Physicians in Japan.

Medical students in Japan must have had eleven or twelve years of preliminary training in the lower schools. No one may practice medicine who has been convicted of a crime. All physicians for the first ten years during which they follow their calling must keep full written records of all their cases, and they must not issue boastful advertisements or claim the exclusive right to any healing invention with a secret formula.

Overconfidence.

"What is the title of this picture?" inquired the connoisseur

"'The Night Express Leaving on Time,'" said the proud owner of the painting.

"May I ask what it cost you?"

"I paid $150 for it."

English Coffee.

An extract from the London Chronicle proves that the English can take a joke in a sportsmanlike way.

The American opinion of coffee as understood in the English home is not high, and how the coffee of the English lodgings is esteemed may be understood from the following traveler's tale:

It was his first morning in London "apartments," and his landlady came up with the breakfast, and as she set down his coffee cup she opened a slight conversation.

"It looks like rain," she said.

"It does," agreed the American, "and it doesn't even smell unlike it."

Possible Use for Him.

"No, sir," said the recruiting officer; "I'm sorry to say your boy won't do at all for the navy."

"Why not?" asked the lad's father.

"He's cross eyed."

"Yes, I know that, but his eyes are crossed at such a peculiar angle that I thought you might be able to use him as a range finder."—Chicago Tribune.

A Sporting Chance.

"I'll teach you to play at pitch and toss!" shouted the enraged father. "I'll flog you for an hour, I will!"

"Father," instantly said the incorrigible, as he balanced a penny on his thumb and finger, "I'll toss you to make it two hours or nothing."—Cassell's Journal.

FACTS IN TABLOID FORM.

The coal fields of England cover 13,000 square miles.

A telephone line is being constructed in the Alps which will hold the record for height.

There is not a port in Europe, and few, if any, in the world, where the matter of tides is of no consequence.

About 5,000 trespassers are killed every year on the railroads, and 5,000 more are seriously injured, many of them becoming public charges. It is calculated that from one-half to three-fourths of these trespassers are tramps.

Boston, where the idea of an annual work horse parade originated, does not see mto have much trouble in getting the money necessary for prizes and other expenses of the procession on Memorial day. A recent report shows about $2,500 available for this year. Among the innovations proposed is a class for champion old horses, open to animals that have taken the gold medal in years past.

Today the collection in the National Library comprises nearly 2,500,000 items—1,500,000 printed books and pamphlets, and nearly 1,000,000 other articles (manuscripts, maps, prints and music)—by all means the largest collection of the western hemisphere and perhaps the third largest in the world. They are increasing at the rate of about 70,000 books and pamphlets and 50,000 other articles yearly.

Tradition is but a meteor, which, if it once falls, cannot be rekindled. Memory, once interrupted, is not to be recalled. But written learning is a fixed luminary, which, after the cloud that had hidden it has passed away, is again bright in its proper station. So the books are faithful repositories, which may be awhile neglected or forgotten, but when opened again, will again impart instruction.—Dr. Johnson.

An old inmate of an almshouse in New York, age 86, who had never in the course of her life seen an automobile before, fell in a dead faint in the street when one whizzed by her, with the horn tooting. When she recovered she told the doctor who had attended her that she had been in hell and had seen satan. Some of the victims of the speed maniacs would not quarrel with her diagnosis of the situation.

In connection with his new system of wireless telephony Prof. Q. Majorana used a liquid microphone. This consists of a small tube which is attached to the diaphragm of the microphone and through which a stream of water flows between a pair of platinum electrodes. When the microphone is vibrated by the voice the stream of liquid fluctuates, varying the electrical resistance in accordance with the sound of the voice.

There are several old bells in Scotland, Ireland and Wales; the oldest are often quadrangular, being made of thin iron plates which have been hammered and riveted together. At the monastery of St. Gall in Switzerland the four-sided bell of the Irish missionary St. Gall, who lived in the seventh century, is still preserved; but more ancient still is the bell of St. Patrick in Belfast which is ornamented with gold and gems and silver filigree.

The number of button factories in the United States in 1905 was 275. These represented a capital of $7,783,900, and gave employment to 11,335 persons, to whom was paid in salaries and wages $4,691,669. The aggregate value of buttons and by-products from these factories during 1905 was $11,133,769. Over half of the 275 button factories in the United States engaged to a greater or less extent in the manufacture of pearl buttons, an increase of over 20 per cent since 1900 in the number so engaged.

In the year 1907, 56,133 pounds of human hair was invoiced at this consulate-general for shipment to the United States, while in 1908, 207,414 pounds were declared for shipment. This hair is brought to Hong-Kong from the interior and here cleaned and sorted, according to length and quality. It is then packed and either stored or disinfected, in accordance with quarantine regulations, and shipped to New York. It is said here that the hair can be so treated in New York as to alter its color and texture, and that it is used in making the switches, curls and bands, which are so fashionable in the United States.—Consular Reports.

Cattaro, the Austrian sea gate of Montenegro, which was recently believed to be threatened by Prince Nicholas's guns, was held by Montenegro once for a little time. Montenegro acquired it in 1813 with the aid of a British squadron. Any inhabitant of Cattaro who was contemporary with the rise and fall of Napoleon must often have had to pause and think what country he belonged to. For, having been Venetian for centuries, Cattaro became Austrian by the treaty of Campo Formio, and Italian in 1805 by the peace of Pressburg. It was absorbed in the French empire in 1810, and wrested from it in 1813, and finally, in 1814, Russia compelled Montenegro to cede it to Austria.

Uncle Sam's postage stamps are manufactured by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington; the stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers are made under departmental supervision, under contract, by a private corporation whose factory is located at Dayton, O., while his postal cards are made under similar conditions at Rumford, Me. From these points distribution is made to postoffices throughout the country upon requisition of postmasters duly approved by the department. Postage-stamped paper issued during the year aggregated $1,76,974,190.24, an increase of $3,967,713.97 over 1907. The total number of pieces of stamped paper was 9,772,059,664, an increase of 440,140,609; books of stamps, 18,213,310, an increase of 526,516. That the issue of postage stamps will cross the ten-billion mark during the fiscal year 1909 is confidently anticipated.—A. L. Lawshe in May National Magazine.

BADGES A HOBBY WITH MEN.

In Cleveland Failure to Wear One Regarded as Significant.

He was a plain man who walked down the steps from the Hollenden Hotel. His clothes were as quiet as his manner, and his manner was most unassuming.

His shoes were square toed and a dusty black. His collar was low and his necktie was of the ready-made sort you hook to the collar button in front.

His hat was black. His suit was old-fashioned pepper and salt. He was not trying to impress any one.

But across his coat front a row of badges, red and yellow, made unprovoked assault upon the eyes of bystanders, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. There were rosettes at the top and gold lace at the bottom. Letters of gold proclaimed the fact that the plain and unassuming citizen was a member of an organization with a long name; that said organization was holding a convention and that the man behind the badge was on some committee.

The man himself would have told you quietly enough. His badges shrieked it. He seemed somewhat embarrassed by the attention he attracted. One wondered why he suffered them so patiently.

He was willing to talk.

He gave his name and said he had come from Peninsula, Ohio. It developed that he did not suffer from the badges at all. He thought them pretty. He was proud of them.

It's a weakness we men folk have. It's like the passion for red neckties, but more general. More than half the men in Cleveland wear badges.

Some wear them all the time. Some wear them on special occasion only, just as one would wear a medal or a decoration from the emperor of some place or another.

If you don't wear a badge it's a pretty fair sign you don't belong to anything. Most everybody belongs to some organization and nearly every organization in Cleveland has badges for its members. Many of us have half a dozen. We wear one in one lapel button hole and keep the others in a bureau drawer at home.

The badges or emblems that we wear for every day are mostly small. It may be a fraternity pin or it may be an emblem that signifies we belong to the Brotherhood of Pretzel Varnishers.

It may be on the under side of our coat lapel or it may be on the edge of our waistcoat. It may take the form of a necktie pin or decorate the end of a watch fob. You may not see it the first glance, but two chances in three it's somewhere about.

These every-day pins of labor organizations, fraternal and benevolent organizations, miscellaneous clubs and societies are small enough. The ones for conventions, balls and other special occasions may be nearly as big as folded bath towels.

One can't get too many rosettes or too much gold lace or too many metal medallions and cross bars and spread eagles hung on a badge. The more there are the more pleased and proud we men are to wear the badge.

Alfred Henriques runs an office in the Williamson building from which all sorts of badges and buttons are sold. He says more buttons are worn now than during the button craze a few years ago, a craze that preceded the present picture postal-card madness. The difference is that the buttons are not worn all the time, but more for special occasions.

Many of the badges cost as much as $5 each. They are elaborate with enamel. Some of gold are even more expensive.

Three Kinds of Women.

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, the society leader and convert to woman suffrage, said in a recent speech:

"In this country I see three classes of women—first, the woman who starts out in life with the inculcated idea that some man must support her; second, the woman who finds out she must do everything that man does not want to do, and through force of necessity does it; third, a grand army of self-reliant, self-supporting women fulfilling all civic requirements; women strong in their own independence, expecting no man to bear their burdens, asking for equal rights, knowing their obligations as citizens and determined to meet these obligations.

"We women who demand our suffrage from men ask them to honor the women of the United States. From the hour the first white woman landed on our shores woman has stood shoulder to shoulder with man. She has been his equal in toil, in hardship, in devotion. She has been his mother, his wife.

"I appeal to man's sense of justice and of honor, for both of these characteristics are the strong, dominant traits of American men or we would not have the nation we have. And I ask, are these men just to women? To their sons they have given the right of citizenship. They make bondwomen of their daughters.

"Now we women want to be great. We want our independence. We want to show men how we can stand side by side with them in the open field of life. Then shall the world judge us, and my faith in my own womanhood has taught me to believe in all women."
