The Remedy

She was a good woman, he loved her. She was his wife. The pie was good—his wife made it—he ate it. But the pie disagreed with him and he disagreed with his wife. Found a remedy and is happy, so is his wife, and to find that he could have any prescription filled that he would bring in.

Clarence Morse is not only a young musical genius but he has recently demonstrated the fact that he has somewhat of a mechanical head on his shoulders. Feeling the need of a more rapid means of copying and writing music than by the use of a pen he secured an old typewriter, remodeled it and fitted the bars up with notes and musical characters, and is now able to reproduce or write music with accuracy and considerable rapidity with this slightly altered and remodeled typewriter. This young man will no doubt be heard from in the future.

THE WOMANS CLUB

Entertained a Large Company of Guests Monday Evening

The woman's club of Cottage Grove royally entertained a large number of guests in the new lodge room, bank building, Monday evening, the "Spinster Convention," being the principal features of the evening's program, the characters comprising some 16 or 18 prominent ladies of the town. The M. W. A. Orchestra furnished music for the occasion and opened the evening's entertainment.

The costumes worn by the "spinsters" were grotesque, and the characterization was excellent, many ancient wedding gowns, which had occupied a position in the bureau drawer, for lo, these many years, were brought forth and displayed on this happy occasion. Mrs. B. R. Job, presided over the "Spinsters Convention," in a very able and efficient manner. Mrs. F. D. Wheeler and Mrs. Chas. Burkholder, serving as secretary and treasurer, respectively. The business routine, debates, musical numbers, and locally applied jests during the convention session, were humorous in the extreme and kept the large audience in a very mirthful mood. At the conclusion of the convention session, a kind of an anatomical question contest was introduced, the answers to the questions listed on the cards, pertaining to the human body. Very few, if any, persons present were able to answer correctly the entire list of questions. The meeting then resolved into a social session, while dainty refreshments consisting of Orange Frappe and wafers were served. There were about 150 guests present all of whom voted the members of the Woman's Club as charming entertainers.
