A BEAUTIFUL PEN OF RHODE ISLANDS REDS

James S. Benson received a beautiful breeding pen of Rhode Island Reds, one male and four females, from a well known Hood River breeder last Friday. The poultry yards from which these birds came have turned out more prize winners and fine laying strains of Rhode Island Reds than any other poultry plant handling this breed in the Pacific Northwest, birds from these pens carrying off the principal awards in their class in all the northwest shows. A similar pen of prize birds were shipped by this same breeder to Australia recently and were contracted at $150 for the five birds. Mr. Benson now has some fowls to be justly proud of.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO RAISE HOGS.

Portland, Ore. Jan. 12.—A conference of far-reaching importance to the live stock industry of the Pacific Northwest was held at the Portland Union Stockyards a few days ago. As a result of this conference, arrangements have been made whereby it will be possible to send out 1,000 or more brood sows to the boys and girls of Oregon, these animals being treated for, and guaranteed against cholera. The sows are not to be given away, but are to be sold at prices ranging from $18 to $25 each, and in payment the Stockyards people will accept a note running from 8 to 10 months at 6 percent interest, the note to be indorsed by the father or guardian of the boy or girl and approved by the county school superintendent.

The family of infant porkers will appear in four or five weeks after shipment of the sow, and the boy or girl will have plenty of time before their note matures to bring the pigs to marketable age and dispose of them to the best advantage, paying off the note with the proceeds of the sale. In the work done by the hog clubs of the Northwest last year an eleven year old girl at Washougal, Wash. made a clear profit of $79 on the brood sow. In this instance two litters, 24 pigs in all, were produced. Local educators have expressed the opinion that this is the most important step ever taken in this line of work and, as far as known, the first movement of the kind ever started in the United States.

DAWES ATTACKS NEW BANK SYSTEM

Chicago, Jan. 9.—That the federal reserve bank law invests too vast a power in the hands of one man, the secretary of the treasury, and thus presents an element of danger which should be dealt with by congress, was the assertion made by Charles G. Dawes, former comptroller of currency, at a special meeting of Chicago financiers and business men.

The speaker said that the utility of the reserve bank system in an emergency rests ultimately with the secretary of the treasury alone.

They have not as yet, to any extent, expanded their credits, but if they did and then for some reason were compelled suddenly to contract them, business disaster must ensue.

The speaker declared that developments might arise by which "an Andrew Jackson of the future will again lay prostrate the commercial edifice of a great nation."
