What the Leader Did Say.

In its issue of last Tuesday the Leader stated, "it is understood that the Yonclio Courier is being moved to Cottage Grove to be used as an advertising medium for the Dunbar & O'Loane Co." In making the above statement the Leader only repeated common street talk, and gave it publicity for what it was worth, without vouching for its authenticity. Mr. Dunbar denies the allegation and defies the aligator through the columns of the Courier. He says if we will "call at his place of business" he will have us "crowned king of the Anninas club." We were not aware of the fact that Mr. Dunbar had tendered his resignation as president of the Anninas club, nor that his place of business is headquarters for said club, until this enlightened by his letter in the Courier.

While we must acknowledge with thanks, the kind invitation extended to us to visit club headquarters and with the assurance that we appreciate the honors (?) Mr. Dunbar would thrust upon us, we must decline the courtesy, recognizing our utter inability to do justice to the exalted (?) position Mr. Dunbar is gracing with such cheerfulness and proficiency.

New Store Will Open February 25th.

Alton Hampton of the firm of Hampton Brothers, Eugene, was in this city Monday accompanied by his brother-in-law G. H. Tyson who will serve as manager of the company's branch dry goods store, which will be opened in the Phillips brick in this city about February 25, Dunbar & O'Loane having been granted a few days extension of time to enable them to vacate the building. Mr. Hampton and Mr. Tyson expressed themselves as being most favorably impressed with Cottage Grove, but think that we should endeavor to pave at least our main street from the depot to the river as soon as possible, Mr. Hampton stating that he stood ready and willing to contribute liberally to a fund to be used for this purpose at once. The Cottage Grove firm will be styled "Hampton Bros. & Co., G. H. Tyson, manager." The latter named gentleman has leased a home in this city and will soon take up his permanent residence here. The Leader again welcomes the new firm to our city and speaks for it a liberal share of public patronage. Watch for their ad in the Leader.

Eugene News Notes.

The February term of county court adjourned Saturday.

Miss Ida Francis Barrett, who for some years past has conducted a millinery store in this city, sold her stock and business recently and on Saturday went to Portland to reside. She leaves a host of admiring friends in Cottage Grove who regret her decision to locate elsewhere, but who unite in wishing her happiness and prosperity in her new home.

Mrs. M. H. Avery, wife of a former well known hardware dealer of Cottage Grove, but now a resident of Oakland, California, is visiting with her many friends in this city after an absence of nearly 20 years. Mrs. Avery says there is little left by which to identify Cottage Grove of a score of years ago and she is surprised to note the growth and development in our city and vicinity, the main business section of the town having been in the vicinity of the flour mill when Mrs. Avery last visited this city, the present, business street being vacant lots at that time.

The other day a pretty young lady walked into the Drain Nonpareil office with an "appropriate ode to the Springtime." "How much do you want for the poem?" Inquired Editor Shutt. "About $5," replied the lass. "Ain't you a little dear?" Questioned the gallant editor. "Why," she replied blushing, "that's what the young men all tell me, but you are the first married man to tell me so."

CELEBRATE THEIR TIN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Compton, celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary at their home in west Cottage Grove in an appropriate and pleasing manner. The invitations were printed on miniature tin bells and the parlor decorations were silver tinsel and tin bells and hearts. A large number of guests were present and interesting games were introduced, which were interspersed with piano music by Mrs. J. O. Van Winkle and little Neita Compton. Mr. and Mrs. Compton were complimented upon their youthful appearance, were required to "jump the broomstick" and the evening was greatly enjoyed by all present.

They were united in marriage on Feb. 8, 1899 at Earlham, Iowa, when the mercury registered 32 degrees below zero, greatly in contrast with the Oregon weather on this 10th anniversary, when the thermometer registered 50 above. The "bride and groom" were the recipients of something less than a wagon load of useful and ornamental tinware on this occasion and at a late hour refreshments were served in tin cups, consisting of ice cream, wedding cake, homemade candies, water also being served in tin cups. At the conclusion of the festivities Mr. and Mrs. Compton were treated to an old fashioned charivari.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. DuBrull, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Herron, Mr. and Mrs. Burkholder, Mr. and Mrs. Simeral, Mr. and Mrs. Nickle, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Brund, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle, Mr. and Mrs. Conner, Mr. and Mrs. Hemenway, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Isham, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Jones.

A box of nice "wedding cake" and candies was shipped to relatives at the old Iowa home, this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Compton.

COMPTON-CRAVEN WEDDING

One sultry summer day, no blistering stinging winter's cold seems able to check the unwearied Cupid, nor turn aside his well directed arrows.

It was bitter cold Wednesday evening, the 8th of February, 1899, but within the cozy parlor at Mrs. Craven's home it was warm and cheerful. Although the severe cold kept some away, yet the necessary ones were present and at the appointed hour while Miss Edith Walker played softly a few strains of a march, Mr. Nathan Compton and Miss Cora Craven stepped into the room in the presence of immediate relatives and were united in marriage by H. E. McGrew, pastor of the Friends church. After the impressive ceremony and the introduction, the merry social time soon passed. With bountiful refreshments and many jokes, with cheerful fire and happy bridal pair little was thought of the cold without. At an early hour the guests returned to their homes, leaving a number of useful and beautiful presents and many a hearty wish for a long, happy and useful future for the newly married.

On Thursday at the home of Sylvanus Compton a reception was given to the bride and groom and their friends which was in every respect, especially from the standpoint of the dinner served, a magnificent success. Mr. and Mrs. Compton will move in a few days to a farm east of Earlham and become permanent and useful citizens among us.—Earlham (Ia.) Echo.

Died.

WILSON—At the family home in this city, Friday Feb. 5, 1909, Miss Lansford Ella Wilson, aged 11 years, 10 months and 5 days, of pneumonia.
