LOCAL NOTES

The frame work for the fine new Bader residence on West Main Street, is up.

I want to buy a team that will weigh 1300 each. Write to E. J. Frier, Drain, Ore.

Brainard & Harrison have a new sign, and, by the way, it is one of the handsomest in the city.

Wm. Bainbridge and family have moved to their Lorane farm where they will spend the summer.

Mrs. Jas. Hemenway and Mrs. Ernest Lockwood will go to Portland Sunday to attend the Rose carnival.

Dave Alexander of the "Java Coffee House" Marshfield, is looking after property interests here and greeting old friends.

Some hay was caught by the late rains, but no damage is yet reported. The gardens and orchards have been greatly benefited.

Some people say there is money in strawberries. If you will observe closely you will find that there is also an occasional big fat worm.

In spite of the fact that the mills are not employing their usual quota of men, idle men seem to be a mighty scarce article around Cottage Grove.

Some weeks ago people said we had summer all fall, then we had fall all winter, now we have had winter all spring, and it seems we are due to have spring all summer.

Mrs. John Barker has returned from Newport where she attended the graduating exercises of her friend, Muriel Robinson. She reports the weather rainy and cold.

Wm. McAdams, James Ostrander and Bert Lemons will go to Portland Sunday in the McAdams auto to take in the Rose Carnival. The crowd will be chaperoned by Jas. Craig.

Levi Geer and family, of the Callipooia Springs, were in Cottage Grove Thursday. Mr. Geer says the business of the Sanitarium and hotel has been unusually good so far this spring.

Mrs. Chas. Burkholder and daughter and son, Miss Belle and Johnnie, and Mrs. Burkholder's mother, Mrs. Lydia Stauffer, will go to Portland Sunday in their automobile to attend the Rose Carnival.

Rain, hail, snow, and an occasional streak of sunshine made up the style of weather Thursday. Fires were almost indispensable for comfort, and winter wraps were very much in evidence, and still all vegetation seems to thrive on such.

Merchants in Cottage Grove have been unable during the last week to secure enough home grown strawberries to supply the local market, and have been compelled to ship in berries from the outside. And this is a "strawberry country."

In spite of unfavorable weather, the carnival has been drawing good crowds all week, although there was not much enthusiasm left in those who braved the weather of Thursday evening. Apparently the weather man "has it in for" the fire boys, as with good weather, their part of the carnival receipts would have been double what it is.

Don't you believe in advertising? Why, bless your soul, there are men who can take a few pieces of colored cardboard and a can of ink and do the thing called "advertising" so skillfully and adroitly that they will find buyers who willingly pay 75 cents for an article that ordinarily sells for 50. If you do not believe in advertising, it simply shows that you are not experienced or observant.

SNOOZERS ARE LOSERS.

There are some folks that love to lie in bed most of the day. And thus the better part of life these sleepers waste away. But I'm the kind that likes to see the sun rise o'er the hill And cover everything with gold And all with glory fill.

It is then the birds sing sweetest; It is then the lovely flowers Cast the most bewitching perfumes; From their dewy, sun kissed bowers; It is then God's peace seems round me in the blossom scented air And I see the God of nature And his glory everywhere.

"Life is real, and life is earnest," And it was not made for sleep, And there now are sleeping virgins Who will later wake to weep. They who give their days to sleeping And their nights to revelry Are but burying their talents As the precious moments flee.

"Life is real, and life is earnest," And each has his part to do, And if you use life for sleeping Who will do your work for you? Day for work, and night for resting. Even then our time is short To fulfill the task assigned us And achieve a good report. C. M. BARNITZ.

KURIOS FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q.—I note the name "Shakebag" is given by cockfighters to a large species of game. Why the name? A.—The Giant or Herculean game was called shakebag because at a main it was customary to shake them out of a bag into the cockpit and thus no trickery could give the one an advantage over the other. Q.—A butcher has kindly offered me fresh blood to feed my hens. Is it all right to feed raw in the mash, or must it be prepared in some way? A.—It should be boiled in a sack and not much should be fed at a time. Q.—What makes a hen bag down behind? A.—Overfat generally. The muscles break down. They can't hold up her fat body bustle. Q.—Do you consider broken glass good grit for poultry? A.—No. It punctures the digestive organs. Q.—I have a cock bird that bullies the hens and will not let them eat. How can I stop this? A.—Put another rooster in the coop and let him lick the brute. As with humans, he will then go to the hens for sympathy. Q.—How may I distinguish sex in geese? A.—The gander has more rubber neck and is large and coarse, while the goose gabbles much in a voice loud and coarse. Q.—What is a poult and a keet? A.—A young turkey, a young guinea.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

The cold storage law of Pennsylvania requires that stored eggs be kept no longer than eight months. To defeat this the egg gamblers withdrew eggs from storage and then entered them again as new fresh eggs; 32,000 crates, thirty dozen to the crate, were thus changed in Philadelphia alone. As hens do not lay so plentifully in winter and egg gamblers are not in the habit of paying the price of fresh winter eggs it shouldn't be a hard job for the state detectives to catch the swindlers. Congress also is investigating this matter. No less than twelve bills in quick succession were introduced demanding that the department of justice investigate the cold storage business on account of the high price of winter eggs. We are glad to see the investigators headed the right way and the public no longer blaming the hen or the egg producer, but the food gamblers.

All the poultry genuses are not on big plants nor the poultry papers. Not by a jugful! Many of the best managed and best paying flocks are on farms and town lots, where there are big results, but no horn blowing.

Poultry lectures at farmers' institutes command a fine hearing and in most sections are the most popular, the women especially turning out en masse to hear them. This is certainly encouraging to those who are striving to improve farm poultry.

An Indiana poultryman spent $5,000 on his annual catalogue and as much more on general advertising, and his sales of stocks, chicks and eggs for that season were over $50,000. Others may have just as good stock, but fail to realize because they fail to advertise.

Many big city papers now give a special page a week to poultry. These editors see the importance of the vast poultry industry and wish to help the town lot hen man as well as the farmer. Their efforts are reciprocated, for the poultry articles draw much poultry advertising and new subscribers. Some editors, however, do not observe the signs of the times, print no poultry information and lose accordingly.

We have visited numerous poultry plants where we were asked to figure out why the pens were damp. We found in some plants that the litter was too thin and not renewed often enough. In others the dirt floors were wet from the moisture of droppings or poor outside drainage, and of course wet the straw and affected the air.

There are other uses for a bone cutter besides cutting green bones. Dry bones may be cut up for fertilizer and vegetables sliced for the chickens and cattle. When there is soft green corn it may be cut up, cob and all, and fed, thus it is saved from rotting.

This is the season when canker appears, and it is not difficult to cure if taken early. The growth should be gently removed and peroxide of hydrogen applied, and after a few applications the trouble disappears.

The county commissioners of Spokane county, Wash., appropriated $250 toward the Christmas exhibition of the Inland Empire Poultry and Pet Stock association. Other county commissioners please copy.

Society Notes

Mrs. H. A. Miller entertained a few friends informally, Friday afternoon, complimentary to Mrs. F. W. Robbins, who is leaving next week for a long visit in California.

Members of the Baptist Aid Society and the Philathea class, together with a few neighbors, gave Mrs. F. L. Ingram a handkerchief shower and surprise party at the Baptist church Wednesday afternoon. About twenty ladies were present, and Mrs. K. K. Mills and Mrs. David Griggs served a dainty lunch.

Mrs. C. E. Frost entertained the M. P. G. Club Tuesday afternoon. A pretty feature of the occasion was the presentation of a beautiful silver spoon, engraved with the letters M. P. G., from the club to Mrs. F. L. Ingram, who will soon leave for her new home in Pendleton. Mrs. W. B. Cooper was an invited guest, and the hostess served a charming luncheon.

Mrs. A. C. Kinter gave a delightful birthday party in honor of her husband Wednesday evening. Partners for a charming supper were secured by matching roses. After supper the tables were arranged for "five hundred" and the game was enjoyed until a late hour. Those who participated in the pleasant affair were, Messrs. and Mesdames C. J. Kem, Roy Short, F. L. Ingram, F. W. Robbins, H. A. Miller, C. H. Van Denberg, W. P. Hall, Mrs. C. C. Cruson, Miss Eunice Van Denberg, Mr. Emerson Wilcox and Harry Kinter.

Mrs. A. S. Powell and Mrs. Joe Porter have issued cards for a party Tuesday afternoon.

The Constellation Club met in the Masonic Temple Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. John Bader and Mrs. T. C. Wheeler as hostesses. Mrs. Chas. Beals of Portland was a guest. The hostesses served delicious refreshments, and the luncheon tables were profusely decorated with sweet peas, roses and carnations. About fifteen members were present.
