CAPT. CRESWELL VISITS CRESWELL

The man for whom Creswell was named, Capt. R. M. Creswell, was a visitor here a few days ago, says the Chronicle. Captain Creswell, accompanied by Mrs. Creswell, is making an advertising tour, from San Diego to Seattle in an automobile, advertising the Panama-California exposition which will be held at San Diego during the Panama-Pacific fair at San Francisco in 1915. A great many of our townspeople are under the impression that Creswell was named in honor of Postmaster-General Creswell, who was in office at the time the town was founded, but several of our oldest citizens state that it has always been their impression that Creswell was named for a railroad man, which bears out the statement made by Captain Creswell to a representative of the Chronicle and which follows:

"I was working for the railroad company, having charge of the supply department when the Oregon & California road was under construction. Some of the officials informed me that they would name a station for me and that I might have the position of telegraph operator and station master. I did not take the position but the station was named for me. This is my first visit to the place, and I am certainly pleased with the appearance of the town and think you have a fine country around it."

After visiting Portland, Spokane, Walla Walla, Seattle and other cities of Oregon and Washington, they will ship their car to San Diego and return to their home by steamer.

Work is progressing on the first stretch of the new electric railroad from Eugene to Florence. The construction camp is now out five miles west of Eugene on the Elmira wagon road.

THINGS DOING AT DIVIDE.

Considerable Activity in the Lumber and Timber Camps—Big Flume is Completed.

Last Sunday's baseball game between Anlauf and Cottage Grove resulted in favor of Anlauf by a score of 7 to 6.

The four-mile flume being built by Mr. Jackson for the new mill is nearly completed, needing only the finishing touches.

Frank Chapman and Bert Lee are furnishing the material for the new store building being built by R. C. Ostrander.

Annie Lindstrom who is in charge of her father's grocery store is there with the big key when you want your freight.

J. H. Hawley has finished shearing his band of 125 head of sheep. Just leave it to Jim to "pull the wool over your eyes" now.

It is reported by one who knows that no other one man can load, haul and unload a load of ties quicker than Jack Robinson.

Our post mistress has returned from her visit with friends in Wash., and is busily engaged in passing out letters and packages to the fast increasing patrons at the post office.

A very enjoyable dancing party was held last Saturday evening at Shay's new mill and another one is announced for next Saturday evening. We certainly have some jolly good times at the Divide.

Bert Lee is about the busiest man in the Divide and Jack Robinson is the man that delivers his goods at the track. Mr. Lee is putting out a fine grade of ties and keeps his mill running full time.

Pete Tanoli says he don't take to the tall timber for any one when it comes to cutting cordwood. He can be seen on the hillside every day running that long saw of his. Some think he is training for the sawing contest at the Grove on the 4th.

E. C. Shay who has charge of the inspecting and grading of the products of the new mill has moved his headquarters to Veatch Spur, the mouth of the flume where he will be found juggling the heavy timbers with the help of his crew of half dozen men.

Two exciting ball games is announced for next Sunday afternoon. First game Cottage Grove vs. Anlauf commencing 12:30. Second, Divide vs. Orchard Land & Timber Co's. fast team of ball tossers, Nate Russell in command. Everybody knows Nate. Plenty of refreshments on the grounds.

Fine Record for Eighth Grade Pupils.

GRAND OPENING BY PIANO HOUSE

Fully 20,000 People Visited Eilers Spacious New Establishment During Rose Festival.

Undoubtedly the chief point of interest in Portland last week outside of the Rose Festival attractions themselves was the grand opening of the Eilers Music House which began last Monday and for which exercises and festivities were conducted in the big building every afternoon and evening during the week.

It has been estimated that on some days fully 5000 people visited the big establishment and there was never any crowding or inconvenience.

The new building was specially designed for the future home of the Eilers music concern and with the new fixtures and up-to-date equipment, Oregon is given what will rank as the most modern and up-to-date music house in this country.

Everything about the establishment has been designed for a greater future for the business. Every detail demanded by a thoroughly up-to-date business system has been instilled.

The building is 125 feet on Seventh street and some 60 feet on Alder, thus giving a floor space of over some 7000 square feet to each floor. The company occupies three entire floors and the spacious basement for housing the business at the present time.

The corner room is one of Portland's chief attractions and will rank for many years to come as the most elegant business place in Portland. Splendidly paneled ceilings, elegantly designed columns, tremendous plate glass windows, hardwood floors and mahogany balconies lend an air of imposing yet simple and quiet elegance to this room that would be hard to equal anywhere. This ground floor is given over exclusively to the display of pianos and talking machines.

One style of each make of piano that is sold by the firm can be seen here. The offices are on the mezzanine floor surrounding the entire establishment, and within easy access of all parts of this big establishment.

On the second floor is located what is probably the most interesting part of the entire institution. Here the phonograph and talking machine rooms are located.

Mortgage Foreclosed on Creamery

J. T. Senter last week became owner of the machinery and other apparatus of the Cottage Grove creamery, he having purchased the same at mortgage sale for $600. The mortgage was held by John Graber. It was executed by Mr. Bleuer, and afterwards fell to the lot of Mr. Dennis, who came here from Wyoming and purchased a half interest in the concern, but failing to make good leased the creamery. Mr. Senter now becomes owner of the plant.

Mr. Bleuer disappeared immediately after selling a half interest to Mr. Dennis, since which time nothing has been heard of him. Bleuer worked a smooth dodge to get the money before his departure for other fields. The butter he sold during the last two months of his business career here was purchased in Portland on credit, while the product of the local creamery was shipped to Portland and paid for in cash. This mode of procedure gave Bleuer about $500 extra cash, and this is the amount the Portland creamery is out of pocket says the Sentinel.

The checkered career of the creamery has, however, come to an end. Mr. Senter, who had leased the plant for several months is thoroughly reliable in all particulars, and besides is a first class butter maker. He has greatly increased the business, and is working diligently to still further build it up. At present he is making 2000 pounds of butter each week. The farmers, as well as all the people of the community, should give him all the encouragement possible.
