THE GRAY WOLF.

His Cunning is Unfathomable, and He is Difficult to Catch.

The cunning of the gray wolf is un-fathomable, and it is most difficult to catch napping. He somehow seems to know that iron is associated with man. A piece of iron anywhere will keep him at a distance. If you shoot an antelope, for instance, and just put your spur on the carcass you may leave it as long as you like and no wolf will touch it. A pocket handkerchief will do as well.

Lobo, a great gray wolf who was the king of the pack at Currumpaw, a vast cattle range in New Mexico, was a thinker as well as a ruler. His pack ate nothing but what they had killed themselves, and thus poison was no good. At last a thousand dollars was set upon his head. This brought a noted wolf hunter from Texas, with his pack of great wolfhounds. But again there was failure. Then two other hunters came with subtly devised poisons to work his undoing. Then I came on the scene. First I tried poison, and there was no combination of strychnine, arsenic and prussic acid which I did not use. I put the poisons in cheese melted together with kidney fat, and during the whole process I wore gloves steeped in hot blood. And I scattered the bait all over the ranch. The next morning I went out and found Lobo's tracks, with the bait gone. I was delighted. I followed the track and found another bait gone and yet another. Then I found the three baits piled upon another one and covered with filth. Lobo had evidently carried the first three in his mouth and had taken this means of expressing his utter contempt for my devices. But Lobo's downfall came about through a big white she wolf who was always with him. I managed to catch her in a trap. Then I knew we should soon have Lobo. Night after night he came around the homestead and mourned his mate in long, plaintive howls. I knew he would try to find her body. I set 130 strong steel wolf traps, and in one of these I caught him—a master to constancy. And that was the end of Lobo.—Interview With Ernest Thompson Seton.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

The eastern people make money the easier they want to make it.

Among the many mysteries of childhood is why grown people cry when they are glad.

There are some people who think they have discharged their full duty to you by praying for you.

What do you use most during the day? Do you use the little white lie almost as much as your shoes?

When a man makes one mistake he usually follows it up with three or four before he recovers his balance.

Don't be contented; get any map of the United States, and do you find any mark on it to show that you are on earth?

Every one admits that rich people are not happier than the poor, or as happy, yet every one is striving to become one of the miserable rich.—Aitchison Globe.

Two Wars of Doing Nothing.

I have seen in London only one office where there is any real enthusiasm. And the employees seldom have any interest in the business beyond drawing their salaries. In most of the factories, and even in the offices, they are taught a certain round of duties, and they are allowed to do nothing else. They seldom suggest improvements for fear of losing their places, where in America they'd soon lose their places if they didn't make suggestions. Here it's the firm in its private offices and everybody else doing as little as possible and never stepping out of the rut they're put in, and there it's everybody working together, coats off, and the head of the concern glad to listen to the office boy and to do as he says if it means results.—Vanity Fair.

Ancient Eggs in China.

A German epicure comes to the rescue of the Chinese in regard to their alleged habit of eating rotten eggs. The eggs, he says, are simply preserved in lime until they get a consistency like that of hard butter and they taste somewhat like lobster. He declares

"Bob White" in Oregon.

A few years ago a number of Eastern or "Bob White" quail were turned loose in the fields near Albany, Oregon, where they have been allowed to increase until now they are becoming quite plentiful in that section of the state where their cheery call of "Bob White," proceeding from some sheltered thicket or from a fence post upon a wet morning, gladdens the heart of the agriculturalist as he goes to his daily work in the nearby fields. State game warden J. W. Baker, whose home is in Cottage Grove, recently received a shipment of 16 of these splendid little birds from Jefferson, Oregon, which he turned loose in the vicinity of Cottage Grove, in the hope that they would multiply and repopulate that locality, which they surely will do if given any protection whatever. Every body coming to the coast from the Eastern or Central states are familiar with "Bob White" and his cheery call and will be pleased to welcome the little fellow to the beautiful hills and valleys of "The Oregon Country" where he will not be exposed to such extremely cold and inclement weather as in his native home.

Let us hope that within the next few years, the "Bob White" quail as well as the Chinese pheasant, will become so numerous in Southern Oregon as to be a perfect nuisance were such a thing possible.

This country should be a perfect sportsman's paradise, and with proper care and protection of game, it will become and remain such for many years, as the climatic conditions here for both game and fish, are unexcelled in America.

The pills that act as a tonic, and not as a drastic purge, are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. They cure Headache, Constipation, Billiousness, etc. Early Risers are small, easy to take and easy to act—a safe pill. Mack Hamilton, hotel clerk at Valley City, N. D., says: "Two bottles cured me of chronic constipation." Sold by The Modern Pharmacy.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes.

We desire to place in the hands of those afflicted with Bright's Disease and Diabetes a 36-page pamphlet that is saving human lives. It is not an ordinary pamphlet, such as is commonly used to advertise medicines, but is principally made up of reports of scientifically conducted tests in a large variety of cases, showing 87 per cent of recoveries in these hitherto incurable diseases.

The specimens employed in these tests are known as the Fulton Compounds and the results obtained prove conclusively that these dreaded diseases so long fatal (the deaths from Bright's Disease alone are appalling, over 100,000 a year, starting as kidney troubles) have at last yielded to medical science. The pamphlet is free. Write to the John J. Fulton Co., 469 Washington street, San Francisco, Cal.

When to suspect Bright's Disease—Puffy ankles or hands; weakness without apparent cause; kidney trouble after third month; frequent urination; (may show sediment or cloudy on standing); falling vision; day drowsiness—one or more of these.
