Effect of Moral Teaching on Youth

Two small boys stood before Judge Stubbs of the Juvenile Court. They gazed fearfully into his earnest, yet kindly face, and, not too badly frightened to understand, grasped the import of the lecture.

"My boys, tell me, now, why did you jump off and on those cars? You knew that you might have a leg or an arm cut off, didn't you? You might have been killed. Now, you haven't got any more arms and legs than you need, have you? Don't you see that it's very foolish of you to put yourself in danger in that manner?"

Sitting in the little waiting room of the court half an hour later, both boys were silent. They had evidently been pondering over the words of the judge. Not so much reverence as might have been expected was heard in the voice of the smaller boy as he suggested to the other:

"Huh! Bet that's how the judge lost his own arm."-Indianapolis News.

Self-Righteons Man's Last Words Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst was talking about the self-righteous. "They are a strange class," he said.
