A Liberal Proposition.

He offers to furnish all necessary tools and facilities for carrying on the work. The improvements to be made are mostly straightening out of the road, taking out stumps and rocks and grading up with gravel, between here and the Warehouse.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Topics of the Times as told by Travelers in Town.

During the week Hon. R. M. Veatch was up from Roseburg and in a conversation concerning the resources and opportunities of this place, became enthusiastic over the prospects. He said there was more land being entered in the land office at Roseburg just now than for years before, and that most of it is by an industrious and intelligent class of people. He spoke in glowing terms of the development of Bohemia mines and the benefit the town will receive from them. He also said that it is manifest that the reports of the mines are beginning to attract attention and that by the time some of these now under way are in operation the trade will tax the capacity of the town.

Mr. G. G. Gould a traveling salesman was in town during the week and when not extolling the good qualities and cheapness of his goods, puts in his time talking Rawlstonism. Mr. Gould is an ardent advocate of Rawlstonism and when not selling good things to eat he is selling that which teaches how and when to eat. The most remarkable thing about this is its novel method of disseminating its ideas. The system is simply the practice of hygiene in the attractive form of a society with degrees and emoluments. When asked to explain the object of the society and its method he said:

"The object of the society is to produce a more perfect race of people and secure to them perfect health and longevity without the use of drugs or medicine. This idea of disseminating hygienic methods originated with Prof. Rawlston of the University of Penn. about ten years ago. The plan consists of a series of fascinating books upon foods and habits of life, and membership in the society known as the Rawlston Health Club. Each book represents a degree. The theory advanced is that the influence of the literature and membership, breaks up bad habits and teaches to observe better ones and proper diet. The use of distilled water is particularly observed. In some places where there are clubs of large membership, concerts are engaged in the distillation of water and deliver it to the families of Rawlstonites." He told of many remarkable instances of restoration to health by simply observing the teachings of the book also the perfect health of families where the Rawlston method is in practice. They believe that we will reach a civilization where doctors will be unknown and drugs unused and that good health alone will produce a superior race and civilization.

Among the visitors in town during the week was the Rev. Father Black of Eugene. The reverend gentleman as well as being a theologian is a philosopher and a student of economics, especially those pertaining to the public policies of this country and phases of American modes of life. Father Black is a Virginian of old revolutionary stock and is intensely American in his notions of government and national policies. In the course of a conversation with him the theme soon turned to the topics of the times, our financial agitation, and the gentleman advanced some ideas from somewhat below the surface. He said: "Our present financial agitation is but the froth of the real substance. Any or all of the theories put forward regarding money are all right, and that any or all them are all wrong, according to the amount of mind pressure brought to bear. Money is largely a matter of confidence and confidence must be established and maintained to have business go along smoothly. There is much that is radically wrong and much of it cannot be charged up to either dishonest or unwise officials. Our chief trouble is our foreign debt, not only our national debt but private and corporation debts, whose interest is paid in gold. The amount of money going out of this country for that alone is a drain that it cannot stand. That alone is the chief trouble. One third of the productive capacity of labor and land goes to Europe and England as interest on various forms of debts."

Do you favor the attempt to pay the bonds in silver?

Certainly.

Would not that be repudiation?

Not at all, it was tacitly understood that the bonds should be redeemable in either silver or gold, but since they were issued the financial sharps of England and Europe conspired to make money in appreciating the value of gold by demonizing silver. This they succeeded in doing and whether silver is worth fifty cents an ounce or a dollar an ounce the course of the decline is due wholly to their actions, and they should be made to bear the burden.

But don't those ideas savour somewhat of anarchy?

Not at all, that is good law that serves the interest of humanity.

An Artistic Stick.

Whitney the sprinter, who was arrested here and taken back to Deer Lodge, Montana, about a year ago, to serve out an unfinished term in the penitentiary, has sent to a friend here an artistically carved cane. The whole surface of the cane is covered with A. O. U. W. emblems. He requested to have the cane sold or disposed of for his benefit. Whitney's career is somewhat interesting. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for forcibly taking a wager from a man made up in a footrace, and after nearly serving out his term, he sprinted away from the guards. While out he engaged in some sensational races about here, but was finally discovered by the Montana officials and taken back to Deer Lodge.

THEY HELPED THEMSELVES

Craftsman take another Horse, Harness and Hack.

Last Wednesday morning when Frank Veatch went out to his barn he found there a cart that did not belong to him, but discovered that he was short one horse, a double set of harness and a hack, and it did not take him long to come to a conclusion as to the cause of their absence. It required no great mental exertion to conclude that some one who had come along with one horse and cart, became tired of that way of traveling and exchanged his cart for a four wheeled vehicle, another horse and a double harness. This was quite evident from the fact that one horse could not very well haul away the hack, at least, that is the way that Mr. Veatch figures it out, and the person who made the exchange only took what he thought he ought to have. But Mr. Veatch does not like the trade, the horse was the best of several in the barn and the hack and harness was nearly new, besides he has since learned that the owner of the cart lives at Roseburg and that it was stolen from there some time ago. Immediately after it was discovered that the property was taken Mr. Veatch started in pursuit, but up to date no accounts have been made of arresting the persons. Tracks about the premises indicate that there was a woman in the party and that they were going north. It has since been learned that there was a horse and cart stolen from Roseburg a few days ago, and the cart left here answers the description. The persons who took them probably did so as a means of escape from the first offender; a good rig will better enable them to make their escape.

BASE BALL.

Cottage Grove defeated by Coyote at Base Ball.

An interesting and exciting game of base ball was played at Cottage Grove, July 19, between the Cottage Grove and Coyote base ball clubs, resulting in Cottage Grove's defeat. The game was close and exciting throughout, and neither club at any time had a sufficient lead to be confident of the game till it ended. Cottage Grove's defeat was due undoubtedly to the lack of practice. Following is the score by innings:

Coyote 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16
Cottage Grove 1 1 1 2 1 3 0 4 1 1 4

Batteries, Coyote—Hayes, Holland and Braunstrater. Cottage Grove—McQueen and McFarland.

In The Dark.

Eugene is in the dark so far as street lights are concerned. The contract between the city and the electric light company expired on the tenth of this month, and since that time the council and company have failed to agree on terms for a new contract. The city claims that retrenchment must be effected and is willing to take a less number of lights at nearly the old price per light, but to this the company demurs. It is estimated there will be a deficit in this year of at least $1500. Two saloons failed to take out license, a loss of $800 and it is thought the loss from decreased valuations in assessments will not amount to much less than $1000. Last year it was $1100.

HE SMOKED THEM OUT.

A Smoke to Smoke out a Chicken House causes some Excitement.

A large smoke and a small fire last Wednesday evening caused the usual excitement and little damage. It happened in this way; Mr. Frank Garotte lives at the corner of Third and Bridge streets, and is a raiser of chickens on a small scale. Lately his chickens have been very much troubled with vermin, and to get rid of them he conceived the idea of roasting the chicken house and so he gathered up the old nests, feathers and straw into a heap in the house and set it on fire, and then went to his house to contemplate satisfaction as the stifling fumes of the burning feathers prevailed all the while in the neighborhood. He could see in his mind visions of vermin migrating to a cooler climate, and millions more sizzling in the fire. But before long the overpowering odor attracted the attention of the neighbors and then they discovered that Mr. Garotte's chicken house was enveloped in smoke. In a little while fire and flame followed, and then there was a hurrying and skurrying of women with water buckets to extinguish the fire. By this time some one had turned in the fire alarm and Eagle Hose Co. appeared on the scene without any hose; it had been reeled off several blocks away. Of course, by this time the fire was out, so was everybody in town, who had nothing else to do but gape at the Hose Co. and make comments upon Mr. Garotte's effectual method of exterminating his lice.

TOOK DINNER IN THE WOODS.

A party of town people took their dinner in baskets out to the woods last Sunday morning and spent the day under the trees by the banks of Row river.

Among the party were Mr. and Mrs. Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. Bristow, Mr. and Mrs. Lurch, Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Curran, Mr. and Mrs. Cleaver, Miss Lillie and Celie Lurch, Mr. J. B. Lurch.

Not a few who read what Mr. Robert Rowls, of Holland, Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances: "Last winter I had a gripe which I tried in a low state of health, I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. A. For pain in the chest a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of the pain, and another on the back between the shoulders, will afford prompt relief. DESTROYED BY FIRE

The Wallace Tile Factory at Creswell Burned.

Sunday at 1 p. m. the only tile manufactory in Lane county, owned by Rev. C. H. Wallace and sons, and located at Creswell was destroyed by fire.

It seems that the burning of a kiln of tile had just been completed and the proprietors had gone away to let it cool off, when by means unknown it took fire and was destroyed. It is thought that some of the tile will be saved. Several brick moulds and three wheel barrows were also burned. The tile machine was saved. The loss is estimated at 1,500, with no insurance.

This is a hard blow on the gentlemen, as they are poor men and had all their means invested in the plant.
