

Spring Medicine

There is no other season when good medicine is so much needed as in the spring.

Woods Sarsaparilla and Pills

Give the blood pure, vigorous and stave appetite, give vitality, strength and animation, and cure eruptions. Have the whole family try to take them today.

Woods Sarsaparilla has been used in families for some time, and always with beneficial results. Last spring I was all run down and got a bottle of it, and as usual it brought great benefit. Miss BEULAH WOOD, Blowe, Vt.

Woods Sarsaparilla promises to keep the promise.

The Tallest Cathedral.

The most remarkable and striking feature of the new Liverpool Cathedral is the height of the vaulting of the nave and choir—measured in the vaulting, one hundred and sixty feet, and in the high transepts, one hundred and forty feet—which tend to produce a very magnificent effect. No cathedral in the country approaches its height. The nearest approach is the nave of which the height of one hundred and two feet while York measures ninety-two feet. Salisbury eighty-four, and Lincoln eighty-two. Chester reached only eighty feet. The "whispering gallery" of St. Paul's Cathedral is one hundred feet from the floor.

Applications as they cannot reach the portion of the ear. There is only one cure for deafness, and that is by constitutional means. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed it is entirely closed, and deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be removed this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; and deafness is caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube, and an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

SANTO DOMINGO.

Little Island's Complications with the United States.

The action of the insurgents of Santo Domingo in deliberately firing on the American flag, killing R. C. Johnston, a naval engineer, wounding Charles Doctor, a bugler, and otherwise committing warlike acts against the government of the United States has succeeded in raising an interesting international complication. It will be remembered by those who have kept track of the affair that Johnston was shot while on a launch on its way from the shore to the United States auxiliary cruiser Yankee. The small American flag in the stern of the boat was riddled. Doctor was wounded in a subsequent engagement of the Columbia with some of the insurgent forces. About a week after the killing of Johnston, it will also be recalled, a merchant steamer named the New York discharged her cargo at the port of Santo Domingo under what was thought to be an agreement of the contending forces. She was fired on by the insurgents, however, and the United States cruiser Newark retaliated by shelling the town of Pajarito, in which the rebels were encamped, afterward landing a force of marines and driving out the insurgent troops. All of this naturally led to further complications. Though the rebel forces have been very thoroughly beaten in subsequent engagements with the troops of President Morales, the island is yet in a very unsettled condition, and there is a considerable party, in which the commercial element predominates, that is favorable to annexation to the United States, or at least to a protectorate by the American government. The annexation idea was one of the cherished dreams of President Grant. Indeed, it even antedated Grant, for Secretary Seward about the time of the Alaska purchase elaborated a plan looking to American possession of Santo Domingo. It is probable that the idea did not originate in the United States, however, but in the island itself, for the merchant classes there have always favored an American protectorate.

It was doubtless due to this influence that President Baez of the Dominican Republic sent a formal proposition to President Grant looking to the annexation of Santo Domingo to the United States. It was in July, 1880, that Grant received the proposal, and he lost no time in sending a special commissioner to the island to look into conditions and report. After some further negotiations the treaty of annexation was prepared, the question was submitted to the voters of Santo Domingo, who gave it almost unanimous approval at a special election held for the purpose, and Grant submitted the treaty to the United States Senate for ratification. Charles Sumner, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, bitterly opposed the ratification of the treaty, and succeeded in securing sufficient support to defeat the treaty. The annexation talk died down and has not been renewed until recent years, although the commercial party in the island still continued to favor the plan.

tion that resulted in making General Jimenez president. In 1902 occurred another revolution, which was successful in forcing Jimenez to resign, on which the vice president, Vasquez, was installed, to be succeeded in 1903 by General Morales, against whom the present revolution is directed. In Santo Domingo the president is elected for four years, unless sooner "revoluted" out of office.

The people are of mixed Spanish, negro and Indian blood. The government is modeled on that of the American republic and so far as form is concerned is said to be quite ideal.

Santo Domingo is one of the most beautiful of the West India islands. It lies between Cuba and Porto Rico. In Samana Bay it possesses one of the finest natural harbors in the world. It was this port which President Grant was especially anxious to secure as a coaling station. The oldest settlement made in the new world was on this island, Columbus himself having founded it. Here the great discoverer was buried and here for a number of years was the capital of the Spanish possessions to the new world.

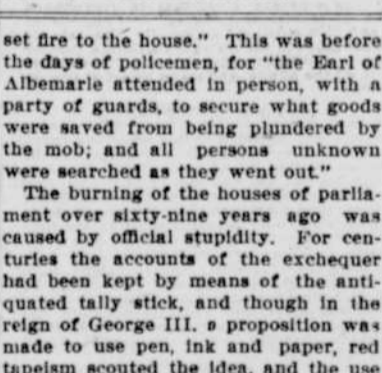

At the end of the eighteenth century Spain ceded the eastern half of the island to France, which held the western half. Soon after the entire country under Toussaint L'Ouverture gained its independence. In 1844 came the rebellion of the eastern portion of the island, resulting in the formation of the present Dominican Republic.

He—I suppose you had that a man should never deceive his wife? She—Oh, no, I wouldn't go as far as that. How would it be possible for the average man to get a wife if he didn't deceive her?—Boston Transcript.

Detained: Mrs. Smith—We missed you so much at our party! Mrs. Jones—And I was so vexed when I couldn't come! You see, our cook had company unexpectedly, and she needed us to fill out the card tables.—Detroit Journal.

Hoping Against Hope: Gayboy (time 1 a. m.)—I say, old chap, isn't this a little late for you to be out? Aren't you afraid your wife will miss you? Ennepek—I hope she will, but she can throw pretty straight for a woman.—Chicago News.

Mrs. Collis—And when you told him I was married did he seem to be sorry? Friend—Oh, yes; he said so quite frankly! Mrs. Collis—Did he really? Friend—Yes, indeed—he said he was extremely sorry, although he didn't know the man personally!

"No, thank you," said Miss De Mure. "I don't care to meet any new young men." "My!" exclaimed Miss Gaddie. "You are select all of a sudden!" "No," replied Miss De Mure, glancing dreamily at her new ring. "I've merely been selected all of a sudden."—Philadelphia Press.

Another brute: Mrs. Pretty—Isn't it strange? Mrs. Beauty has not put on mourning for her husband. Mr. Pretty—I understand that her late husband particularly requested that she should not. Mrs. Pretty—The brute! I suppose he knew how lovely she would look in it.—Pick-Me-Up.

"You ought to have a place in grand opera," remarked the sarcastic passenger who was trying to read. "Oh, I don't know," replied the fat party across the aisle, who was giving an imitation of a song. "I've got a place in Grand Rapids that's good enough for me."—Detroit Journal.

"Yes, sir," said the Denver hotel clerk to the new arrival, "that white-capped mountain away off there is in the Rockies, and it is a hundred and fifty miles from here." "Who would have imagined it was so far?" commented the guest. "Oh," was the airy response from the clerk "if the atmosphere was only a little clearer it would be three hundred miles away."—Judge.

PE-RU-NA, A VALUABLE PREPARATION, WRITES DR. KEMBALL.

RACHAEL KEMBALL, M.D. 334 Virginia St., Buffalo, N.Y.

Most of the Ailments Peculiar to the Female Sex are Due to Catarrh of the Pelvic Organs.

Rachael J. Kamball, M. D., 334 Virginia St., Buffalo, N. Y., is a graduate of the University of Buffalo, class 1884, and has been in the practice of medicine in that city since then. She writes as follows:

"My conviction, supported by experience, is that Peruna is a valuable preparation for all catarrhal affections. I have taken one bottle of Peruna myself and just feel fine. I shall continue to take it."—Rachael J. Kamball, M. D.

Peruna has cured thousands of cases of female weakness. As a rule, however, before Peruna is resorted to several other remedies have been tried in vain. A great many of the patients have taken local treatment, submitted themselves to surgical operations, and taken all sorts of doctor's stuff, without any result.

The reason of so many failures is the fact that diseases peculiar to the female sex are not commonly recognized as being caused by catarrh. These organs are lined by mucous membranes. Any mucous membrane is subject to catarrh.

Catarrh of one organ is exactly the same as catarrh of any other organ. What will cure catarrh of the head will also cure catarrh of the pelvic organs. Peruna cures these cases simply because it cures the catarrh.

Most of the women afflicted with pelvic diseases have no idea that their trouble is due to catarrh. The majority of the people think that catarrh is a disease confined to the head alone. This is not true. Catarrh is liable to attack any organ of the body; throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, stomach, kidneys and especially the pelvic organs.

Many a woman has made this discovery after a long siege of useless treatment. She has made the discovery that her disease is catarrh, and that Peruna can be relied upon to cure catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.
