AMBITION TALKS

Be the Right Kind of a "Tight Wad"

Almost to a unit the people who spend money on themselves with lavish hand, including others only when they are present and can't be dodged, call a person stingy who refuses to do this, saving his money for more noble purposes.

The "good fellow" who rubs his stomach against a bar until there is a worn streak just above the belt line and orders drinks for whoever happens to be near, expecting a return of the courtesy, calls the thrifty man who has no part in the performance a "tight-wad."

The town sport who lets loose of a three-dollar bill every time he feels like a buggy ride taunts with close-fistedness the young man who has no money for pool or cigars.

There seems to be a general inclination on the part of men and women who spend money extravagantly on themselves to class as stingy those who save their money and spend it on somebody else or to provide against misfortune to their loved ones.

We will come to a higher and nobler understanding of the great question of generosity when we fasten in our minds, with rivets spread at both ends, the following definitions:

A stingy man is one who spends money on himself or not at all.

A generous man is one who spends money on others.

The matter of economy has nothing to do with either.

There is a high and mighty air about the prodigal that is calculated to make a thoughtful man ashamed of his prudence. And it often does, for many a man with a backbone like a piece of spaghetti is unable to stand the fire of caustic criticism to which he is subjected by male bipeds of the sport class for watching his money carefully. But the man who is independent enough to keep from spending a dollar unless he or some one dear to him is going to get a dollar's worth of benefit out of it is the man who will some time be called on every 30 days to give the other his pay check and decide whether he shall ever get another like it.

NIGHT OF TERROR AS HANKOW, CHINA, BURNS

Hankow, Nov. 4.—Members of the Wesleyan mission and patients of the women's hospital where lives were in danger of the fires which swept over the native city of Hankow, were rescued after a night of terror and are now housed in the London mission.

Hankow, Nov. 4.—(Via Wu-Hu.) Almost the whole of the native city of Hankow is afire this morning and it is feared that the Wesleyan mission, near the Han river, in which are 50 blind boys and 150 wounded persons, who, with the staff of the mission, make up a total of 300 persons, was destroyed.

Dr. Booth, the head of the mission, asked the imperialists to grant an armistice of two hours to permit of the removal from the mission, but the firing ceased for only a half hour.

A Red Cross steamboat, which attempted to rescue the inmates of the mission, was driven back by the fire from the rebel fort. One shell riddled the boat's deckhouse.

When the vessel was compelled to turn back the mission was still standing, but its position was hopeless, the flames being within 200 yards of it.

The fires in the town were started by the imperialists, who threw inflammable shells into the place. A strong wind carried the flames across the river to Han Yang, and a strip of that city on the waterfront a mile long was destroyed, and the fire is still burning there.

A few hundred rebels against whom the imperialists are preparing to advance, occupy the unburned parts of Hankow.

When the steamboat left an artillery duel was taking place between the batteries of the imperialists, which were planted back of the British concessions on the Wu Chang and Han Yang forts. Several rebel shells landed in the foreign concessions, piercing the walls of houses.

The revolutionists occupy the district westward of the railway station, almost to the Han river.

The chamber of commerce asked the foreign consuls to protest against the burning of the city, but the consuls declined to do so.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by Benson's Pharmacy.

It appears that the waterfront of Astoria is bottled up and business being driven away because of lack of a municipal wharf. What a great lot of mutts the pioneer city dads of Astoria must have been. Almost as great as those of Portland, Marshfield and every other port in Oregon. The remedy is to tax the idle waterfront into use.

"I do not believe there is any other medicine so good for whooping cough as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Francis Turpin, Junction City, Ore. This remedy is also unsurpassed for colds and croup. For sale by Benson's Pharmacy.
