BOARD CLOSES DEAL FOR CANNERY SITE

The Board of Trustees of the Cottage Grove Cannery Association have just closed the purchase of the Bausman property, located on the corner of Sixth Street and Madison Avenue, for a site for the cannery.

Construction work will be begun at once.

Prof. J. E. Dunton and Frank Wallace went to Creswell Saturday to arrange for the presentation of "Burley's Ranch" by the students of the Cottage Grove High School.

B. Bailey and wife were guests over night Sunday at the Thompson Hotel. They were enroute overland by team on their return from a trip to Portland to their home near Roseburg.

J. B. Reed and wife and children registered at the Thompson Hotel over Sunday night. They were enroute to their home at Wildwood, on the O. & S. E., on their return from a trip to Portland.

Elder Frank S. Bunch, of Roseburg, spoke last night at the Armory, reviewing Rev. Fagan's sermon on the Sunday and Sabbath questions. He will speak again tonight at the same place on the same subject.

Lee Damewood's team took a spin down Sixth street Saturday without a driver. They slipped and fell on the pavement when they reached the Oregon Hotel and were captured. The damage was a broken tongue.

The Brown Lumber Company were compelled to temporarily shut down their mill Monday on account of a shortage of saw timber, caused by an accident on O. & S. E. which delayed the arrival of a trainload of logs.

A. W. Wampole returned Friday from Portland, where for a week he had been at the bedside of his mother in the Good Samaritan hospital. When he left the chances for his mother's recovery were apparently good.

A large number of new people have located in Cottage Grove already this spring, many of them purchasing farms near town which they will occupy later. With a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether, we can make this a banner year in this city and surrounding country.

W. P. Tucker and his father, A. Tucker, arrived in Cottage Grove Monday from Verdue, enroute to the former's Mountain View ranch two miles from Dorena. The gentlemen spent the winter in California, and recently have been visiting with relatives near Albany. The elder Tucker will remain with his son at Mountain View for about two weeks, when he will return to Verdue for the summer.

J. Hardy Crow, one of Lorane's most substantial residents, was a visitor to this city Tuesday and made this office a pleasant call. Mr. Crow is always boosting this county and especially the Lorane valley. He says prospects for a bumper fruit crop were never more encouraging, and that the late frosts have done very little damage if any. He also states that a large colony of Eastern people will arrive this spring and settle in that "Inland Paradise."

The regular meeting of the city council will be held in the council chambers next Monday evening, May 4. Considerable business of importance in regard to street, water and light improvements will probably come up for consideration, and the final passage of ordinances which passed the second reading at the adjourned meeting held April 20th.

Capt. B. K. Lawson, superintendent of the state penitentiary, was attending to business matters in Cottage Grove Monday and visiting with his many old friends, this being his home town where he has valuable property interests. He reports considerable political activity down the valley where there is keen competition for almost every nomination for the various offices to be filled at the forthcoming election.
