Rowe-McCord Wedding.

Prof. Ira L. Rowe and Nellie C. McCord were married at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McCord in Creswell on Monday June 6, at two o'clock, Rev. Stratford performing the ring ceremony in the presence of invited friends and guests. The decorations were profuse and beautiful, consisting of mock orange and sweet peas. Miss Roxie Pringle of Cottage Grove, acted as bride's maid, she having been associated with Miss McCord as teacher in the Goshen school during the past year. The happy couple were the recipients of many useful and costly presents.

Prof. Rowe is a well known and efficient young educator of Lane county, a member of Co. E, and several secret societies of Cottage Grove where he is justly popular. Miss McCord is a charming and accomplished young lady and one of the popular and successful teachers of this county. Both have a wide circle of admiring friends who join the Leader in extending Mr. and Mrs. Rowe hearty congratulations and wishes for a long, happy and prosperous voyage through life.

Married.

SCOVILL-KNOWLTON—At the Christian Church parsonage Wednesday evening, June 1, 1910, Rev. W. A. Elkins, officiating, Merle Lorin Scovill and Miss Katherine Knowlton. The wedding was a very quiet one the ceremony being witnessed only by Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Spear and the family of the officiating clergyman. The young couple is well and favorably known in Cottage Grove business and society circles, Mr. Scoville being an efficient salesman in Lurch's store and Miss Knowlton a stenographer in the real estate office of Fingal Hinds, her brother-in-law. Mr. Scovill is director of the Cottage Grove band and soon after the wedding ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Scovill were favored with a serenade by the band boys who in return were given a treat at the Wave by the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Scovill will reside in this city and their many friends join the Leader in extending congratulations and best wishes.

We note that some of the papers of Umatilla county are advancing the time worn argument in opposition to Orchard County, that it will increase the taxes. From a surface view of the proposition it would look that way, but the history of other county divisions does not prove this assertion to be true. A small county can be managed more economically than a large one, just as a small farm can be better taken care of than a large one. We need division of counties and the cutting up of farms for the development of a Greater Oregon. It appears that the northern part of Umatilla county has people and wealth enough to support a county nicely. Better get in the band wagon and boost, boys!

The Nesmith restaurant and lunch counter, C. A. Cooley, proprietor, has put in a fine new cash register, of the "National" model. Charlie proposes to keep up with the procession.

That this is a great era is shown in the pride Oregon cities take in their own development and exploitation. Here in Lane county Eugene is called the "Queen City" Springfield the manufacturing center, Coburg the mill city, Junction City the metropolis of north Lane, Creswell the fruit city, Florence the shipping center and Cottage Grove the mining center. McMinnville, over in Yamhill county, prides itself on being the walnut center, Albany the hub, Roseburg the rose center.—Register.

It will be remembered that much has been said by the Eugene and Roseburg papers regarding the zig-zag boundary line of the proposed Nesmith county on the north. Last week a local attorney took a day off, visited the county seat of Lane, and made a carefully drafted sketch or profile of the present boundary lines of Lane and Douglas counties which reveal the fact that the lines of the proposed Nesmith county are a bee-line compared to our present boundary lines, which are so crooked and indefinite that at many points the assessors are compelled to guess at property locations. The county seat organs certainly have no grounds to cast aspersions upon the boundary lines of the proposed Nesmith county, as they are laid out in such a way that the assessors of this and adjoining counties would experience no trouble or confusion whatsoever in making their respective assessments.

The report of the grand jury of Jackson county contains the following reference to saloons: "We find that a large per cent of complaints of violations of the law coming before the grand jury for investigation arise from the saloons of our cities, and the environments of the saloons. We wish, as a grand jury, to extend our moral support to the officers of our cities who are trying to enforce the laws and ordinances in their jurisdictions, for it seems deplorable that such large expense of law enforcement should become a county burden when the violations arise under the enjoyment by the cities of special privileges." Why taxpayers should be called upon continually to pay the expense caused by the saloon evil is one of the difficult problems encountered in both city and county government. It is safe to say that the saloon evil costs the taxpayers more money than comes from any license system. This evil is far reaching and it can be controlled in no other way than by doing away with the saloon entirely.
