"Where You Do Better"

Lessons in Oil Painting.

Mrs. J. B. Kirkpatrick will organize a class in oil painting and those interested in the art will do well to call at her residence on River street.

Dr. Van Winkle, who has been spending a few days at Salem, returned home last evening. He was joined by his wife at Springfield who has been visiting with her parents at that place. While at Salem the doctor visited Eaton Hall, the new addition to Willamette University campus and the doctor says this new building would be a credit to any educational institution of the west.

Lively Run Away.

While Mrs. Lizzie Churchill was out driving in a single buggy Thursday, her horse became frightened while standing beside the curb while Mrs. Churchill stepped inside of a store on the west side, and ran away. The horse dashed across the bridge and ran on Main street until he reached the livery stable, when he dashed into the front door nearly running over Roy Baker, and ran through the barn and back barn lot and down Second street, near H. C. Veatch's residence where the hind wheels and bed of the buggy was left interlocked with a telephone pole. With the shafts and front wheels the horse finally became entangled in the wire fence at the corner of Marion Veatch's former home in front of the Christian church, and was led to the barn uninjured, but the buggy was pretty well wrecked.

Another Poultry Fancier.

Rev. W. A. Elkins will be in line when Cottage Grove's second annual poultry show is held this winter with an exhibit of a beautiful breed of poultry different from any other breed in this vicinity. Last spring he received two settings (30) eggs from Thompson, the famous New York breeder of Ringlet Plymouth rocks, from which eggs he secured 18 fine vigorous chickens. He lost two from accident and still has a flock of 14 fine husky Ringlets. They are similar to the well known Barred Rocks except their barring is narrower and runs in rings about the neck and body. Their other characteristics are similar to the other varieties of Plymouth Rocks.

Locates Mining Claim.

Levi Wetmore has located two mining claims in the Bohemia district which he calls the "Jumbo" and "Last Chance." He filed notice of location in the clerk's office recently.

The young minister had just preached what he considered, an eloquent funeral sermon and had come up to the point where the last view of the departed was in order, when he startled his congregation by announcing: "The relatives and friends will now pass around the bier." This story is related with apologies to Rev. Sutcliffe.
