Mrs. James P. Graham entertained her guests, Misses Ruth and Sadie Blair, of Portland, with a pleasant picnic party on the banks of the Row river Sunday evening.

A very pleasant birthday party took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shortridge on the 21st of this month. A number of Eugene friends were present as well as those from other points. The occasion being the celebration of the eighty-first anniversary of Mr. Shortridge's birth and a very nice time was enjoyed. Those present from Eugene were: Mrs. J. W. Harris, M. C. Harris and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gray, Mr. and Mrs. John Dillard, Earl Dillard, Mrs. C. D. Stewart, Mrs. S. J. Dillard. Those from Coast Fork were: J. J. Weeden and family, and those of Cottage Grove were Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Spear, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Langdon, Audrie and Arlie Langdon.

After a general good visit and a time spent in vocal converse, and the disposition of a bountiful repast, all departed for their respective homes wishing Grandpa Shortridge many returns of the occasion and that he may be blessed with his usual good health for many years to come.

Making Natural Fruit Jams

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., July 13—That natural fruit jams are far superior to cooked jams is the opinion of Prof. C. I. Lewis of the O. A. C. department of horticulture. He describes his method of preparing them as follows.

"Such fruits as red and black raspberries and strawberries make the most delicious uncooked jam, and one can enjoy a very palatable short-cake in the middle of the winter at a very small expense. To prepare this jam, be sure first that your berries are sound. Throw out all soft, mouldy, or in any way decayed fruit. This is imperative. Then mix equal amounts of sugar and fruit, and crush the whole mixture carefully. Be sure that no berries are left whole.

"Before putting into the jars, some people stir the fruit occasionally for several days to be sure that the sugar and fruit become thoroughly mixed. After the sugar and fruit are so mixed, put them into fruit jars but do not seal them. The only covering that should be given them is a little paper to keep out the dust. If the jars are sealed, the chances are that the fruit will spoil, but if left unsealed, it can be kept some time. I have kept it for two years.

"Red and white currants treated this way make a delicious jam. This is somewhat different from that known as sun-dried jam. The sun-dried jam is cooked somewhat. In the natural jam the flavor of the fruit is preserved."

Progress, like rabbits, is said to run in circles. Fifty years ago prunes were a luxury. They were the piece de resistance on the farm, in exclusive boarding houses and in fashionable hotels. Prunes were credited with making brains for the banker and brawn for the brick layer. But the world progressed away from prunes. Just as hobble skirts lost their vogue among society women when lesser mortals took to wearing them, so prunes became anathema in the upper strata when they became the staple of the actor's boarding house.

The world has been traveling so fast in its usual circle, however, that it is getting back to prunes.

No longer is the delectable dish to be found on the boarding house table. At the Chicago convention, when prices soared, prunes headed the list, the smallest prune being valued at 15 cents, and an order of prunes costing 40 cents.

"With the Elks herded at Portland, the elephant mired at Washington and the donkey running riot throughout the country the domestic menageries seem to be in the very devil of a stew." This from the Baltimore Sun. As for the elephant and the donkey we wot not. But we resent the imputation that the Elks were stewed at Portland.—Telegram.
