"Where You Do Better"

AN EDITOR'S WAIL.

I want to get back to the country
Where forests forever are green,
Where meadows are frequent and fragrant,
And shimmering shadows are seen.
Where mosses are moist in the woodland
Where mullin stocks grow by the way,
Where the leaves of the sumach are crimson,
And sweet is the scent of the hay.
I want to get back to the barnyard,
To the bridles and saddles and stock,
Where it always is "dinner" at noon-time
And "supper" at six o' the clock.
I'm tired of racing and chasing
All over the streets of the town,
Pursuing the dollar athletic,
As nimble and quick as a clown.
I'm weary of ganly theyeters,
Of summer resorts and the like,
And I tell you I secretly hanker
Afar from the city to hike,
And journey 'way back to the farmhouse
Where there's never an openwork sock,
Where it always is "dinner" at noon-time
And "supper" at six o' the clock.
I'm weary of "lunch" and of "luncheon,"
Whether costly or low priced or free,
And the thought of a "six-o'clock dinner,"
I own, is repellent to me.
I want to sop bread in the gravy,
I want to eat pie with a knife,
And make the use of a saucer
That I learned very early in life.
By George, I am sick of the city,
And I want to get back with the stock,
Where it always is "dinner" at noon-time
And "supper" at six o' the clock.

LIKE A BIRD.

The aeroplane builders predict that in a short time they will produce a flying machine that will permit everybody to fly; and that it will be much cheaper than an automobile.
Aeroplane sailing is declared to be the most exhilarating mode of travel ever enjoyed. We sincerely hope that the dream will materialize. If for no other reason we hope for its success that pedestrians may take on once more their old sense of security. The gentleman or any lady for that matter, who has at any time wandered out into tall grass and has heard in close proximity the warning note of a rattler, and has not known which way to jump, understands the feeling of the street-crosser when he (or she) hears the warning honk, honk of an automobile. He knows that as a rule they are guided by careful hands; that as a rule they are easily controlled, but this does not alter the sensation. This one may have the careless chauffeur, or this one may be one of those lawless machines that without provocation goes out of its way to jump a precipice or kill a man and there you are. But an aeroplane that can noiselessly rise up and sail away over the house tops, will there not be style about that when it comes? And it is promised before very long now. What a convenience if one wants to go anywhere, not to leave any tracks when he vanishes?
The price of aeroplanes in Paris now is only $6,000 and they will be cheaper by and by. It is only fifteen years since the bicycle was all the rage. They are almost obsolete now. In fifteen years more who knows?—Goodwin's Weekly.

Room for You In Cottage Grove

Cottage Grove is in the Sunny South of the Beautiful Willamette Valley and is at present the center of the largest body of standing timber in the world, of commercial value.

Cottage Grove offers more opportunities in every line of industry than any like area in the Pacific States. The geographical location makes this point the chief trading center for the thirty-one sawmills, logging camps, gold, silver, copper, lead and quick silver mines which lie within a radius of thirty miles.

This section is the home of the famous Comice Pear and every variety of American Grapes. Spitzenberg, Yellow Newton and Baldwin Apples here attain perfection and are eagerly sought for by the New York buyers. This can be wondered at by those who are not familiar with the fact, however, New York fruit raisers are coming here and purchasing land upon which to raise the above mentioned fruits.

This section is adapted to the raising of every known variety of fruit that will exist outside of the tropics, for with an elevation of 671 feet and no prevailing high winds or sudden climatic changes, the conditions as found here that conform to the requirements of all fruits.

If you are an energetic citizen, wanting to improve your condition physically or financially, do not grab at a straw, but investigate this section, for there is "Room for you in Cottage Grove."
