F. H. Cole and C. F. Smith, proprietors of the "Quick-Print Shop" at Spokane, Washington, were in this city the last of the week on their way to Los Angeles, California, for outing. They came this far by automobile, but found the roads muddy owing to the late rains, and they put their machine on board the train, not caring to make the trip over the mountains to the south by auto. They have a complete camping outfit and their car arranged and equipped for making the trip in comfort and in that manner to get the most out of it. Mr. Cole hesitated a day or so with his friend, Bert Gove, of Creswell, while Mr. Smith went to Roseburg to look after the machine and the condition of the roads on down the line.
