A wife has no business sewing for the heathen when her husband wears a long-tailed coat to prevent embarrassment.

S. F. Call: Foraker is said to be the most dramatic statesman in American public life, and in nominating McKinley at St. Louis, he will have a stage, a role and an audience that will give him a splendid chance to show his talent.

Pendleton Tribune: Farmers are congratulating themselves on the splendid prospects of a big crop this year. Interest now centers in what the opening price for wheat will be. Local dealers are inclined to believe that the price will vary between 35 and 40 cents.

The hay crop in this county is going to be very heavy, that is unless the showery weather continues so that it cannot be made. The damp weather of the past week has been seasonable for the late seeded field.—Hillsboro Independent.

The Boston Courier suggests that girls who contemplate purchasing a bicycle would do well to harden their muscles in advance by running their mother's sewing machine or rocking the baby. And it may be suggested as an addendum that if there is no sewing machine or baby in the house, there is probably a wash tub.

The California Fruit Grower says that strawberry sandwiches will prove a pleasing novelty for picnics or on the afternoon tea table. They are easily prepared, being simply large strawberries cut in slices, covered with sifted sugar and placed between thin slices of a French roll delicately spread with butter. They must be made just before serving.

The California Fruit Grower says the stock of prunes remaining on hand in California is limited to about 30 cars and these are fast going into consumption, but at low prices. At the present time conditions are favorable for a larger crop than last season. Indications point to better than 60,000,000 pounds of cured prunes as the crop of 1896.

Rural Northwest: There seemed at one time to be good reason to hope that the present Congress would place a duty of at least five cents per pound on wool. It has failed to do so, however, and failure is most severely felt in the Pacific Northwest. A duty of this amount would have added a million dollars a year to Oregon's income.

Rural Northwest: The rapid increase in the amount of flour exported from Oregon and Washington has an important bearing upon the development of the dairy industry from the fact that it largely increases the supply of bran and shorts. It is to be hoped that before many years our surplus wheat will be exported only in the form of flour.

The boys relate an excellent story regarding a certain candidate's speech while on an electioneering tour. He had a large audience of ladies and gentlemen and in course of his speech delivered himself of the following: "Now, you can buy a cow for $15, but you can get a better one for $20; you can hire a school teacher for $15 a month but it pays better to pay $20 for a good one. Your cheap cow won't give much milk, and it is the same way with your school teacher." This brought the house down.

The Hood River strawberry crop is still backward about ripening. On Wednesday night something over 100 crates were shipped to Montana. Prices in the Montana market remain good for Hood river berries. At Butte they have been selling for $7 a crate. In some early localities the crop was injured by the frost and cold rains, but on the whole, the crop is better than for several years. The prospect is considered good for prices ruling as high as they did last year throughout the season. Hillsboro Independent.

The city of Johnstown, Pa., which was overwhelmed by the waters of a broken dam May 31, 1889, engulfing several thousand people, is now a handsome and thriving place of 40,000 inhabitants, having added 10,000 to its population since that calamity. Johnstown lost 7 per cent of its citizens in the raging torrent, and yet it is now one of the most prosperous cities of its size in the state. American pluck has always been found equal to every emergency.

Rural Northwest: The bulk of the output of the creameries of Coos County, Oregon, has always gone to San Francisco. This year it has been found necessary to relieve the Portland market by shipping creamery butter from this city to San Francisco. As soon as our Northwest dairymen have made a little more progress conditions will be ripe here for the successful establishment of condensed milk factories.

Rural Northwest: The farmers of the United States are not going to quit raising wheat for export because of the low price which has prevailed for a few years. When the price of wheat falls below the profitable limit it is only a question of time until the price of all other farm products follow to the same unprofitable limit, as is exemplified by the present state of affairs. Until the price of wheat again reaches a paying figure there is little reason to hope for a restoration of profitable prices in other lines of farm products except as a result of unusual shortage of crop.

The following are the officers for 1896-1897, of the Grand Chapter of Oregon, O. E. S.: Frances A. Helm, Worthy Grand Matron, Corvallis; John Vert, Worthy Grand Patron, Pendleton; Margaret Lutke, Associate Grand Matron, Portland; C. H. James, Associate Grand Patron, Portland; Madeleine B. Conkling, Gr. Sec. 12 Pitzer St. Roseburg; Gertrude M. Strange, Grand Treasurer, Oregon City; Carrie Wise, Grand Conductress, Myrtle Point; Jennie Muckle, Associate Gr. Conductress, St. Helens; Wm. Clemmens, Grand Lecturer, Dayton; Anna M. Baley, Grand Chaplain, Pendleton; Minnie E. Lee, Grand Marshal, Corvallis; Mamie P. Brown, Grand Adah, Heppner; Clara Darling, Gr. Rath, Condon; Susan J. Heppner, Grand Ester, Portland; Ora X. Maury, Grand Martha, Coquille City; Electa E. Colvin, Grand Electa, Lakeview; Barbra Crabbill, Grand Warder, Baker City; L. S. Stone, Grand Sentinel, Portland; Clara Burkholder, Grand Organist, Cottage Grove.

The eight Annual Communication will be held in Portland, Second Monday in June, 1897.

A NEWSPAPER'S WORST ENEMY. First and foremost the man who owes a newspaper an honest debt and will not pay it, can be counted as an enemy. The man who wants an office and complains because the newspaper will not champion him in preference to all others, is pretty apt to be come an enemy. The man who wants to dictate to a paper, and is not allowed to do so, is a sure enemy. The ruffian and the bully never like a bold and fearless newspaper. The sneak and the coward fear newspapers and consequently do not like them. But of all men that a newspaper man should dislike, it is the man whom it has befriended and assisted, and who proves the ingrate—who turns his back on the paper after securing all from it possible. We can respect in a certain degree an open and avowed enemy, but an ingrate, never.—Jacksonville (Fla.) Metropolis.

Old People. Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price fifty cents and $1.00 per bottle at J. A. Benson's Drug Store.

"Yes" said the old man, addressing his young visitor: "I'm proud of my girls and should like to see them comfortably married; and as I've made a little money, they won't go to their husbands penniless. There's Mary 25 years old, and a real good girl, I shall give her $5000 when she marries. Then comes Bet, who won't see 35 again, shall have $10,000; and the man who takes Elza, who is forty, will have $15,000 with her." The young man reflected a moment or so and then nervously inquired: "You haven't one about fifty, have you?"—Ex.

Two Lives Saved. Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Mo., was told by her doctors that she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result, everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at J. A. Benson's Drug Store. Regular sizes 50c and $1.00.

When falling, out of a tree or down a steep declivity, bears will roll themselves into a close resemblance to a huge furry ball, and thus escape without injury. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

THE HORSE GOT EVEN. The bicycle has within the past few years come into such general use that it has threatened to drive the noblest of all animals, the horse, either to the cannery or to the butcher's shambles, hence it is the horse has little affection for the nineteenth-century machine. He views it with distrust whenever he meets it in the road, and looks upon it as something to be despised. He shuns it as he would a viper, refusing to have anything in common with the messy thing. County Clerk Kelsay has a noble, high-bred horse who has on all occasions treated the bicycle with perfect contempt, even refusing to look at one when he would meet it in the road, and his dignity was sorely taxed the other evening when Master Claud brought a bran new scorchier into the barn and stabled it under the same roof with the spirited equine. The horse bore the insult bravely for awhile, only giving the intruding visitor an occasional disdainful glance; but after he was left alone to his own meditations he began to get mad and determined to even up on the object of his downfall. The halter was easily broken, and he began at once on his work of destruction. He kicked the bicycle all over the stable, and when he had appeased his wrath, the bike looked like it had gone through a St. Louis cyclone. The horse got even, but Master Claud never will. Times-Mountaineer.

Rural Northwest: The leading wheat-growing countries of the Willamette Valley did not produce as much wheat in 1894 as in 1884 according to the census returns for 1885 and 1895. It is by no means certain, however, that these countries will not at some future time produce more wheat than ever before. There are few places in the world where wheat yields as abundantly as in this valley and as more intensive methods of farming come into use it will be found that the valley can enormously increase its agricultural productions in other directions, and at the same time produce more wheat than ever before. There will be less bare summer fallow and much less idle land when that time comes.

When you find a person who has tried Simmons Liver Regulator you are sure to hear them say something in its favor. Mrs. G. T. Judy, Blue Grass, Ill., recently wrote: "I cannot do without Simmons Liver Regulator since I know the value of it as a family medicine." And Dr. W. P. Gibbs, of Beauford, S. C., says: "I prescribe Simmons Liver Regulator and know it to be a first class liver medicine."

A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker recommends the following method of canning strawberries: First put a table spoon of water in a stew dish, then put in the fruit and place the sugar on top of the fruit. Place the dish on the back of the stove, cover closely and cook slowly until done when it should be canned in the usual way. It is claimed that berries prepared in this way do not rise to the top of the juice in the cans as they are apt to do when the fruit is prepared in the common way.

Rural Northwest: The first spraying of apple trees for the Codlin moth should have been done by this time. It will be well now to tie strips of burlap, old sacks or old cloth of any kind around the trees. Once a week go through the orchard take off the bands, kill the worms and replace the bands. The growers who are most successful in producing clean apples generally use the bands as an auxiliary to spraying.

Millgrubs is inclined to low spirits at times. In one of these spells he grumbled the other day, "This is a dreary world; that's the reason I hate doctors—they helped bring me into it." Here he stopped but brightening up a moment later he added, "However, they help us out of it in the end; so they are not so bad after all."—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Fret—If I had money enough to go abroad and stay a year I would be perfectly happy. Mr. Fret—So would I.—Detroit Free Press.

"Do you notice how time flies Tommy?" "Yes, in." "In what way?" "Why, seems to me 'taint been a week since I wuz licked for skating on thin ice, 'taint night I got it again for goin' in swimmin'!"—Chicago Record.

Walter F. Eagle is the name given by a young man arrested at the Erie railroad depot at Rutherford, N. J., who imagined he was a locomotive, and insisted in stopping express trains. He is about twenty years old. He said he lived at Los Angeles, Cal., and said he had been in an insane asylum. His clothing is of the best quality and he appears to be well educated.

Poor Economy

By all means be economical, but don't be too economical where health or life is concerned. The matter of a few cents should never count between the old, standard and reliable preparations and the new, obscure, and in many cases, almost worthless substitutes.

SCOTT'S Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites is as much the standard for all conditions of wasting in children and adults where the lungs are weak or affected, as quinine is the standard for malarial fevers. When you go to a store to get Scott's Emulsion, don't be fooled into taking something else they say "is just as good." It isn't. Scott's Emulsion has gained its reputation by its superior merit, and nothing of its kind has ever equalled it. Your doctor will tell you that.

Roseburg Plaindealer: The "filled cheese" bill passed by the Senate is analogous to the Oeomarginate act of a few years ago in the respect that its purpose is to tax an objectionable manufacture out of existence. Filled cheese is made by using skimmed milk and lard instead of cream. It is not unwholesome, but it competes with the better article to the injury of the farmers, and therefore they want protection against it in the form of a tax high enough to take away the profits of those who are engaged in its production.

The title Oregon Agricultural College is somewhat misleading by limitation. The institution is also a mechanical college and is in fact a college of general sciences. The literary courses are far from being neglected and the young man or woman who thoroughly masters the courses at the O. A. C., is well fitted to prosecute any special pursuit his inclination and taste may choose. The scope and practicality of the work at this institution are but faintly comprehended by even some of its warmest friends. The people of the state are fast awaking to its value, and indications point to a largely increased attendance next autumn.—Corvallis Gazette.

Rural Northwest: While this is a most discouraging season for the fruit growers of Western Oregon and Western Washington, it will not do to give up, and neglect the orchards. Those growers who are so discouraged with the business of fruit growing that they will not take proper care of their orchard's should proceed to grub up their trees as fast as possible. Neglected orchards will certainly bring their owners no profits and are likely to become public nuisances. Those who have healthy, vigorous trees will hardly feel like digging them up, and therefore should give them proper care in order that they may be in condition to give good returns another year.

Sixty per cent of the world's supply of sugar is contributed by the sugar beet, much as this fact may surprise us. Most of us would declare that we had never tasted beet sugar, for, of course, we would know it if we had. This does away with the fallacy of beet sugar being yet but an experiment.

A resident of Oklahoma writes to a Salem friend that last week he stood on the porch of his farm house and counted eight cyclones, one of which took away all of his farm buildings and improvements. The Oklahoma man has a fine farm, but is uncertain just how long he will be able to hold it down, and his eyes are turning longingly toward Oregon—the land where cyclones and blizzards are unknown.

A Kentucky poultryman carefully preserved and weighed the manure from the flock. He got an average of 65 pounds per bird during the year, and analysis showed that this 65 pounds of droppings contained two pounds nitrogen and one and a third pounds each of potash and phosphoric acid, all worth 50 cents in the fertilizer market. As he got only the manure dropped at night, he concludes that each hen produces a dollar's worth of manure in a year, if she runs under plum or peach trees. In that case, her food, and her products will be clear profit.

The cloves we use are flowers gathered before they have opened, and while they are still green. After being gathered they are smoked by a wood fire and then dried in the sun. Each clove consists of two parts, a round head, which is the four petals or leaves of the flower rolled up enclosing a number of small stalks or filaments. The sleepy drowsy lens are not the ones that lay the greatest number of eggs.

At the regular business meeting of the Cottage Grove, Epworth League, Chapter No. 11485, held Saturday evening June 6th, 1896 the following officers were elected for the ensuing term ending Dec. 8th, 1896:

- L. L. Lewis, President. W. W. Tait, 1st Vice President. Mrs. Wm. Veatch, 2nd Vice President. E. C. Conner, 3rd Vice President. Nellie E. Curren, 4th Vice President. Alta King, Secretary. Edgar F. Wood, Treasurer. Myrtle Ostrander, Organist.

An Oregon City business man's watch failed to faithfully record the passing cycles of time, and on Tuesday last he sent it to a jeweler for repairs. Shortly afterward the jeweler returned with the time piece and stated that a bugbear was inside of the works, and stopped the progress of the wheels and intricate machinery. Several bystanders roared at the discomfiture of the owner of the watch who indignantly asserted that he had no bugbears on his person or in his house. He refused to view the bugbear in the works of his watch or be comforted!

O. F. Tyler, a son of President Tyler, is under arrest at Richmond, Va., charged with shooting Jack Carr, a young negro. Tyler admits the shooting, but claims it was done in self defence.

A shipment of 150 tons of copper from the Ducktown (Tenn.) mines has been made at Swansea, Wales.

No Air, No Life. Pneumonia suffocates because the swollen tubes get solid, and keep air from the lungs. Dr. Acker's English Remedy reduces the inflammation so the patient breathes freely, and is soon well. Miss R. Ray, 312 W. 2nd St., N. Y., says: "When threatened with pneumonia, I took one bottle of Dr. Acker's English Remedy, and the pain and cough disappeared."

LEIGH HARNETT DEAD.—The dead body of Leigh Harnett was found this week, on Wolf creek a short distance above the railroad station. He was lying in an old cabin and had been dead several weeks. Whether he had committed suicide or died from natural causes is not known but the supposition is that his death was natural. Deceased was an old bachelor, never having been married. He was perhaps 65 or 70 years of age. At one time he was mining correspondent for the Oregonian and later on held the same position on the Odsverer for a year or more. He was a '49er in the California gold fields and became well to do, but lost his wealth in speculation.—Grants Pass Odsverer.

The Rocky Mountain Husbandman reports that the demand for butter and eggs in that state is better than usual which is an encouraging symptom. A lady was once lamenting the ill luck which attended her affairs, when a friend, wishing to console her, bade her "look upon the bright side." "Oh," she sighed, "there seems no bright side." "Then polish up the dark one," was the quick reply. It is a mistake to suppose night air in towns is unhealthy. In most cases it is purer between 10 and 6 in the morning than any other part of the twenty-four hours. It is beneficial to sleep with the window open four inches from the top, and the door tightly closed.

Hawaiian huckleberries grow in clusters on low bushes right on the very brink of the brimstone beds and are so numerous that a bushel may be easily gathered in half an hour. In appearance they somewhat resemble a cranberry, and the flavor is pleasantly suggestive of grapes.

Arrange the drinking vessels so as to keep the little fowls out of them as getting wet in any way is injurious to the health.
