THE ROAD OF THREE NATIONS

Things grow rapidly out west. One cannot take a flying trip back East without finding, on his return, that the nephew he left as a round-eyed baby is now in knickerbockers and asking questions; that the nursery slips he planted in front of the door just before his departure are now interfering with the telegraph wires and the paving.

One of the best examples of phenomenal growth on the Coast is Pacific Highway. Little more than a year ago this project was conceived as a road to connect Oregon, Washington and California. It was taken up with enthusiasm by the general public; and newspapers in every community ran column after column about it. Before long its planners had succeeded in marking Highway through Washington. Now it has gone through Oregon and is pausing for a moment on the California line.

At the completion of work in the Evergreen State, the Pacific Highway Association nicknamed their road "The Road of Three Nations" They decided to invade Mexico and British Columbia.

British Columbia was more than willing. The provincial government appropriated large sums for construction; and announced its intention of making Pacific Highway passable clear through to the Alaska border. The recent success of P. E. Sands in marking the trail from Ashcroft to Hazelton assures the early completion of this work. Now that the Hazelton trophy is in the hands of its winner, motorists' eyes are turned toward a similar medal, to go to the first car which reaches Mexico City from San Diego. It is not likely that the golden wheel will rest long unclaimed.

About a month ago, the officers of the Association began to discuss Mexico with more interest. Towns were marked on maps, possible routes were laid out in pencil; tours were scheduled for next summer. Such runs will be made under more favorable conditions than prevailed last summer, since a strong man is now in power in the turbulent republic.

Today, with interest stronger than ever; with the attention of the whole nation centered on Pacific Highway as one of a great chain of national roads, its organizers are contemplating no less plan than the extension of Pacific Highway to the Straits of Magellan. A route has not yet been definitely selected.

Averts Awful Tragedy.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Willoughby, of Marengo, Wis., (R. No. 1) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. Doctors had said her frightful cough was a "consumption" cough and could do little to help her. After many remedies failed, her aunt urged her to take Dr. King's New Discovery. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." This matchless medicine has no equal for throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

Cottage Grove Students Make U. of O. Dramatic Club.

University of Oregon, Eugene Ore., Oct. 25.—In the tryouts Thursday evening the following students won membership in the University of Oregon Dramatic Club: Bess Cowden, of Silverton, Ruth Peter, of Baker, Gertrude Taylor, of Albany, Allie Phillips, of Cottage Grove, Ernest Anderson, of Cottage Grove, Hugh Curran, of Cottage Grove, Ingle, of La Grande, Chet Moores, of Salem, Leland Finch, of Baker, Alfred H. M. Skei, of Mount Angel and Flora Dunham, of Portland.

The Dramatic Club is composed of men and women with dramatic ability. Many more students try for the Club than those that make it. A number of very clever skits and plays are produced by members of the club, each year.

The club has not yet decided definitely on the plays to be presented this year. However, the three dramas, Ibsen's "The Doll's House," Mollie's "The Shopkeeper Turned Gentleman," and Bernard Shaw's "Candida," are under consideration. Possibly one of Shakespeare's comedies will be presented on the campus next May, during Junior week end.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 25 The Henry George Club, formed by students at the University interested in taxation met last night and elected the following officers: President Edw. J. Himes, of Portland; secretary and treasurer, Carlton R. Spencer, of Cottage Grove; reporter, Walter Bail, of Oregon City. The Henry George Club is one of the several organizations that has sprung up among the students. There are about twenty or thirty students in the Henry George Club and all of these are not believers in the single tax theory of taxation, but all of them are students in economics and much interested in taxation problems. The University encourages the open discussion of all live topics among the students.
