Womans Club Pleasantly Surprised.

The regular meeting of the Womans Club was held at the Commercial Club rooms last Saturday afternoon. As the members approached the parlor, which is their accustomed place of meeting they were confronted with this notice "Owing to certain circumstances which have arisen the ladies club is requested to meet in the managers office." Naturally the women felt rather curious but no one could explain. After an interesting program consisting of a general discussion of Booker T. Washington's book "Up from slavery"—Mrs. P. H. Rosenberg, leader; Current events with Mrs. H. A. Miller, leader and each member responding to the roll call by a quotation on patriotism: Mr. Fred Conley manager of the Commercial Club announced that the ladies might view the lumberman's exhibit in the parlor. The exhibit proved to be a darkened room beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and dainty luncheon tables set with fine china and cut glass. The place cards were dainty Thanksgiving post cards bearing the ladies maiden name. Mrs. Geo. Hall and Mrs. Delure Hemenway proved to be the hostesses who had planned this pleasant surprise as a reception to the new members. After the luncheon consisting of sandwiches, olives, cake and coffee, was served, the members congratulated Miss Nixon (Mrs. Hall) and Miss Wallace (Mrs. Hemenway) upon the success of their delightful surprise party.

Fruit Inspector J. Beebe returned from an official visit to Cottage Grove last evening.—Register.
