

HENDERSON Habit Back

Corsets

"FRONT LACED"

THE front laced models are the culmination of the latest and best ideas in corset fashion. They remodel the figure, giving it a perfectly moulded back, giving it lines of grace and symmetry and the long, tapering curves which are so artistically beautiful. They reduce the full figure, giving it the flattened front and slender hip effects. They are absolutely hygienic and have the endorsement of the leading physicians and dressmakers. We call special attention to the model illustrated which is made in two lengths, high bust, for the tall figure, and medium bust, for the shorter waisted stout figure. This model is extremely long over the back and hips. The extra lacing in the back from the waist-line down permits an absolutely perfect adjustment over the back and assists further in keeping the hips in perfect subjection, thus giving the so-called hipless figure. We carry the front laced corsets in a varied line of materials at prices ranging from $2.50 to $12. We cordially invite the ladies of our city and vicinity to visit our corset department and inspect these most exquisite models. Consultation and fitting free.

WHERE YOU DO BETTER

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It is a pleasure to be in the society of some people. The frank admiration that they have for themselves is contagious.

The consciences of some people need the lubricant of flattery copiously applied to keep them in good running order.

If you can persuade them that you have no money, you won't be troubled much.

If you make a catspaw of another, don't be surprised if it ends in your getting clawed.

It isn't always the one that makes the loudest outcry who is the worst hurt.

Take yourself as seriously as you please, but never allow your friends that liberty.

Did you ever notice how delicate and fragile good resolutions are?

If your friends bother you overmuch, turn your enemies loose upon them.

CAPT. DODD ON APPLE GROWING

Eugene, Oregon, Feb. 22nd., 1909.

The following letter appeared in the last issue of Nobody's magazine.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your request for my method of apple culture, I have the honor to state that the fact of my exceptional smooth and highly colored apples is perhaps due to my lack of culture. My orchard is just coming into bearing, having produced about three partial crops, is situated two miles east of Eugene, on very dark, sandy loam, underlaid with clay, depth of soil and clay to gravel bed from twelve to sixteen feet, is planted in rectangular squares twenty-six feet apart (wish they were thirty), the branches or tops were started about two feet from ground, kept topped back and headed low, always thinning the center and spreading the top. For two years I put one shovel full of wood ashes around every tree, also washed body with whale-oil soap, cultivated corn and potatoes two years. Since then, like "Topsey," they have just grown. I turn under a growth of fern about three feet high, using a chain side drag, then harrow down and let alone until next winter or early spring, always ploughing when my trees are dormant. I always prune in spring and summer when there is sufficient sap to heal all wounds. Never let a water sprout get more than four inches long; better to rub off as soon as they make their appearance. Thin the fruit at least twice, using a pair of short bladed sheep shears. Better sacrifice one-fourth of a crop for two or three years and perpetuate your trees. A man who uses props in his orchard needs a guardian. I seldom use a saw, but if a limb must be removed use a crooked saw, and cut it level with the trunk; have my paint brush and pot along and give it a water-proof coat. I expect to cultivate level in early spring, seed to alsike and clover and instead of ploughing, disking and harrowing, will simply run a mower over the ground three or four times during the summer, leaving all the debris lie on the ground. In my opinion, too much cultivation produces poorly colored fruit of thin skin, more subject to scab or rust, and of poor keeping qualities.

I challenge the world to produce better shaped or better colored apples of the same varieties than I do by this method.

I remain yours with great respect,

CAPT. C. J. DODD.

P. S. I spray while dormant with Lime and Sulphur for scale, and during summer with arsenates of lead for moth.
