinery, he tinkers with flesh and blood.

It is a race horse to beat the world, a mule to pull more and kick higher, a cow to give more milk, a hog of heavier lean or a cock-a-doodle of finer flesh, fancier feather or fairer form? He tackles the contracts and delivers the goods.

When he invented the White Wyandotte he created the ne plus ultra. To attempt to add is to subtract. Of standard varieties it is most popular because it just fills the bill for economic value and beauty, with a balance over.

It meets the market demand for a yellow, plump, pretty medium sized mature fowl without dark pinfeathers, feather legtings, rough skin, coarse fiber, large bones and objectionable weight of the big breeds.

It satisfies the call for best broilers and roasters, as young birds plump up prettier, quicker and cheaper than chicks of all other breeds.

It fills the need for a dual purpose fowl that matures and lays earlier and oftener than the other meaty catchers of chickendom.

Yes, this velvet skinned, yellow tinged, plump breasted, round bodied, short backed, butter ball bird is in a class by itself, and all the booming of pink fleshed fowls is wasted on the desert air, for the White Wyandotte is ahead, and you'll see it stay there. It's fine as silk, good as gold and quickly sold at bon ton prices. It wins on the table and at the show. No class has so large a representation at exhibitions or so many admirers or wins so many trophies.

It has over 1,500 admirers in the American White Wyandotte club, the largest specialty club in the world.

Nature abhors an angle. Thus her sunsets are framed in ovals, her fair flowers are mostly circles and bend in graceful curves, while her great brilliant round worlds swing in blazing rings around the universe.

A Wyandotte cock from his rosy comb down his curved neck, across his broad, snowy back and up the concave sweep to the top of his pretty posed tail is a double reversed curve, and the rest is all curve.

And the gentle, cackling, snowy white queens of his harem present a scene to excite the admiration and test the skill of a Rosa Bonheur.

The White Wyandotte is supreme in utility and beauty.

On top to stay there. Because you're the stuff. For meat rich and tender. And just weight enough.

On stop to stay there. With many brown eggs. With yellow plump body. And clean yellow legs.

You bet you're the daisy! You're surely the go. You make me men crazy. You're just the whole show.

DON'TS.
Don't fail to be polite to visitors even if they are only sightseers. It costs mighty little to be polite and is a cheap price to pay for good advertising.

Don't pick live feathers if your stock is in fattening coop or breeding; will stop laying on flesh and laying eggs.

Don't let the sparrows get the chicken feed. Set the table under screens or set the cat on them.

Don't feed beef scrap when your chickens are on range and use balsam of Peru in alcohol (1 to 5) for the mange.

Don't teach your homers to fly double and then expect them to fly single. You'll lose your bet.

Don't neglect the old stock for the young. Remember, you breed with old and not with young stock next spring. Pullets' eggs are not so important as pullets bred from sturdy breeders.

Don't think every hen going light has consumption. It's gray head loose consumption.

A Follow Up.
"What year were boarding houses invented?"
"What year were prunes discovered?"
"Did they come together?"
"No. The boarding house came the next year as a consequence."

Useful Shade.
"What kind of art is this? Who ever saw a green cow?"
"That's all right. There ought to be cows of that color if there are none."

"What for?"
"Just to match the city farmer."

Now is the Time to visit California

When summer has passed in these northern states, the sun is only mild under the bright blue skies of Southern California. This is one of nature's happy provisions—eternal summer for those who cannot endure a more rigid or severe climate. California has been called the "Mecca of the winter tourists." Its hotels and stopping places are as varied as those of all well regulated cities. Visitors can always find suitable accommodations, congenial companions, and varied, pleasing recreations.

Southern Pacific Company

Will be glad to supply some very attractive literature describing in detail the many delights of winter in California. Very low round trip excursion tickets are on sale to Californial. The rate from Cottage Grove to Los Angeles is $55, limit six months, allowing stop-overs in either direction. Similar excursion rates are in effect to all California points.

For all information, sleeping car reservations and tickets call on, telegraph or write J. M. ISHAM, Agent S. P. Co. or
