ANOTHER PIONEER ANSWERS FINAL CALL

A. H. Spare, a well known and highly esteemed pioneer citizen of this city, died at his farm home in south Cottage Grove, Monday night, Jan. 11, 1915 at the age of 83 years, he having been cared for by the family of W. P. Huff during his declining years. Alexander W. Spare was born in Kentucky in 1832 a son of Philip and Harriet Spare. The parents died of cholera leaving a son and daughter, both small children, the son being but four years of age. They were taken into a neighbor family named Dowdell, where they grew into manhood and womanhood. The sister, Sarah, was married to G. W. Murphy in Kentucky, and after raising a family of several children, died in 1910. An adopted son of the elder Spare, Ben T. Gray also died in 1892.

In 1851 A. H. Spare drove an ox team across the plains to Oregon as pay for his own transportation. For a number of years he engaged in mining and blacksmithing in this part of Oregon and later with a Mr. Arnold bought a large tract of land in the southern part of Cottage Grove. Arnold sold his interests to the late O. P. Adams and he and Mr. Spare afterwards divided the land, which now comprises the valuable Spare and Adams farms. Mr. Spare remained single through life and had witnessed the development of this region from a veritable wilderness to a finely developed farming and industrial community. In his political faith Mr. Spare was a democrat, and always declined to accept an office of any kind. He was a charter member and past master of the Masonic order of this city, a member of R. A. M. and also a Knight Templar. He assisted in organizing Cottage Grove's first brass band and was for many years its "drummer boy." Beginning as a poor boy, orphaned at an early age and being compelled to make his own way in the world, he made a success in life, acquiring a comfortable competence. Besides his farm holdings, he is said to have owned some mining claims on Sharps creek in the Bohemia mining district.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Mills Chapel Thursday Jan. 14, under the auspices of the Masonic order, interment in the Masonic cemetery.

Death of Mrs. Hopkins

Mrs. Alice Hopkins, wife of Dr. W. H. Hopkins, died at the family home in this city Tuesday night, Jan. 12, 1915, aged about 29 years, of paralysis. For some months past Mrs. Hopkins served as chief operator and cashier in the local telephone office, and on Jan. 2, received a stroke of paralysis, which at first did not appear as serious, but her condition became gradually more alarming up to the time of her death, which was a shock to her many friends here, as she was a strong, healthy appearing woman. The only relative here is a sister who resides at Oakridge. Dr. Hopkins and wife came to this city from California last spring. Funeral services will be held here at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, interment in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Society Notes

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Christian church held a most delightful session at the home of Mrs. T. B. McDonald last Thursday afternoon. Subject, "Porto Rico." After a brief business period the following program was rendered: An account of the work in Porto Rico was read by Mrs. M. J. Fuller. Map drill, Mrs. T. B. McDonald; Paper on our orphanage work, Mrs. S. L. Knox; Original Porto Rican song composed by the hostess, sung by Mrs. K. B. Woods. Personal letters from Missionaries were read and other items of interests given. After the program, pictures and souvenirs of Porto Rico were examined with interest. Baskets, fancy drawn work wrought by the Natives, palm fiber, strings of beads made from dried native berries, these are gathered, strung and polished by the little native children. A Porto Rican lunch was served consisting of frajoles croutons, pine apple and banana cake and coffee. The place cards were decorated with hand painted Poro Rican scenes, ribbon and the dried native berries. Twenty-two ladies were present.

Mrs. B. S. Swengel and mother, Mrs. Jennie Fishburn very charmingly entertained at their home last Wednesday, complimenting Mrs. Roy Romaine, of Portland.
