

FOR HUMAN OR ANIMAL FLESH

A remedy that is equally efficacious in healing the wounds, sores, sprains or other ailments of the flesh of man or beast.

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

A healing remedy to effectively meet the needs of animal flesh need not be a harsh, strong mixture, too drastic for the human body; Ballard's Snow Liniment is proof of this. It ranks with the best of the best healing remedies designed for man; and it is equally as prompt in curing the wounds and flesh diseases common among animals. Owners of blooded horses prefer it to any other liniment because it leaves no disfiguring scars in any of the minor accidents or ailments. It heals by a mild power to which the flesh of horses responds readily.

It is of great value in healing barbed wire cuts, wounds, festering sores and many other ailments to which horses are subject. In the relief of human suffering, it has done a world of good, particularly in easing the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. When gently rubbed in where the pain exists, it gives a most gratifying relief to the afflicted. As a household remedy for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, contracted muscles, stiff neck, frost bites, swellings, chilblains, ivy poisoning, there is nothing better on earth.

Put Up in Three Sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per Bottle.

The offense for which he was sentenced was the murder of Roy Perkins near Marshfield over a year ago.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of cold and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by Benson's Pharmacy.

THE POOR BOY'S CHANCE.

My son, do you think you have no chance to get on in the world because you are poor?

You are mistaken. Did you ever try to press your way through a crowd? Often, no doubt, Well, you just nudged people and elbowed them and kept squeezing your way, didn't you? And the people gradually gave, little by little, and you succeeded.

Just so must you force your way to the front in life.

You need not be rude about it, but you must push and keep pushing until the folks stand aside. When they see you are in earnest they will get out of your way.

In New York one day a merchant hung out a sign in front of his store on which was printed "Boy Wanted."

The sign was hung out at 8 o'clock a. m. At five minutes after 8 a youngster came into the store carrying with him the sign.

"Here's your sign, sir." "What do you mean by tearing down my sign and bringing it in here?" asked the merchant. "I wanted a boy."

"Well, I'm the boy," replied he.

You see, there was no further use for the sign. The sign business was all over and the boy business was begun. And the merchant was so pleased at the boy's push and promptness that he gave him the job.

Everywhere men are looking for that sort of boy—a boy who believes in him self, is determined to succeed and who pushes himself politely, but firmly, into notice.

There are signs "Boy Wanted" in many places—on the street, in the want columns of the newspapers, everywhere.

When you see the sign get there first. Then take in the sign and tell the boss you are ready to go to work.

Push yourself! All your life you will see signs saying that boys and men are wanted. Be the first one on the job and take the sign in with you.

Only you must be sure of yourself, sure that you can and will do what is wanted of you.

No chance? See that electric light? Hear that phonograph? They were made by Tom Edison, once a poor train boy. Look at that great store. It was built by John Wanamaker, once a poor boy. Watch the supreme court of the United States come in its procession. Who is at its head? Edward D. White, once a poor boy.

Chances? The chances are all about you. Watch for the signs. Push!

The Wolf Fish.

The wolf fish is one of the most remarkable of finny creatures. Though rarely exceeding three feet in length, it seems to be much more ferocious than the average shark, promptly attacking anybody whom it may suspect of trying to meddle with it. Anatomically, its most striking feature is its large and powerful teeth, which must render it a dangerous antagonist in a fight with any other denizen of the ocean. Apparently, however, it does not feed on fishes, but prefers such delicacies as lobsters, crabs and whelks. In the stomach of one individual caught at Eastport, Me., four quarts of sea urchins were found, most of them whole and with the spines on, an uncomfortable article of diet, one might imagine.

The Eskimos in Alaska catch the wolf fish by baiting their hooks with grass roots, a habit of the fish in those waters being to tear sods of grass that wash into the sea from the shore or cliff ledges into pieces as if to eat them. It seems likely, however, that they really do not eat the vegetable stuff, but the crabs and mollusks lurking in it.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Opportunist.

"Geewhilkens, Skillington," said Blabworth, meeting his Chicago friend in the corridor of a New York hotel, "you must be prosperous! I see you and Mrs. Skillington out motoring in the park every blessed morning and afternoon. What does it cost you?" "Nothing at all, Blab," said Skillington. "The madam and I are enjoying a few demonstrations, that's all. With sixty first class cars on the market one can motor around New York twice a day for a whole month at the cost of a blue veil and a pair of goggles."—Harper's Weekly.

Apple Snow.

Press through a colander two cupfuls of stewed apples. The apple sauce must be thick like marmalade. Beat this apple sauce for a few minutes and then add three-fourths cupful of sugar. Beat in a stiff froth one and one-half cupfuls of rich sweet cream. Mix the apple and cream lightly. Put this so called "apple snow" into a glass dish and drop currant jelly with a teaspoon over the top.

Stains on the Hands.

When vegetables and fruit are pared the hands are generally left stained. To take this out rub over with a cut lemon or wash the places with a little vinegar. Deep stains can be taken off with pumice stone. Wash in weak suds and rinse and wipe dry, with an emphasis on the necessity of drying the skin well, for this will keep away roughness and chaps.

To Wash White Skirts.

In making white undershirts, if one wishes to wear them before washing and ironing, dip ruffle in cold starch and let stay ten minutes, then iron. They will not be so hard to wash when soiled as they would be without any starch. On wash day put a tablespoonful of turpentine in boiler, also in blue water.
